Canyon Flood Claims Heavy Colorado Toll

Motorists Are Engulfed as Torrent Sweeps Over Roads.

Morrison, Colo., July 7 (U.P.).—At least a dozen lives were lost today as a sudden mountain cloudburst poured a 10-foot wall of water down Bear Creek Canyon upon a string of resort towns and fishing cabins.

Two towns, Morrison and Starbuck, were almost wiped out as the torrential flood struck. Scores of cabins along the canyon between the two points were destroyed.

Property damage ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Every bridge along the canyon between Morrison and Starbuck was washed out, and long stretches of the road itself were destroyed.

Hundreds of head of live stock were drowned.

Four Bodies Recovered.

Four bodies had been recovered late tonight, available reports indicated. The body of a pretty young woman was found at the bank of the stream near here, and that of a youth of about 20 was later recovered not far from Morrison. Neither had been identified, although it was believed possible the woman was Mrs. Sylvia Soderman, of Denver, known to be among the missing.

Two more bodies were recovered just below Starbuck, 6 miles upstream, reports to Deputy Coroner J. C. Rose, of Jefferson County, said. These could not be confirmed due to the lack of communication facilities.

Known Missing Listed.

Other known missing and believed dead were:

W. L. Burton, of Starbuck.

Ben Corby, his younger brother.

Reports from Starbuck, reached on foot by a rescue party from here after all telephone lines had failed, said that the town was a shambles, and that at least nine persons were missing.

Not one house in the town, where ordinarily about 150 persons live, was untouched, it was said. Debris lay in the streets, and shattered automobiles were all along the stream.

From Starbuck to Morrison, returning members of the party said, wrecked cars were numerous, with no traces of their occupants to be found.

Three Tourists Missing.

Burton, reported missing at Starbuck, was operator of a hamburger stand. As the flood rushed down upon his stand, witnesses said, he was serving the Corbi children. He was seen to seize one of them under each arm and start for higher ground. Then the wall of water, moving at terrific speed down the canyon, caught him.

Three others missing there were said to have been tourists, driving a car with a New Mexico license. Their identity was unknown. Their wrecked car was found smashed by

Lindbergh Clearance Papers Are Issued

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh obtained clearance papers at the custom house today for his projected flight to the Arctic with Mrs. Lindbergh. His monoplane, with himself listed as "master," was cleared for Halifax, Nova Scotia, his first stop.

Some equipment remains to be installed in the plane and tested, and the time of the takeoff is indefinite. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, accompanied by Harold Gatty, who flew around the world with Wiley Post, visited the hangar today to inspect the ship.

Gold Firms Expect Export Ban to Lift

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The Herald Tribune says mining companies expect a favorable decision from President Roosevelt within a few days on a resolution approved by the Treasury Department to permit the exportation of newly mined gold. The resolution would modify the Executive order putting an embargo on gold exports.

Presidential approval of the free exportation of new gold, the paper says, would immediately increase by almost a third the price mining companies are getting for their metal.

Under the law, the price of new gold at the mint is $20.67 an ounce, it is explained, but the current depreciation of the dollar has sent the international price for the metal to between $28 and $30 an ounce.

The mining companies are reported to have promised to raise the pay of all their workers 10 per cent if permitted to export their gold.

Extension Held Vital to Speed Cotton Relief

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

The cotton acreage reduction program appeared virtually certain of acceptance last night and as a result the next six weeks will see upward of $100,000,000 pouring into the 16 cotton States.

An extension of the time for growers to sign contracts to plow up from 25 to 30 per cent of their present crop is believed necessary by President Roosevelt, however, and this will be authorized formally today by Secretary Wallace.

The President was described yesterday as well satisfied with the progress made in obtaining agreements for producers to plow up a part of their crop in return for cash payments and options on Government-held cotton.

At the same time that he authorizes a time extension for signing contracts, Wallace will make public the figures showing the number of acres growers have agreed to take out of production. State extension directors were instructed to forward their latest totals to the Secretary.

The campaign, under way during the last two weeks, was to have ended Saturday night but numerous delays, particularly in distributing blank forms to growers, made it impossible to give all of them a chance to act on the proposal. There are nearly 2,000,000 cotton growers and Wallace wishes to have each of them given an adequate opportunity to act before the campaign is closed.

As drawn, the program calls for a tabulation of offers from all States after the campaign has ended. The contracts are to be accepted on a basis which will make it possible for Wallace to make the largest possible reduction of the potential crop for the money available for payments and options. Wallace desires to reduce the crop by at least 3,000,000 bales.

His formal acceptance of the plan and announcement that it will be put into effect will be withheld pending this tabulation, but the progress made up to last night was reliably reported to have convinced the President, Wallace and farm administrators that there was virtually no doubt about its employment.

A processing tax aimed to raise about $100,000,000 to provide funds for the cash payments will be put into effect about August 1, at the maximum rate, which is expected to be about 4 cents a pound.

Meanwhile, farm officials looked forward as keenly as operators at market centers for today's first official cotton report of this year. It will be made public by the crop reporting board at 11 a. m. (E. S. T.) and will provide the Government's first estimate of this year's cotton acreage.

3,000 Reds Slain In Chinese Battle

Shanghai, China, July 7 (A.P.).—The national government troops of Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek, which have been fighting Communists in Kiangsi Province, crushingly defeated the Reds in the southern portion of the province during the past few days, according to Chinese advices from Nanchang.

The military forces under the Nanking marshal, who has headquarters at Nanchang, defeated 60,000 Communists near Ihwang, 100 miles south of Nanchang, killing 3,000, with a government loss of 1,000.

Marshal Chang asserted that the victory climaxed many months of campaigning.

Crazed Park Policeman in Wild Attacks

Goltry Shoots One Boy and Beats Five He Finds at Play.

Claims Band of Youths Assaulted Him Near Golf Course.

Apparently suddenly crazed by a delusion that a fellow officer had been killed, Vernon O. Goltry, a park policeman, last night attacked a group of six boys he found playing on the Anacostia Flats near the golf course, shooting one in the foot and beating all of them with his revolver.

Brandishing his revolver and shouting, "Who killed Bickford?" the policeman forced them to stand in line, the boys said. "I'll give you two minutes to tell me," he screamed at the frightened boys. When they made no answer, he became infuriated and started belaboring them with the butt of his revolver and firing promiscuously, they declared.

Victims and Their Injuries.

The boys were:

John Ellis, 15, 1221 V street southeast, shot in foot and cut and bruised about the head.

Charles Knott, 16, 1515 W street southeast, cut and bruised about the face and head.

Stanley Cox, 15, 1347 W street southeast, the only boy to escape from the crazed policeman, dashed from the scene on a bicycle. He was met by another group of boys, who were alarmed by the shots and screams.

Cowed by City Police.

The policeman was finally taken into custody by Eleventh Precinct policemen, sent to the scene by a radio order, but only after they had threatened to shoot him down if he did not give up.

The policemen said he was still waving his gun menacingly at every one he saw when they arrived.

Whether the man was crazed by drink or had suddenly become demented could not be determined by police. The man whom he thought had been killed evidently was A. G. Bickford, a regular park policeman, also assigned to the Anacostia Flats territory, whose beat Goltry was covering.

When taken into custody by the Eleventh Precinct police, Goltry was immediately turned over to the Park Police. The boys were given first-aid treatment at Casualty Hospital and three of them, Knott, Stoll and Hammond were transferred to Gallinger Hospital. Ellis, the boy who was shot, was treated at his home by a private physician.

Declared Not Intoxicated.

It was reported later that after examining Goltry, Dr. Fred Y. Williamson, 3619 Legation street northwest, declared he was not intoxicated, but was "highly excited."

Park Police reported that boys had been giving trouble in the Anacostia Flat district, and Goltry had been ordered to watch for troublesome boys.

Goltry was suspended from the Park Police Force and his equipment taken from him. He also was returned to the Eleventh Precinct, where he was confronted with the victims of his attack. With their heads bandaged and bruised faces treated, the boys were a motley spectacle. Their families were also at the station house, the mothers sobbing and men indignant over the episode.

"Ganging" Threats Told.

Goltry told police the boys were yelling and that he had gone to quiet them. When he arrived, he said, one of the boys struck him from behind, and then they all "ganged" him. He claimed he fired only one shot into the ground, but Eleventh Precinct police said his gun was empty.

Lieut. Henry Helms, of the Park Police, said Goltry had been on the force more than a year and had an excellent record.

Goltry was being held at the Eleventh Precinct for investigation. He was ordered to make a report to the Park Police today.

Governor of Arizona Calls Repeal Election

Phoenix, Ariz., July 7 (A.P.).—Gov. B. B. Moeur today issued a proclamation calling for the election August 8 of delegates to a State convention to act upon repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

A special primary election already had been called on this date to nominate candidates for the office of representative to succeed Lewis Douglas, who resigned to become director of the Federal budget.

MRS. JAMES MATTERN, who yesterday received news of her husband's safety.

Mattern Safe, Fatigued Wife Plans to Rest

Will Delay Celebration; Steps Taken to Rescue Flier in Siberia.

Walla Walla, Wash., July 7 (A.P.). Not until Jimmie Mattern gets back to New York will Mrs. Mattern, here since the flier began his trip around the world about a month ago, start making plans for greeting him.

"And when I do," she said here today amid smiles that showed her relief over the news that Mattern was on the Siberian coast, "I'll wear that red dress I started knitting when he started around the world.

"I am trying to catch a few winks of sleep," she replied in answer to a query as to how she was celebrating the good news of her husband's safety today.

"I've lost a little sleep these nights lately, wondering," she said.

Although frequently Mrs. Mattern has given successful hunches to reporters on her husband's probable movements, she would not predict today what his next course would be.

"I'll just stay here and get the news with the rest of you," she said, "and waiting for news will be much easier now."

"It has been agonizing at times as days and days passed without any word from Jimmie, but I have remembered how isolated that wild country is and that three weeks really isn't so long up there.

"I have told myself confidently all along that Jimmie would show up, but there were morose moments when I would wonder if I were really right in my hopes. It is dreadfully hard to stay calm for so long, even with confidence like I had. I have been waiting a long time for that news and it is wonderful."

(Associated Press.)

A five-word message from Jimmie Mattern, missing for 23 days on a world solo flight, set in motion last night swift attempts to reach him in the isolated Siberian trading post of Anadir.

Receipt in Moscow and the United States of the terse message, saying merely the 28-year-old Texan was safe, was followed by an order to the Coast Guard cutter Northland to hasten to the village, a 24-hour trip.

William Alexander, pilot of an expedition dispatched last week from New York to rescue Mattern, announced at Prince Rupert, B. C., that he would seek the use of one of several flying boats in that vicinity for a trip to Anadir.

U. S. Workers Fight Spoils Policy Gains

Cabinet Fails to Consider Rehiring; One Quarter Backs Discharges.

Employes Meet Today to Register for New Jobs; Results Promised.

By Robert C. Albright.

The Government's civil service establishment is facing the test of half a century, it became definitely apparent yesterday as battle lines began to form within the ranks of Federal personnel to repel further invasion from without.

Frank espousal of the old Jacksonian principle, "To the victor belongs the spoils," was voiced in one strong quarter.

From the President came no reassuring word, although his past preference for Civil Service methods led observers confidently to believe there will be no wholesale inroads by spoilsmen.

Reemployment of ousted workers was not discussed at yesterday's Cabinet meeting, for pressure of other business, the President told newspapermen.

Cabinet Report Delayed.

Secretary of Commerce Roper, chairman of the President's special Cabinet committee studying reemployment possibilities, said it is unlikely that any report will be made until the Public Works Administration passes on various departmental requests for additional funds.

Meanwhile, that segment of Government workers represented by the National Federation of Federal Employes, continued to call for "a vigorous declaration by the Chief Executive" in defense of the merit system.

Another group, represented by the American Federation of Government Employes, completed plans for a mass meeting of unemployed Federal workers at 3 p. m. today at the American Federation of Labor Building. A reemployment roster will be prepared.

Specific preference for non-Civil Service personnel was bluntly expressed yesterday in one administration quarter, which asked not to be quoted. The President, however, is believed not to share this view. Both organized employe groups continued to look to the White House to dispel a growing doubt.

Another Cut Exemption.

New Orders Are Sent To Hull by President; U. S. Wins at London

Subcommittee Votes for Discussion of Every Money Issue.

Debates on Tariffs and Quotas Banned by Another Group.

London, July 7 (A.P.).—Fresh from saving the life of the international parley, the American delegation at the World Economic Conference waged a strong fight today to retain monetary and related matters on the agenda, won a victory in one sector and was rebuffed by a small margin in another.

The action took place in a committee of the Economic Commission and a subgroup of the monetary division.

In the former, the committee on commercial policy, a proposal to continue discussion of tariffs and quotas was voted down 8 to 7. France and her gold allies there joined hands to turn back the United States, Great Britain and others.

Developments of Day.

The American victory was in the subcommittee of the Monetary Commission dealing with immediate measures for financial reconstruction. There, after hours of debate, the members voted 25 to 15 to continue discussions of every phase of the agenda.

These developments came during a day which also saw:

Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, urged continuance of endeavors along lines which would return 30,000,000 persons to work;

A disclosure that American headquarters is drafting a resolution seeking world-wide cooperation in increasing wages, shortening hours of work and raising agricultural prices; and,

Bewilderment in French circles concerning international finances, with a partial breaking of Great Britain with the gold group, a drop in the British pound on the French market and slumps in American and Canadian dollars.

Americans Satisfied.

Highest American quarters expressed satisfaction with the progress made, and were firm in the belief that the day's single reverse would be over-ruled when the bureau (steering committee) meets Monday to consider the reports of the subcommittees.

The subcommittees were mandated yesterday, following the victory of Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, and chief of the United States delegation, in prolonging the conference, to explore the field of possibilities for further discussion and report back Monday. It was explained, however, that the bureau retained the right to finally pass on conclusions reached by the subordinate groups.

Bank Bandits Take Woman as Hostage

3 Youths Flee With $5,000 After Shooting Cashier in Raid on Town.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 7 (A. P.).—Three young robbers, cursing as they flourished pistols at four employes and half a dozen customers, raided the First National Bank of Grand Rapids today, obtained approximately $5,000 in currency and fled with a woman hostage.

They shot the assistant cashier, Nick Bauer, 32, in the leg, and slugged Homer Bastien, 28, over the head. Mrs. T. H. McDonald, 30, a customer in the bank, was forced to go with the men through a rear window to their waiting automobile. She was released three blocks from the bank.

Slayer Fires Home; 2 Dead, 1 Injured

La Junta, Colo., July 7 (A.P.).—A masked robber shot Mary Russell, 50, to death, wounded her brother, John Russell, 60, retired business man, set fire to their house here early today and fled, apparently leaving his partner to die in the flames.

Firemen found the charred body of a man, believed to have been a companion of the robber, in the ruins of the house.

Authorities expressed the belief he had gone upstairs to ransack the residence and did not realize his companion had set the place on fire until it was too late to escape.

War Against Prohibition Recommended at Parley

London, July 7 (A.P.).—The organization of a campaign against prohibition "from the points of view of science, public health and nutrition" was recommended today by the wine subcommittee of the World Economic Conference to its parent subcommission on the coordination of production and marketing.

The subcommittee seeks to encourage wine consumption throughout the world.

French to Map Tariff War in Setback of Gold

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

Paris, July 7 (U.P.).—The French, bitter over their currency stabilization defeat at London, moved swiftly today to entrench themselves for a currency and commercial war with the antigold bloc nations, including the United States.

The United Press learned from highest sources that the government intended to proceed with tariff retaliatory measures as the first move in a surprise attack.

President Roosevelt is bitterly blamed in Paris for the failure of the economic conference in London to agree to stabilize currencies before proceeding with other monetary discussions.

Premier Edouard Daladier in a session of Parliament which lasted throughout last night obtained dictatorial powers which he may use in customs reprisals. He intimated he was prepared to do so at once.

With the breakdown of the tariff and currency talks, the French economic big guns are being leveled first at Germany in retaliation against the recent German moratorium on foreign credits.

The premier refused to reveal the exact nature of the reprisals intended, declaring abruptly that France now wished to regain her liberty of action. He said they would first "disconsolidate" certain tariffs which he added "have placed us in a grave status concerning certain countries." I referred to Germany.

The French also are prepared to clap a 15 to 20 per cent surtax on all imports from the United States as the dollar continues to skid swiftly downward in relation to the franc. Today's exchange closed with the franc worth 5.5 cents. It had been around 4 cents for years.

Paris also proceeded to align the gold bloc countries—France, Belgium, Italy, Switzerland, Poland and Holland—for the currency war to prevent their being pushed off the gold standard, with the possibility of inflation, which they fear.

These gold countries are to meet at the Bank of France tomorrow to outline their campaign in the currency battle. Clement Moret, head of the Bank of France, will preside, and vital decisions are expected.

The heads of the great central banks of these nations profess they have no intention of forming a gold bloc against the nongold countries, such as America and Britain, but the effect of their coalition on exchange markets will be exactly that, experts said.

They may form a "stabilization pool," one financier admitted, to rush aid to any gold standard nation threatened by depreciating currencies with being forced off gold, but all intimated through inspired sources they wished to avoid appearances of a battlefront against the nongold governments.

The tariff truce inspired at the start of the London conference by Mr. Roosevelt apparently also is to go into the discard as the trade war begins. Portugal has instituted a 20 per cent ad valorem tax on French goods, retaliating against the French surtax of 20 per cent imposed on Portuguese goods imported into France, announced yesterday.

Old-Age Pension Bill Becomes Michigan Law

Lansing, Mich., July 7 (A.P.).—Gov. William A. Comstock today signed an old-age pension bill providing for a maximum payment of $1 a day for indigent persons of 70 years or over and an annual head tax on all residents of the State between the ages of 21 and 70.

Seeks to Bring Agenda in Line With American Price Drive.

By Harold J. T. Horan.

President Roosevelt last night dispatched new instructions to the American delegation at the world economic conference. Acting Secretary of State William Phillips drafted the note, which is expected to bring the present agenda of the London conference more in line with the American plan put forward by the President last Tuesday. It outlines in greater detail the campaign of this Government for world price recovery as an immediate objective.

The decision to send additional directions to Secretary of State Cordell Hull came as a result of the special meeting which united at the White House the President's elder statesmen, Bernard M. Baruch, and Norman H. Davis, as well as the Acting Secretary of State, the Undersecretary of the Treasury, Dean Acheson, and the economist of the State Department, Frederick Livesy.

Draft Takes Five Hours.

For more than five hours yesterday these experts worked over the tentative draft of a supplement to the agenda of the present conference. The President himself joined them for a late tea and at that time the cumulative suggestions of the experts awaited his approval. This was forthcoming and shortly before 8 o'clock Acting Secretary Phillips left to put the suggestions into the new note, which will be the subject of Secretary Hull's discussions with the other members of the steering committee in London this morning.

This special White House council put a fillip of confidence into the prospects for agreement in London. There was even some possibility that monetary questions, hitherto considered banned by the President's ukase against dollar stabilization in London, might be considered in an academic and informal manner there. Such a possibility would bridge the gap that separates the gold bloc countries from the other nations at the conference. In any event, it was emphasized that the American plan, as explained by the President, envisages no inimical move against the currency systems of any nation.

White House Gains Hope.

The new instructions cabled last night were couched in the form of suggestions. It will not be possible before Monday to know of their reception by the members of the steering committee. However, on account of the vastly increased prestige of Secretary of State Hull in London now, it is believed very probable that he will be able to present the new proposals in the form most calculated to assure their acceptance by the other delegations.

Ever since the President deliberately risked the fate of the confer-

New Lorton Outbreak Is Quelled by Police

Lorton Reformatory last night remained a simmering cauldron of 1,100 odd, rebellious convicts, as Washington police dug in for an indefinite stay at the District's fevered "country club" prison.

Late in the afternoon the more than 100 purported leaders of the revolt against the regime of Capt. M. M. Barnard, worked themselves into a rage in their segregated quarters and demolished all of the musical instruments of the reformatory's band.

This tantrum was met with quick, strong penalty. All of the demonstrators were hustled to solitary confinement, divested of their clothes, and put on a bread and water diet for an indefinite period.

Capt. Barnard revealed yesterday that a definite plot to fire the reformatory had been uncovered. Strong precautionary measures are believed to have reduced to a minimum this possibility.

A squad of 25 Washington policemen, including the heavily armed riot squad, were instructed to garrison the fevered prison until further notice. The residue of the 75 policemen rushed to the reformatory Thursday afternoon were re-

Thousands Plunder In Bold Bank Holdup

Crab Orchard, Ky., July 7 (A.P.). Two armed white men held up the Crab Orchard Baking Co. today and escaped with a sum estimated between $3,500 and $5,000.

While a group of men pursued them to the edge of town they boldly drove back in another car past the bank and left the city on the highway toward Stanford and took a good lead. Roland Garner, assistant cashier, was alone in the cage when they entered and they locked him in the vault.

Fugitive Given Damage Award From Lawyer

Wins $29,500 Verdict in Suit Alleging Attorney Knew Murderers.

Rockford, Ill., July 7 (A.P.).—Henry T. Olson, who fled into hiding in New Orleans six years ago rather than serve a life term in prison for a crime he did not commit, won a $29,500 verdict today for damages from the attorney who defended him. He charged that his attorney knew the guilty men and did not divulge the fact at the trial.

Olson charged that Harry B. North, a former State's attorney and his defender in a murder trial in 1927, knew at the time that two boys had committed the murder, but allowed him to be convicted and sentenced to life in prison for the slaying of Floyd Stotler, who was shot in a robbery of his gasoline station.

While a motion for new trial was pending, Olson, unable to prove his innocence, vanished and forfeited a $10,000 bond.

Boys Confess Killing.

He was living in seclusion in New Orleans when two boys, George Bliss and Maurice Mahan, confessed they killed Stotler.

Then, the real criminals put away for 30 and 14 years, respectively, a hunt was started to find Olson and tell him he might come home. In Louisiana the good news found him, and Olson came back to life.

Home again, an inkling reached Olson that his attorney had known the criminals.

Mahan was brought from prison to testify for the man who once was convicted for his crime. Other witnesses testified North knew the murderers. Defense witnesses contradicted these, and counsel for North presented a 30,000-word hypothetical question attacking the prosecution case.

Alleges Great Torment.

The jury agreed with Olson and awarded him the $29,500 judgment. He had sued for $50,000.

Olson averred that he had been put to great torment by the two trials he underwent, the first one resulting in disagreement of the jury. He had been made an outcast for many months, living in fear as he wandered about until he found seclusion in New Orleans. He had been unable to obtain decent work because of fear of discovery.

Attorney North made strenuous denial that he had had knowledge of the real slayers while Olson was on trial.

Mountain Storm Hits Colorado City

Patrols were organized from citizens of Morrison. Drinking water was hauled 5 miles in milk cans, the town waterworks having been destroyed.

But dusk fell upon a scene of indescribable confusion, as new rain added to the discomfort of the homeless.

Debris Jams Streets.

In the streets lay a welter of wrecked household goods, of dead live stock, of shattered plate glass windows, and even the brick walls of the town's stanchest business buildings.

Women and children stood huddled in little groups, many of them homeless, their clothing, their food, their every personal possession swept away by the flood.

There was scant shelter from the rain. The buildings still standing were partially wrecked. A big brick garage, one side washed completely away, was made headquarters for authorities.

There husbands and wives who had been separated by the flood came to seek their loved ones. Mothers searched for their children.

All were soaked from head to foot. Joy and grief intermingled as families were reunited or as men and women failed to find the ones they sought.

Stories of heroism were common. Two young Morrison men, tossing ropes to helpless persons struggling against the flood had accomplished six successful rescues.

Denver Sends Aid.

A husband, clinging to his wife and daughter, had seen them swept from his arms as the force of the current hurled him against a tree at the edge of the stream.

It was certain that a complete check of the missing could not be made before morning, since the canyon bank was studded with cabins, many of them occupied by persons from distant points.

With darkness, the work of rehabilitation already had begun. A fleet of about 20 State highway trucks and several from the Denver street department were at work clearing the debris.

Crowds of curious, pouring in from Denver, only 19 miles away, hampered the work, and police finally set a guard to stop all cars at the Denver city limits and turn them back.

10 Killed in Mexico.

Reynosa, Mex., July 7 (U.P.).—Reports from north Mexico tonight said that ten persons were killed in a hurricane there.

Mexican authorities here said that farm homes for 100 miles along the Soto la Marina River had been devastated.

The reports said the damage extended 50 miles each way from the river, and that the Chamel ranch, one of the largest projects in the area, was wiped out.

The report partially verified accounts of V. A. Dorrell, Pan-American pilot, who flew from Tampico to Brownsville over the stricken area. Dorrell said the little fishing villages of Soto la Marina were "flattened out" and that nearby villages for a distance of 25 miles were wrecked by the hurricane which veered off the Texas Coast late yesterday.

Dorrell was unable to determine from the air whether any persons were dead.

By Robert F. Whitney.

Action is the specialty of Henry Morgenthau, jr., who has welded together the various Government agencies loaning money to farmers into the Agricultural Credit Administration.

Diplomatic service, farming, publishing and public service already have played a part in Mr Morgenthau's career, a career which is young for he is only 42 years old.

When illness interrupted his course at Cornell University, where he was studying architecture, the profession planned for him by his father, he spent a year on a Western ranch. This experience intensified an interest in farming and when he returned to college, he studied agriculture instead.

To hear Mr. Morgenthau describe his activities, it is apparent that primarily he considers himself a farmer. His farm is in Dutchess County, N. Y., near the Hyde Park estate of the President.

President Roosevelt has known and recognized Morgenthau's ability for many years. The two men's first association was during World War days when the President was Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Mr. Morgenthau also was at the Navy Department.

Morgenthau is owner of the American Agriculturalist, a farm paper. He purchased it in 1922, and through his efforts made it a successful publication.

When President Roosevelt was Governor of New York, Morganthau was chairman of the State agricultural advisory committee. Work of the committee resulted in a revision of the State's tax laws and a reduction of farm taxes. He also served as conservation commissioner of the State.

The job of the present is a vital one in the recovery drive of the Nation. All of the agencies from which farmers were able to borrow from the Federal Government have been combined under Morganthau's authority. His job, as governor, is to mold these units, farm board, seed loan, land banks, into one efficient organization.

His diplomatic service was with his father, the former Ambassador to Turkey, Henry Morganthau, sr.

Mrs. Cole was born in North Carolina and educated at Littleton College and St. Mary's College, Raleigh. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Among those surviving, in addition to her husband, are three sisters, Miss Lucy Iana Leach, Mrs. Mabel Morris, Mrs. J. P. Pippen, and a brother, J. P. Leach, all of Littleton, N. C., and a niece, Mrs. Wilfred J. Redmond, of this city.

U. S. Is Assailed For Dual View Toward Peace

G. W. Conference Speaker Cites Caribbean Policy as an Example.

The irony of a situation which finds the United States taking the lead in disarmament conferences and at the same time consistently pursuing a policy of dominating for its own purposes the Caribbean region, was commented upon yesterday by Dr. Samuel Guy Inman, member of the faculty of Columbia University and secretary of the Conference on Cooperation in Latin America. He spoke before George Washington University's second annual seminar conference on Hispanic-American affairs.

The conference, presented through the summer sessions of the university's school of government, is meeting daily for a period of six weeks, with lecturers from the faculties of nine American and Latin-American universities, as well as the Pan-American Union and other agencies concerned with Latin America.

Dr. Inman sees indications, however, that the United States today is pursuing a new policy with respect to the Caribbean, entering upon an era of being "good neighbors" instead of following the older policy of "exerting police power to compel acceptance of our kind of goodness."

"Since the United States has officially made such strenuous protests against Japan's following the former policy in Manchuria, there is reason to believe that we ourselves will not in the future follow it so devotedly in the Caribbean," he said.

Indications which the lecturer asserted point to a new Caribbean policy on the part of the United States are the recent withdrawal of Marines from Nicaragua, and their announced withdrawal from Haiti. He also cited the refusal of the United States Government to intervene in Cuba recently, and the evidently successful methods of Ambassador Sumner Welles in solving questions in Cuba by friendly meditation.

The conference will continue on Monday with Prof. Clarence F. Jones, of Clark University, as the speaker. Prof. Jones will lecture again on Tuesday on "Economic Conditions of the Caribbean."

Dr. Normano Case Hearings Deferred

Boston, July 7 (A.P.).—Hearings on the petition of Dr. Joao Federico Normano, former Harvard lecturer held here for extradition to Germany, for a writ of habeas corpus were indefinitely postponed today, Federal officials said.

Dr. Normano has been in the Middlesex County Jail since January 5, when the German government alleged he was Isaak Lewin, Berlin banker, sought for participation in a $750,000 swindle in Berlin in 1928. In his petition for the writ of habeas corpus, Dr. Normano contended he would not be given a fair trial in Germany because of his Jewish faith.

Counsel for Dr. Normano declined to say whether they had requested the indefinite postponement and referred inquiries to the State Department at Washington.

Farm Act "Big Stick" Will Be Final Weapon

(Associated Press.)

Licensing, the most powerful weapon in the farm act to enforce trade marketing agreements, will be held in reserve by its administrators for use when, and if it is needed.

They informed representatives of dairy producers and distributors seeking approval of the proposed Chicago fluid milk agreement yesterday that they desired to avoid use of licenses for processors and dealers until milk groups there have had an opportunity to observe the agreement voluntarily.

It was reported that Chicago representatives had informed administrators, however, that they might withdraw their applications for an agreement, the first presented after passage of the farm relief act, if licensing were not provided.

The agreement was aimed to eliminate "price cutting" in the Chicago milk shed by fixing minimum scales of prices for producers, dealers and consumers. The act authorizes Secretary Wallace and George N. Peek, administrator, to require licenses of all processors if they desire and in event of nonobservance of the agreement, concerns may be refused permits. Operation without a permit, in event they were required, is punishable by a fine up to $1,000 daily.

Meanwhile, representatives of the Kansas City (Mo.) Milk Shed opened negotiations for an agreement to cover fluid milk distribution in that district. Coe Pritchett, secretary of the Pure Milk Products Association, Kansas City, remained here last night to complete a study of agreement provisions of the farm act.

After conferences with organized producers, processors and dealers in Kansas City, it is expected that the text of an agreement will be submitted. Before its approval, it is necessary that a public hearing be conducted by a representative of Wallace.

Efforts to work out agreements are also under way at Baltimore and Richmond, Va., and dairymen expect upward of 100 agreements to be submitted within the next two months.

Hargreaves Ousted, He Declares in Suit

Through the filing of a $750,000 slander suit in Los Angeles yesterday by Richard L. Hargreaves it was definitely established that he was removed as conservator of the Park Savings Bank and did not resign. In the suit against Former Gov. Albert M. Gardner of Maine and others, Hargreaves charges specifically that he was ousted from the office through a conspiracy to slander him entered into by the defendants.

He was succeeded as conservator of the Park Savings Bank by J. L. Bailey. At the time it was reported that he had voluntarily asked to be relieved of the position.

Farmers Held Slump Cure

Herb E. Sharp, whose flowing red beard is a familiar sight at the White House and Senate Office Building, has come out of the West to pull America out of the depression.

"President Roosevelt could put an end to it (the depression) in ten days if he took the college professors off the Farm Board and replaced them with farmers."

The eyes of Mr. Sharp, champion of the wheat growers in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, flashed as he expounded his agricultural ideas in Senator McNary's outer office yesterday. The low price of wheat, he said, is the depression's only cause and elimination of the 300,000,000 bushel surplus the only solution.

"A circus trick of the administration's college professors," Mr. Sharp labels the processing tax on wheat. It is being absorbed by the speculators, he said. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace is not a farmer, nor was his father, who held the same Cabinet post, but his grandfather was, he said.

Appointment of W. J. Sutton, Cheney, Wash., farmer and business man, as head of the wheat marketing program, has been one of Mr. Sharp's objectives since he came to the Capital last spring from his home in Stayton, Oreg. En route here, he polled farmers of western Washington's wheat belt and they were for Sutton's appointment almost to a man, the Oregonian asserted.

Securities Act Registration Is $75,000,000

Documents for Approval on First Day Fill Room; Fees Total $7,500.

(Associated Press.)

New security issues estimated to aggregate $75,000,000 were registered with the Federal Trade Commission yesterday by half a hundred domestic business firms to meet the financing requirements of the Federal securities law.

The sudden flood of bulky financial statements on the first day of official regulation caught the commission unprepared for fast handling of the reports, so that details of registrations could not be made public immediately.

Officials handling the reports, some of which were brought in person and some mailed, estimated, however, that the opening day's registration fees to the Government were between $7,000 and $8,000.

Sale Must Wait 20 Days.

Since the fee is fixed at one one-hundredth of 1 per cent of the amount of the issue, but at not less than $25, the aggregate of new securities indicated was between $70,000,000 and $80,000,000. These may not be sold to the public for 20 days after filing the registration statement.

Most of the first day's registrations were submitted by investment trusts. The largest noted in a hurried examination was a $10,000,000 issue by Incorporated Investors, a Boston firm, which paid a $1,000 fee.

Other large-size registrations included Fundamental Investors, Inc., $9,362,000; Massachusetts Investors Trust, $5,000,000; American Trustee Share Corporation, $5,000,000, and the Equity Corporation, $3,275,000.

Many Errors Detected.

Even though jammed by the opening rush, commission experts were able to detect obvious errors in a dozen of the first statements and prepare to return them to senders. In cost cases the mistake was a failure to inclose the registration fee or have checks certified.

All firms registering yesterday did so in accordance with their own interpretation of the law's requirements and must repeat their registration on the commission's own voluminous forms which now are being printed.

Each registration statement, together with the required exhibits, comprises a good-sized volume in itself. Each must be filed in triplicate and the office floor of Baldwin B. Bane, who is directing the securities work, yesterday was stacked high with these documents.

Meanwhile, the commissioners met and designated additional personnel to assist in the securities work, but these employes did not get on the job in time to overtake the piled up work. Mr Bane and his aids spent most of their time in interpreting the commission's new regulations and making explanations to interested parties.

Old Spoils Policy Gains Ground Here

The non-Civil Service agency exempted was the Public Works Administration, created long after enactment of the economy act and the 15 per cent reduction. The reduction previously had been held not to apply to the Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Federal railroad's coordinator's office, established before enactment of the cut.

It was learned yesterday that Railroad Coordinator Eastman plans to employ few if any of the new workers in that agency outside the group indefinitely furloughed from the Interstate Commerce Commission. About 25 of this group already has been reemployed by Mr. Eastman's office.

Reinstatement League Plans.

Unemployed Federal workers attending today's mass meeting at the American Federation of Labor Building will be registered, then enrolled, without dues, in the newly organized Civil Service Reinstatement League.

John P. Simpson and Cecil E. Mears, of the American Federation of Government Employes, sponsoring the meeting, said last night they had perfected arrangements whereby many if not all of those who register will again be placed in the Government service.

"Organized labor, of which the American Federation of Government Employes is a part, will not rest satisfied until every one of these people who desires employment is given an opportunity to secure a position for which they are fitted at an adequate compensation."

He said it is absolutely necessary that individuals seeking assistance make themselves known either by attending today's meeting or communicating with the federation.

Federal Employes to Act.

The Federal News, weekly newspaper of the National Federation of Federal Employes, today will call on the administration "to lose no more valuable time in coordinating its personnel plans."

Referring to the special Cabinet committee named by the President to investigate reemployment possibilities, the editorial in part will state:

"Obviously, the 'study' is rather belated. And while the 'study' is being made, thousands of men and women who spent years in the service, giving to it a full measure of loyalty, devotion and efficiency on increasingly meager pay and through many anguished months, are watching their tiny savings dwindle."

Bethlehem Silk Mill Wages Boosted Again

Bethlehem, Pa., July 7 (A.P.).—A 10 per cent pay increase was announced today by the Lehigh Valley Silk Mills for its plants in Bethlehem and Fountain Hill.

It is the second raise of this amount in two months. No additional information was given by company officials.

Farm Credit Is Buoyed by Price Gains

Confidence Is Sufficient to Cut Down Requests for Refinancing.

(Associated Press.)

The recent rise in farm prices has rekindled the confidence of farmer-debtors and mortgage holders throughout the Nation's agricultural belt.

Reports yesterday said the returning confidence was so pronounced that applications for refinancing mortgages from the $2,000,000,000 fund provided by Congress have fallen far below earlier expectations and even below estimates as recent as ten days ago.

About $90,000,000, available for new loans in the hands of the twelve Federal Land Banks, has proved sufficient to meet immediate needs of farm-land financing and refinancing, and is now expected to be sufficient to carry on their operations for several months.

While the rise in prices has not benefited many farmers directly so far because they have had no crops available to sell, it has restored confidence in all agricultural sections and had the result of strengthening farm land values, the Farm Credit Administration has been informed.

With a rise in the potential purchasing power of farmers, the demand for farm lands has stiffened in many sections, although transactions are far below the normal volume. Many mortgage holders were reported to have responded to the proclamation of President Roosevelt and other officials urging a temporary suspension of foreclosures and, although foreclosures are continuing, their number has dropped sharply.

As a result of the decrease in demand, the first issue of farm mortgage bonds by the Credit Administration has been postponed.

Roosevelt Cables New Orders to Hull

ence rather than subscribe to a theoretical solution of the outstanding monetary problem, the good points of his plan have gradually been making themselves felt on the other delegates present. Those who came to scoff now remain to praise. In addition to the negative aspects of the President's London message, the constructive features are now being subjected to closer inspection.

On this hopeful indication, the White House hopes to build a more complete synthesis. Within the framework of the London Conference it is hoped to bring about a general improvement of world commodity prices, thus enlarging beneficent results of the new economic program here.

Would Add Farm Plan.

Mr. Baruch came down from New York at the President's invitation to discuss the possibility of applying the American formula for industrial recovery to the foreign field. To the features of the industrial control measure may be added in such a form as will make it expedient for other countries the agricultural stabilization program and the general features of the public works program sponsored by the President. The possibility of an international accord on some form of public works building program was forecast in the texts of the communiques issued here after the White House exchange of views.

The original agenda prepared in Geneva last winter by the American delegates, Messrs. Day and Williams, was consulted at the White House frequently yesterday in the work of supplying its deficiencies that have become apparent in the first fortnight of the conference's existence. The monetary provisions of the agenda were accorded careful review and in the light of that review, Secretary Hull is understood to have been advised to permit the fullest discussion of the monetary section without in any way committing this Government to any agreement. Other nations can discuss in the fullest degree their own personal ideas of monetary reform, but the same license will be expected for those countries that are not anxious to talk monetary problems.

Davis Views Valued.

Mr. Davis, who has been a close observer from behind the lines of the varying nationalistic programs of the countries represented in London, was able to give the White House council yesterday the benefits of his last six months in Europe. Although the President's ambassador-at-large is head of the American disarmament delegation, his acquaintance with general European problems is such as to enable him to contribute valuable suggestions on any phase of international activity.

It is believed that the contents of the note forwarded last night will also include some measure of assurance for those countries in the gold bloc that feared for the stability of their currency. The objective of the American delegation from now on will be directed to achieving in a general way the results that have already been produced by the same methods in this country. This can be done without making many serious changes in the agenda. The agenda itself is a plastic thing that should be moulded to the needs of the occasion, one of the high command last night remarked.

Prices as World Problem.

A general increase of world commodity prices would go far in solving some of the more pressing problems that have beset the delegates up to the present time. Such a rise would enable the vexatious tariff problem to find its true level; according to the President's formula it would have the same effect on the currency problem for he has reiterated that the American dollar will have to be stabilized in its relation to what it will buy in this country and not on its exchange value in francs or pounds.

The President's pronouncement to the London conference contained no statement more apposite to the present circumstance than this:

"The exchange value of the dollar will ultimately depend upon the success of other nations in raising the prices of their own commodities in terms of their national money, and can not be determined in advance of our knowledge of such fact."

R. F. C. Loans $100,000,000 On Mortgages

Purchase of $50,000,000 in Notes From New York Bank Announced.

(United Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation late yesterday authorized the purchase of $50,000,000 in capital notes in the Savings Banks Trust Co. of New York.

Loans on mortgages to the Institutional Securities Corporation, a New York mortgage loan company, totaling $100,000,000 also were approved.

The purchase of notes in the Savings Banks Trust Co. was "for the purpose of assisting the mutual savings banks of New York State to grant extensions and continue a generous attitude toward their borrowers on mortgages and at the same time to lift or ease restrictions on withdrawals," the corporation said.

Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins yesterday announced grants totaling $1,911,016 to four States.

Michigan received $1,271,030; Iowa, $510,594; Georgia, $79,392, and North Dakota, $50,000.

Michigan previously received $3,968,262, bringing to $5,239,292 the relief grants made this State. The Iowa advance completed its allotment for the first quarter of 1933, it previously having received $189,193.

The North Dakota grant brought to $93,461 the amount received by that State. Georgia previously received $98,517.

Farley Warns Laffoon Party Pledged Repeal

Serves Notice Administration Will Wage Battle in Southern States.

(Associated Press.)

In a forceful reminder to Gov. Laffoon of Kentucky that the Democratic party is pledged to repeal the eighteenth amendment, Postmaster General Farley signified yesterday that the administration would take a strenuous part in the repeal elections in Southern States.

The second appeal of the Postmaster General to the Kentucky governor requests him to include provision for a repeal convention in his call for a special session of the State Legislature.

The message followed an announcement by Farley that he would make an address in Memphis, Tenn., July 15, five days before that State votes on repeal. Adrangements will be made to transmit his speech to gatherings in Alabama and Arkansas, States which ballot on repeal on July 18.

These three States are regarded by Farley as the real battle ground. The Postmaster General, who also is chairman of the Democratic national committee and chief patronage dispenser, said yesterday that if the three vote wet "it's all over."

This comment was made to newspapermen at the same time Farley said he was "amazed" by the favorable reaction to his antiprohibition statements in addresses in North Carolina Thursday. He added he believed North Carolina would vote for repeal by 75,000.

Famous Gloucester Craft Ordered to Chicago Fair

Gertrude Thebaud, Queen of Yankee Fishing Fleet, Will Meet Rival Bluenose and Ancient Racing Feud May Be Renewed.

Gloucester, Mass., July 7 (A.P.).—The Gloucester schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, queen of the Yankee fishing fleet, today received sailing orders for a port never before visited by a New England fisherman when Gov. Joseph Ely signed a bill sending her to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago as a Massachusetts exhibit.

The hundreds of miles of salt and fresh water separating this old fishing port from the Middle West metropolis holds no terrors for Gertrude and her crew. They are becoming quite at home in strange waters. Only recently the schooner carried a crew of veteran skippers to Washington to seek aid of the President for the fisheries and gave the Capital its first view of a vessel from the rolling North Atlantic fishing banks.

Capt. Ben Pine, Thebaud's famous racing skipper, planned to get her away as soon as ship carpenters, sailmakers and other marine artisans could make her ready. That should be soon, for the work will be a labor of love.

Will Be "Dressed Up."

There will be much cutting and sewing of canvas, for Gertrude's suit of sail must fit stylishly when she makes her bow before Chicago. Her topmasts and topsails must be sent aloft, for she has been "baldheaded" during the past winter's fishing on the banks. There will be much painting and scraping before she shoves off, for Captain Ben wants Gertrude to show her prettiest face to the folks at the fair.

Then, too, there is the possibility, even probability, that her presence in the same waters with the schooner Bluenose, of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, present holder of the international fishermen's trophy, may mean renewal of the ancient rivalry between Capt. Angus Walters, Bluenose's fiery skipper, and genial Captain Ben. These two never have met in the past except in contest and no one in Gloucester expects any other outcome at Chicago.

"We will be ready for anything that comes up when we get there," was Captain Ben's response when asked about the possibilities of a race.

Each Has Victory.

Canada has sent Bluenose to the exposition to advance the sale of Canadian fish in the Middle West.

Thebaud whipped Bluenose in their initial meeting several years ago, but the following year Bluenose took Thebaud's measure. So, even though Angus and Ben are somewhat prone to consider fresh water only useful for brewing coffee, Chicago may see the sailing championship of the North Atlantic settled off her own front yard.

Capt. Pine anticipates little difficulty in bringing Thebaud to Chicago. The schooner draws about 16 feet in salt water, and somewhat more in fresh. The trip up the Potomac proved that. Although charts do not show that depth in some parts of the inland waterways, Capt. Pine said Thebaud could be "ballasted by the head until her nose was in the water" to lift her deeper section aft over the shoal places.

Thebaud is equipped with an auxiliary engine, which will greatly facilitate her passage through canals and narrow channels in the St. Lawrence, so she will not require services of a tow boat, as Bluenose did.

Capt. Pine said he believed Thebaud would be ready to depart in about ten days.

Reward Spurs Atlanta Hunt For Kidnapers

$2,750 Offered in Capture of Man; Boy Given $10 to Free Banker.

Atlanta, Ga., July 7 (A.P.).—Possemen, aided by bloodhounds and spurred by offers of $2,750 reward, searched swamps along the Chattahoochee River tonight for the man who kidnaped John King Ottley and then saw his get-rich-quick scheme go awry because a young confederate released the hostage.

Mr. Ottley, president of the First National Bank here, was back at his desk today. The experience of being abducted on a main street yesterday cost him an automobile, a pair of glasses and about $10 cash. The kidnaper got it all.

Meanwhile Pryor Bowen, 17-year-old Lavonia High School student who helped abduct Mr. Ottley and then released his prisoner in woods near Suwanee, was held by police.

The banker talked Bowen into freeing him after the older abductor left the hideout. Mr. Ottley said today he appreciated "what the boy did for me," but contemplated no request to police about handling the case.

"His offense against the law must be dealt with by the law," Mr. Ottley said.

Associates of Mr. Ottley offered $2,500 reward for arrest of the man who engineered the plot. The State offered $250. The head man of the scheme has not been seen since he appeared at the Ottley home yesterday with a ransom note demanding $40,000 for the banker's release and a note from the banker to his wife explaining that he had been kidnaped and was in danger.

The man—known to Mr. Ottley as a peddler who often worked past the financier's home—was in Mr. Ottley's automobile when he delivered the note. The car has not been seen since. The kidnaper also had Mr. Ottley's glasses, removed when the banker's eyes were taped. About $10 in cash, taken from the banker, also was missing.

Authorities believed the man would return to his retreat near the river and laid traps to catch him there. Bowen and Mr. Ottley helped make the plans. But the man had not returned yet.

Mrs. Mae Leonard Dies After Stroke

Mrs. Leonard, who had been visiting her sister since November, was found dead in bed yesterday morning. She died of a heart stroke and was pronounced dead by a physician from Casualty Hospital.

Mrs. Leonard, prominent in Boulder political and social circles, was the widow of Frank Leonard, mining engineer for the Colorado Power Co.

Marry Mixup

Machinist Takes Fiancee to Live in Divorced Wife's House.

Racine, Wis., July 7 (A.P.).—A young mother, her two children, her former husband and his fiancee are members of what is probably Racine's most unusual household.

Mrs. Linda Beegle, 27, today told how she obtained a divorce June 22 that her husband might be free to wed again. Jay Beegle, 32, a machinist, remained at the home so the money he paid for room and board would augment the $30 a month he paid in alimony.

Miss Lydia Weber, 22, the fiancee, was invited to enter the household when she lost her job.

The two children are Doris, 8 and Richard 6.

"We all live together—but why not?" she asked. "My former husband pays me $30 a month alimony. That's not much to live on. So he pays the board and room. We are friends—not such good friends, I'm afraid, because it takes longer for one's pride to die than for love to die. And Lydia has nowhere to go."

The wedding will be as soon as the State law allows, next June 22, Miss Weber said.

Factor Clew Links Capone's Gang to Case

Henchmen Are Taking Him to Cuba, Note Found in Oklahoma Says.

Eufaula, Okla., July 7 (A.P.).—A note signed "Jake the Barber," pleading for deliverance from "Al Capone henchmen," who, it said, were taking him to Cuba, was found in a small cardboard box on a street here today.

John (Jake the Barber) Factor, international financier, was kidnaped in Chicago almost a week ago.

The note, contained in a box such as is used for needles, said:

"I am being held by Al Capone henchmen in Nash sedan headed for Galveston and then to Cuba. Please help.

"JAKE THE BARBER."

On the outside of the box was the inscription, "Please open and read."

Reports to Authorities.

It was found at 8 a. m. today by Mrs. J. C. Smock, Eufaula city clerk, while she was on her way to work. She reported it to local authorities, but the affair did not become generally known until tonight.

Townspeople did not recall having seen a motor car such as was described, but officers said the box apparently had been tossed to the street during the early morning hours, since the streets were swept late the previous night.

Suspicions of Hoax.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Leon Bleet, personal representative of the missing John Factor, apprised tonight that a note had been found in Eufaula, Okla., signed "Jake the Barber" and appealing for help, was first inclined to regard the matter as a hoax, but added:

"We are glad for every bit of information that might be a clew."

"First," Bleet said, "we hear Factor is being spirited to Mexico; then to Cuba; then that he's safe in Chicago or somewhere else. Frankly, we don't know what to think."

The signature on the note—"Jake the Barber"—was a nickname the missing Factor had had for years. He disliked it, however, and preferred to be called "Jack."

Van Papen and Papal Aid Hold Long Parley

Vatican City, July 7 (A.P.).—Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, of Germany, conferred at length today with Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, concerning terms of the projected concordat between the Holy See and Germany.

Church spokesmen said the negotiations have not yet been concluded, although a favorable outcome was expected.

Scoop!

Radio Message, Doubted at Time, Proves First News From Mattern.

San Francisco, July 7 (A.P.).—First news of the safety of James Mattern, around-the-world aviator, was given to the world June 22 by the Siberian radio station RAMC, but fading of signals prevented reception of the complete message, it was declared today at the San Francisco Presidio.

The rest of the message faded out. The signals had first been picked up by Station WVD in Seattle, which called the Presidio station's attention to the broadcast. It was believed here some Siberian amateur was testing his set by trying to make contact with American stations.

When the dispatch announcing Mattern's safety was received today the June 22 message was remembered. Check of the latitude and longitude given in the message showed it was in the same area as that in which Mattern reported himself today.

New Lorton Riots Quelled by Police

lieved, but a reserve force is being maintained for quick transportation to Lorton.

With the prison quiet and peaceful late last night, Capt. Barnard declared: "We have this situation in hand now. We don't expect any further trouble, but we intend to be prepared for any emergency."

Meanwhile, the responsibility for the troubled conditions at the penal institution continued to be tossed back and forth between Capt. M. M. Barnard and his erstwhile assistant, A. C. Tawse, whose resignation has been accepted by the District Commissioners.

Factories Closed.

Tawse continues to lay the threatened rebellion to the food conditions at the penal institution, while Barnard maintains that the trouble has been fostered by a clique friendly to Tawse.

Throughout the day, normal industry at the penal institution was at a virtual standstill. The brick and license tag factories didn't move a wheel.

The balance of the prisoners spent the day jeering and sneering from their dormitory windows. The policemen lolled apathetically on the prison lawns under a continuous stream of abuse from the jail inmates.

Damage Near $1,000.

The band instruments that were smashed yesterday by the angered prisoners were valued at about $1,000, it was learned. Those that weren't demolished, were stuffed with crude oil, glue and rubbish.

A move to send most of the alleged ringleaders at the prison to Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary is under consideration. The District Commissioners yesterday declared that they would await and approve recommendations of Capt. Barnard as to this action.

Veterans' Bureau Job Vacancy Is Announced

The United States Civil Service Commission will accept applications until July 27, 1933, for the position of statistician (medical-social service) to fill a vacancy in the Veterans' Administration in Washington.

The entrance salary is $2,600 a year, less a decution of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3½ per cent.

Cheap Housing Parley Adopts 10-Point Plan

U. S. Warns Conference Drastic Tests Await Low Cost Projects.

Cleveland, July 7 (A.P.).—A ten-point declaration of working principles for a national program of low cost housing and slum elimination—one of which met with temporary opposition on the ground it meant "Government subsidy"—was adopted today by the National Conference on Slum Clearance.

The conference adopted its "platform" after receiving a warning from Washington that each of the $100,000,000 worth of housing projects before the Federal Public Works Administration will be given practical, drastic tests.

These tests will be given through economic surveys designed to show what rents are being paid where rehousing is planned, and will cover other points tending to show whether a given project is actually low cost housing.

Two Oppose Suggestion.

Foremost in the conference's "platform" was a statement that "when sufficiently low-cost housing can not otherwise be obtained, this conference recommends the formation of nonpolitical State or local public housing authorities eligible to receive grants and loans for such purposes."

Dr. Ernest M. Fisher, professor of real estate economics at the University of Michigan, and Charles F. Lewis, of the Buhl Foundation, Pittsburgh, two of the nine members of the resolution committee which prepared the program, declined to join the others in this recommendation.

A short debate occurred when this point was presented to the conference, several delegates declaring such a policy permitted subsidies by the Federal Government. Others had previously urged such a policy, and the point was included in the "platform."

Continuous Fact-Finding.

The conference asked for immediate action on another of the 10 points, which declared the "proper solution of the housing problem requires continuous fact-finding research." It was decided to appoint later a committee of five to study the possibility of creating a national housing research institute.

Another committee, informal and voluntary in nature, announced it will attempt to draw up a legal code for State housing laws, to be used as a model.

Many of the 10 points of the "platform" were recommendations to the Federal administrators in charge of housing projects under the National Recovery Act, and the entire program is to be submitted to administrative officials in Washington as a sugested code for their guidance.

Alleged Swindler Caught in Detroit

Long-Sought Man Arrested as He Leaves Bedside of Sick Wife.

Detroit, July 7 (A.P.).—Frank L. Purdy, 63, was arrested today as he left the bedside of his wife who is ill at Henry Ford Hospital, and is held by police charged with having swindled Florence Means Kay, of New York City, of $650. He has been sought for many months in a number of cities.

Federal authorities charged that Purdy, who has silver-white hair and wears a goatee, has conducted a series of swindles among society folk in Detroit, San Francisco and other cities.

Motion picture stars on the West Coast as well as residents of Washington, D. C., are listed by authorities among his supposed victims.

Farley Aids Captain Boyd In Delivery of Haiti 'Mail'

Capt. Errol Boyd, Haiti-to-Washington flier, spent yesterday navigating Government channels and trying to get his "mail" delivered to the President.

First, he learned that the letters he was carrying from the President of Haiti were not mail at all. He was not allowed to fly mail out of Haiti, because a commercial air line had the exclusive contract. Nor were the messages mail even after arrival here until the Postoffice had its official stamp on them. And it just had to be mail, because the President, being a stamp collector, insists on the proper cachets.

So Boyd flew around a few red tape monsoons, and finally landed in Postmaster Farley's office, where rubber stamps hit the envelopes, and the letters were on their way to the White House.

Some time this morning Capt. Boyd hopes to deliver personally the good-will greetings of President Stenio Vincente of Haiti to President Roosevelt, along with 5 pounds of fine Haitian coffee, and then take off for New York in his famous plane, the Columbia.

Boyd and his copilot, Robert G. Lyon, were guests of Dantes Bellegarde, Haitian Minister, at a reception yesterday afternoon, where they regaled the guests with enthusiastic descriptions of Haiti, "the second oldest American Republic," as a vacation land.

19 Political Prisoners Are Released in Cuba

Havana, July 7 (A.P.).—Gen. Alberto Herrera, secretary of war, ordered the liberation of nineteen political prisoners held at Principe Prison.

They were charged with sedition. Their release was due to lack of evidence.

'Ware, Pickpockets, Of Wild Bill Lyons

Farley Aid Wears Device of Needles and Pins to Guard Watches.

(United Press.)

William C. "Wild Bill" Lyons, administrative assistant to Postmaster General Farley, believes he has discovered an infallible protection against pickpockets.

Lyons, it was revealed today, carries in his vest pockets an arrangement of needles and pins designed to painfully discourage any light-fingered thief who tries to steal his watches.

German Party Seats Ordered Not to Be Filled

Socialist and State Posts, Recently Voided, Will Remain Open.

Berlin, July 7 (A.P.).—A government decree for "safeguarding the leadership of the nation" declared today that the 125 Reichstag seats and the hundreds of seats in the state diets, voided by the recent outlawing of the Socialists and state parties, will not be refilled.

District and municipal mandates, as well as honorary and administrative posts, the decree continued, will be filled with discretion by authorities "in accordance with the will of the people since the defeat of the party system."

Meanwhile, Chancellor Hitler was disclosed as having criticized those members of the Nazi organization guilty of trying to hamper the economic life of the Reich.

Officially it was disclosed that he had declared at a conference of high holders that "the broad stream of revolution must be changed over to the safe bed of evolution."

"Men versed in business and economic affairs must not be removed simply because they do not happen to be Nazis. Ability alone must decide in business. Our task is creating work, not dismissing men of affairs."

After declaring that Germany will be judged hereafter by "the ability to create work," he added:

"The ideas underlying the Nazi program do not mean that we must act like fools and upset everything, but rather that we must realize our ideals wisely, carefully and gradually."

The German press was asked today to back the Austrian Nazis unreservedly in their fight against the government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

At a press reception for Theodore Habicht, Austrian Nazi leader; Otto Dietrich, German Nazi press chief, chided a section of the press for their conciliatory attitude toward Austria. Habicht assailed Chancellor Dollfuss as a "separatist," and said he was doomed to failure.

"It is impossible to incorporate Austria into the Reich today," Habicht said. "However, when an inner accord between the nations is reached a formal Anschluss (Austro-German union) will be superfluous."

Slot-Machine Tax In Virginia Sought

$100 Levy Would Yield $100,000, State Senator Says.

Richmond, Va., July 7 (A.P.).—State Senator W. A. Garrett, of Henry County, said here today that he will introduce a bill in the next regular session of the General Assembly to tax slot machines at $100 each.

He estimated that the tax would yield $100,000 in revenue.

"Many of these slot machines," said Senator Garrett, "are gambling devices pure and simple. They tempt the unwary and they draw children into their meshes of chance. If they are recognized as lawful instruments of 'amusement' they should be taxed to a reasonable limit. I believe the State may derive much revenue from this source. There is no doubt that the machines, legal or illegal, are luxuries and as such should pay the luxury tax."

Furniture Prices Hold Same Levels

Fail to Keep Pace With General Gains Listed in Other Lines.

(Associated Press.)

Despite the general steady increase in other lines, wholesale prices of furniture have shown little, if any, rise, as measured by the Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics.

Retail prices, it was pointed out at the bureau, have increased in a number of cities, but no Government agency attempts to record retail figures. Bureau officials explained that while retail prices may increase in one city, or even in one store in that city, stores in other cities may slash their prices in brisk competition for trade.

June wholesale figures have not been published, but the bureau said there was no increase on identical items, such as living room, bed room or dining room suites, chairs, tables, &c.

Recovery Act Favoritism to Unions Denied

Rumors Spiked by Johnson; Says All Workers to Share Benefits.

(Associated Press).

Maj. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, said last night in a statement that assertions that it was the purpose of the industrial act to unionize labor were incorrect.

The administrator likewise termed incorrect statements that the only way labor could secure benefits under the act was to join a union. Reports had come to him, he said, that such assertions were being made by labor union agents.

"Similar statements purporting to come from industrial concerns have intimated," Gen. Johnson said, "that this or that newly formed company union is the only organization through which labor can get a fair deal under this act.

"Both statements are incorrect and such erroneous statements of the act and its administration tend to foment misunderstanding and discord."

Gen. Johnson said that it was the duty of the administration to see that all labor, organized and unorganized, gets a square deal, and "the administration is organized to do and will do that duty."

Gen. Johnson said that the policy of the recovery administration respecting the rights and obligations of both organized and unorganized labor was based on a declaration in the act describing the intention as being "to induce and maintain united action of labor and management under adequate Government sanction and supervision."

"Manifestly," Gen. Johnson said, "the purpose of the act is to create and preserve harmonious relationships and to prevent industrial strife and class conflicts.

"Labor in any industry has the right to organize and bargain collectively; the law also recognizes the right of individual workers to bargain for their own conditions of employment, but in the execution of this new social policy, to which the Government stands committed, it is the obligation of the national recovery administration to require the payment of living wages by industry as a condition of continued existence, and to prevent excessive and unreasonable disparities, in the interest both of social justice and a balanced economy.

"Collective bargaining under adequate Government sanction and supervision should hold no fears for the fair-minded industrialist; on the other hand, the national recovery administration pledges itself through its labor advisory board to obtain a fair deal for labor in any industry presenting a code, whether the employes are organized or not. It is not the function or the purpose of the administrator to organize either industry or labor."

Archbishop Lauds Summer Session

Most Rev. Cicognani Tells Catholic Students to Guide Religion.

His excellency, the Most Rev. Amelto Giovanni Cicognani, the apostolic delegate to the United States, last night addressed the students of the Catholic University summer school in the Crypt of the National Shrine and celebrated benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. He was assisted by the Rev. Sebastian Doris, O. S. B., as deacon, and the Rev. Lambert Dunne, O. S. B., as subdeacon, with the Rev. Louis Arand, chaplain of the summer school, as master of ceremonies.

The Right Rev. Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of the university, delivered the address of welcome, in which he outlined the important part played in the development of Catholic education in America by the university. He presented Archbishop Cicognani.

In his address the apostolic delegate stated: "My wish is that the summer school become, by your example and by the zeal of the students who attend year by year, a more fundamental element in the educational life of the university—a center from which will go forth to all parts of the country an ever more efficient program of higher studies. May, too, the summer school become a guide to all in the most important work of religious education. Finally, ever and above its many other well-known merits, may the university become, by means of its ideals and work, a beacon light to the youth of America for the lasting welfare of religion and of this great country."

Family Dinner Party to Mark Rockefeller's 94th Birthday

Observance of Day Will Be Simpler Even Than in Former Years.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—A dinner party with three generations of his family present will be John D. Rockefeller's only departing routine tomorrow on his ninety-fourth birthday anniversary.

A few old friends from Tarrytown have been invited to join relatives at the quiet celebration at the financier's Pocantico Hills estate.

The observance of the day will be even simpler than in recent years. At Mr. Rockefeller's request the usual serenade by a band will be omitted, and the only music will be a few hymns on the pipe organ after the dinner.

After an 8 o'clock breakfast his valet, John Yordi, will read him, as is customary, the high lights of the day's news. In addition, though, there will be a stack of congratulatory messages that already are arriving from all parts of the country.

If the weather is good, Mr. Rockefeller will play nine holes of golf, a sport on which he exhibits intense concentration.

When some one once commented on this characteristic, he replied:

"You can't play golf without it. Can we do anything without it? Do not many of us who fail to achieve much, fail of success in any degree, fail because we lack concentration?"

A light luncheon will be followed by a rest and then a two-hour automobile ride. Dinner will be at 6:30 p. m., but before he retires two hours and a half later, Mr. Rockefeller will indulge in his favorite game of numerica, a sort of competitive solitaire played with 52 numbered cards.

He has been playing the game after meals for years. He explained at one time that it kept him from hurrying back to his work, which he considered bad for the health.

Mr. Rockefeller ferried across the Hudson today in the course of his automobile ride and gave half-dollars, instead of the customary dimes, to two musicians who played classical music for him.

Diver Who Helped Put Loeb in Jail Gets Paid

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—The trial of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold for the slaying of little Bobby Franks was washed up nine years ago, but it was not until today that Frank Rupke got his pay for helping convict them.

The city council finally voted him $750 for nine days of diving in Jackson Park lagoon for a typewriter which figured as evidence against the youths.

Diplomats Racket Victims

By Morgan Baker.

Diplomatic attaches visiting New York now are targets of a new sort of racket, The Washington Post learned last night. The small-time extortion game has been worked successfully on several and has just come to light through one indignant first secretary of one of the major embassies in Washington.

The racket works like this:

The secretary arrived at a fashionable New York hotel to attend a wedding. An employe of a so-called "better business" magazine spots his name, title and connection and called on the envoy for "news on conditions" in his country. Not being authorized to issue statements on international affairs, the attache politely refused to grant an interview or make a statement, saying that his sojourn in New York was purely of a personal nature.

The European heard no more from the alleged publication for two weeks. Then, one fine morning last week, to his amazement, a package came to the embassy, containing 25 copies of the upstate magazine—a shabby pamphlet. Accompanying the parcel was a bill for $25. The attache wrote a letter of protest to the publisher. His protest was ignored in the reply, which was a demand for immediate remittance of the $25 or "the matter will be referred to officials" in his native capital.

Not wishing to cause his government any embarrassment with the United States or any of its citizens over a private debt, however small or unjust, the secretary paid from his own pocket.

The racket seems to be concentrated on members of legations of smaller nations, except for the known instance of the attache of a great European power.

Realizing that the women of the Diplomatic Corps would abhor especially any trick that would place them in the light of ridicule as beating small debts, the "magazine" sent a similar bill to a baroness recently. It was accompanied in the same mail by a duplicate to her husband. A check for the full amount finally was sent after threats of creating embarrassment with the baron's superiors.

U. S. Treasurer Hands Receipt For 19 Billions

Woods Turns Over to His Successor Huge Total, Carefully Counted.

(Associated Press).

Transfer of the largest amount of money and securities ever made by a Government official was completed yesterday when Walter O. Woods, former Treasurer of the United States, turned over to his successor, W. A. Julian, a total of $19,347,366,089. To this sum the amount of 51 2-3 cents was meticulously added.

Julian, named as Treasurer by President Roosevelt, gave his predecessor an itemized receipt for the amount, which was the largest that any incoming Treasurer of the United States has ever receipted. In fact, it was about $5,000,000,000 greater than when Woods took office.

The exactness with which the committee handled the transfer of the funds from one treasurer to another was shown in its listing of the two-thirds of a cent shown in the receipts. It was necessitated by an old Tennessee bond which has remained in the Treasury since before President Harrison's term of office.

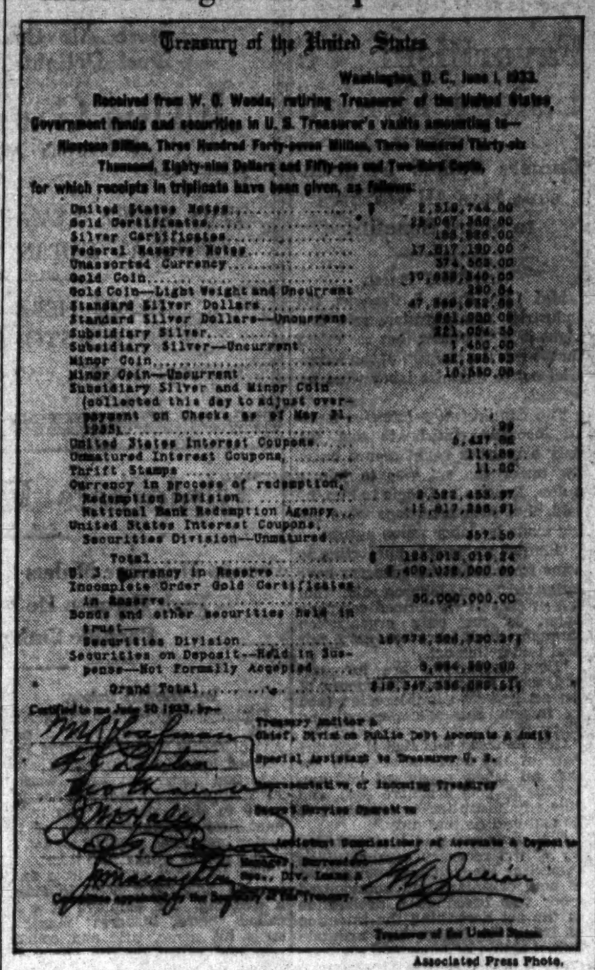

The largest item in the receipts was for $16,776,306,720.27 2-3, which was for securities the Government holds from foreign nations for war debts, securities from banks to guarantee Government deposits, and securities from banks to back currency.

The new treasurer receipted $25,067,360 of gold certificates, $10,838,340 of gold and $47,369,932 of silver. The immensity of the job of counting all of the money in the Treasury was shown by the silver total alone. The metal weighed 1,400 tons and is actually only one-tenth of the silver that the Government has. The remainder of it is in mints and the subtreasury.

Another large item on the receipt was $2,409,032,000 of reserve currency, which is held in the Treasury.

The counting has been under the direction of a committee appointed by the outgoing and incoming treasurer and a secret service operative and tellers selected by them. The work was started more than a month ago and every bit of coin and currency and securities in the Treasury that was not under seal of the mint or the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was counted.

Mother of Child Sees HimKilled By Huge Truck

Playmates Unable to Warn Boy Backing Into Big Vehicle Near Home.

While his mother looked on in horror, 9-year-old Boyd Armstrong was crushed beneath the wheels of a 12-ton truck in front of his home in Branchville, Md., late yesterday.

The accident occurred as the boy was backing out into the street for a better aim at an object in a tree he had selected as a bull's-eye for his "bean shooter."

So suddenly did it occur neither Mrs. Burton Armstrong, the mother, who was sitting on the front porch of the Armstrong home, nor a score of Boyd's playmates nearby were able to utter a cry of warning.

The truck, which, police said, belonged to the Maier Concrete Works of Bladensburg and was operated by William Pullman, 21, a member of the Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department, passed over a portion of the youth's skull and right arm.

The Bladensburg Rescue Squad responded, but was unable to render any assistance and Boyd was pronounced dead by Dr. A. O. Etienne. Pullman was summoned to appear at a coroner's inquest before Justice of the Peace John Shipley at Berwyn, Md., Monday night. Mrs. Armstrong, in a hysterical condition, was treated at home by Dr. Etienne.

Welfare Head To Be Selected At Alexandria

Outlay of State's $3,983 to Get Under Way Next Week.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence is expected during the coming week to announce the appointment of a head welfare worker for Alexandria for three months. Under the rules of the State director, he must be a nonresident. Mrs. Nettie Garner Thompson has been named assistant director.

The quarters of the welfare officials will be on the ground floor of the city hall, in the rooms formerly occupied by the Alexandria United Charities. The cost for salaries and transportation is not to exceed $900. Mr. Lawrence stated he has on file a long list of applicants from various parts of Virginia, some of whom have had wide experience.

The city has been allotted $3,983 for the charity work, to be made available as soon as the appointment is made. About $3,000 more will be available monthly, and an additional $7,000 is expected to be allotted. Heretofore United Charities has operated on funds appropriated by the city or donated by organizations and private individuals.

Mr. Lawrence will appear before the meeting of the United Charities Tuesday and explain the workings of the new organization, which will eliminate the present charity board, as result of rules of the State body requiring that trained welfare workers, not residents of the city, carry on the work.

Braden Denies Water Famine Menace Exists

Replies to Warning Sent to Arlington on Pipe Lines Over Chain Bridge.

Arlington County Bureau of The Post, Clarendon, Va., Tel. Clar. 500.

Making public yesterday a letter he has received from Maj. J. D. Arthur, jr., District Engineer, which sets forth need of immediate increase of the county's main across Chain Bridge, County Manager Roy S. Braden last night said:

"A conference was held last year with Army engineers at the Dalecarlia Reservoir on plans of the county to meet the situation at that time, which were approved. They called for the installation on a line in Cherrydale, which has been completed and which would double the county's supply with small loss of friction. I feel that there is at this time no immediate fear of any shortage in the county's water supply."

Maj. Arthur's letter read:

"The continually increasing pumping demands required by Arlington County's water system have materially increased pressure in the pipe lines across Chain Bridge. The question of installing a new 24-inch pipe line at this point and increasing the size of the principal supply mains in Arlington County from the end of the 24-inch main to Arlington County reservoir is again brought to your attention.

"Due to increased pressures at Chain Bridge, considerable trouble has been experienced with piping and fittings. Should serious trouble develop at Chain Bridge the entire Arlington County area would be faced with a water famine. As you know, the pipe lines in the Potomac River Valley are working under pressures in excess of pipe rating and design, and from time to time the effects of the excess pressure manifest themselves in broken flanges, cracked castings, and, in one case, a cracked gate valve. On three occasions it has been necessary to replace broken flanges. This constitutes a serious hazard to continuity of service of your system, especially, since it is necessary to pump into reservoir an average of 18 hours per day during the summer season.

"A resume of these conditions is again brought to your attention at this time with the thought that the board of supervisors might be interested in applying to the Public Works Board for a loan to proceed with this work, which is becoming more and more imperative."

The Lyon Park Junior Community Center will hold its weekly meeting at 3 p. m. today at the community house. The program will consist of moving pictures, together with a story by Mrs. E. V. Colbery and numbers by Beatrice Brantley, Walter Brown, Evelyn Ann Bernhardt, Carolyn Dorsey and Nancey Lee Throgmorton.

County Manager Roy S. Braden leaves today for Charlottesville, Va., where he will address the Institute of Public Affairs, now in session at the University of Virginia.

Man Held at Marlboro In Beer Parlor Holdup

Charged with attempting to hold up a beer parlor in Capitol Heights, Md., late Thursday night, a man giving his name as Robert W. Carr, jr., of that town, was lodged in the jail at Marlboro yesterday.

Railey swung around, Constable Elving Campbell, the arresting officer, said, and tore the mask from Carr's face. The would-be holdup man then fled. Taken into custody a few hours later, he was identified by five persons. He will be given a hearing in Police Court next Thursday.

No Sparkle!

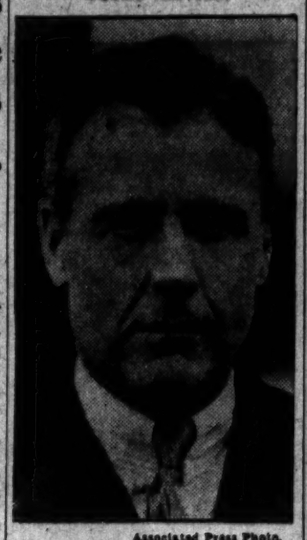

'Champagne' Also Banned in New Regulations for 3.2 Wine.

The word "sparkling" no longer may be used to describe 3.2 wine which has been artificially carbonated, the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol decreed yesterday. Neither can the carbonated wine be described "champagne," the bureau said further.

If carbon dioxide has been added to the wine to make it sparkle, the label must state that it is "artificially carbonated" or say "Carbon dioxide added," according to wine regulation amendments issued yesterday.

If the wine has been produced by the reduction of the alcoholic content, this fact also must be stated on the label. Other amendments allow the addition of tartaric acid to the wine to make it taste more like the preprohibition product. Such preservatives as benzoate of soda or sulphur dioxide may be added by the manufacturer. The bottler may only add carbon dioxide.

JOHN CUDAHY,
new Ambassador to Poland, to confer with Col. E. M. House about things diplomatic before going to post at Warsaw.

Cudahy to Talk With House on Warsaw Duties

Friends Give Many Books on Poland to New Ambassador.

To learn as much as possible as quickly as possible before going to Warsaw next month as President Roosevelt's Ambassador to Poland, John Cudahy, Milwaukee attorney, realtor, war veteran, left Washington last night to consult Col. Edward M. House, adviser of the late President Wilson, at Beverly Farms, Mass.

From what he learns there and from what he hopes to glean from the scores of books interested friends have left in his apartment at the Carlton Hotel, Mr. Cudahy expects to acquire a helpful background of Polish history and tradition. From the books, particularly, the new ambassador extraordinary is looking for, he says, "quotations for speeches."

Poland will not be entirely strange to Mr. Cudahy. He visited Warsaw once when the 389th Infantry, in which he was a captain, was sent into Siberia following the war, and it is as a soldier-diplomat that Mr. Cudahy hopes to reach a common understanding with the Poles, for he has heard of the Polish love of soldiery, of the valor of the Polish lancers.

Mr. Cudahy will return to Washington next Friday, believing that by that time the President will have a few minutes to give him. Before leaving for Warsaw, August 9, on the President Harding, Mr. Cudahy will return to Milwaukee, where the Polish Alliance of America will give a reception in his honor.

Democrats Stage Rally at Annapolis

State House Is Scene of Big Demonstration as City Election Nears.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 7.—Enthusiasm among Annapolis Democrats in view of the municipal election Monday reached its peak tonight, when the candidates and delegations of Democratic clubs paraded the principal streets of the city. A rally followed at the State House, where addresses were delivered by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, State Senator Ridgely P. Melvin, Charles E. Chance, candidate for mayor, and Albert J. Goodman, candidate for city counselor, and others.

Meanwhile, the Republicans, led by Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, and Counselor Roscoe E. Roe, both seeking reelection, carried their campaign into the Fourth Ward, realizing that a heavy colored vote is imperative to the Republican cause.

The impending election is exciting greater interest than any recent municipal contest, and a heavy vote, with the usual close result, is indicated.

Tri-City Route Finally Gains State Approval

Maryland Board Abandons Straight Line Highway to Gettysburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 7.—State approval of the Washington-Frederick-Gettysburg Memorial Highway added its weight to the indorsement of a score of Frederick and Montgomery County organizations as the two-county hearing on the public works fund appropriations was held here today.

Representative David J. Lewis, chairman, and Holmes D. Baker, of this city, a member of the sixth district subcommittee, conducted the hearings in the mayor and alderman room of the City Hall, hearing sixteen speakers for Montgomery County, one for the State of Maryland, and going on without recess into the hearings for Frederick County.

Representing the State Roads Commission, E. Brooke Lee, of Silver Spring, announced that the body yesterday had given its approval to the memorial highway project between Washington and Gettysburg by way of Frederick.

Alternate Route Dropped.

The proposed alternate straight-line route by Silver Spring, he stated, had been abandoned definitely.

The State will ask the Federal Government to widen and modernize the Frederick highway out of its $3,500,000 grant to Maryland for road construction under terms of the National Recovery Act. The plan will be advocated, Mr. Lee stated, as a Federal project, and not as a part of the 70-30 per cent plan on which municipal and local improvements will be made.

No reference was made to the probable width to be recommended. Prior to the announcement on behalf of the State Roads Commission, the Montgomery County commissioners, through their president, Lacey Shaw, had indorsed the Frederick route, and the Frederick County commissioners, through their president, John W. Holter, were preparing to do so.

Mayor Elmer F. Munshower, of Frederick, and other Frederick citizens and organizations spoke for the road, in addition to other local projects.

Petitions from residents of Montgomery and Frederick Counties living in towns along the highway between Rockville and Urbana containing 375 names, also were presented.

Parallel Route to Baltimore.

Another important road project to be recommended by Montgomery County delegations was the alternate route from northwest Washington to southwest Baltimore, generally paralleling the present Baltimore-Washington boulevard and running to the west of it through Montgomery and Howard Counties.

This highway, diverting traffic from the boulevard, would extend from Burtonsville, west of Laurel, to Oak Mills and Ilchester, and enter Baltimore by Wilkens avenue. The present 20-foot highway from Silver Spring to Burtonsville would be improved.

The Montgomery commissioners also recommended improvement of the present Conduit road through the Army reservation west of Washington, in lower Montgomery County, following the Potomac River to Great Falls. A supplementary proposal to construct a bridge from Great Falls to the Virginia side of the river was not included in the Montgomery list.

The Montgomery speaker was Mr. Shaw, who introduced Dr. George L. Edmonds, a member of the board of commissioners, who read the county board's recommendations. These consisted of a public school program, a highway program, a sewerage and sanitary program, the alternate Baltimore road project, on the 70-30 basis, and the Washington - Frederick - Gettysburg national highway, and improvement of the Conduit road on a purely Federal basis.

Valet Cuts Roosevelt Diet Without Executive Knowing

Colored Servitor Notices That President Makes Little Progress on Reducing His Overweight and Takes Steps Against His Breakfast.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt has gone on a diet to get rid of those extra 7 pounds he picked up during his vacation—only he doesn't know about it yet.

One of the first things Mr. Roosevelt said on his return was that he intended to reduce to his customary weight of 175 or 176 pounds by swimming and eating less.

He hasn't had much time for swimming, but Irvin McDuffie, his valet, yesterday saw to it that his chief cut down on his food.

McDuffie, a Georgia Negro, waited a couple of days for the Chief Executive to begin his dieting program, but he noticed that Mr. Roosevelt ate the customary amount, or perhaps a little bit more.

It was time for action, McDuffie decided. He carries the President's breakfast to his bedside each morning. The tray that he toted in yesterday was lighter than usual by one egg, one slice of bacon and one piece of toast.

"Mac" stood by, waiting for some comment, favorable or unfavorable. Preoccupied with other matters, the President apparently never noticed the difference.

That sort of thing might have gone on indefinitely with only the valet knowing about it, but McDuffie was so elated he told other members of the family about it. And they told some other people.

D. C. Firemen Will Make Own Parade Plans

Department Volunteers to Replace Citizen Workers of Former Years.

Enthusiastic over the plan to have members of the District Fire Department service as chairmen of committees that will direct the eleventh annual firemen's Labor Day parade, active workers volunteered for duty yesterday.

In the past, major committees have been headed by citizens who have handled most of the details of the event. Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, founder of the parade, has always been the moving figure behind all work, however.

This year, both Sergt. Bargagni and Chief George S. Watson, head of the District department, believe the pageant will be more of a firemen's affair if firemen actually handle it. At a meeting of the National Firemen's Association, sponsoring the parade, it was recently decided that the parade should take this course.

Officers Offer Services.

Among the well known members of the District department who will head important committees, the following have volunteered their services:

Capt. H. E. Chapman, No. 18 Engine.
Capt. A. J. Lipske, No. 31.
Capt. R. E. S. Boss, No. 10 Engine.
Sergt. A. Minnick, No. 22 Engine.
Sergt. R. A. Barton, No. 21 Engine.
E. J. Brosnan, No. 8 Engine.
John C. Chase, No. 3 Truck.
John J. Tracy, No. 28 Engine.
Carlisle S. Peterson, chief's office.
J. M. Jamison, No. 17 Engine, and president of the District Firefighters Association.

About 20 additional department workers will be needed for committee work, Sergt. Bargagni and his coworkers; Noble Rusha, vice president of the National Firemen's Association, and George Finger, organizer of the association. Men in different companies will be contacted today with this in view.

Sergt. Bargagni has stated that all District firemen interested in working on plans for the parade can be used on committees. They should call him for assignments.

Auxiliary to Enter Float.

Another item of interest in connection with the Labor Day event was a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the District Fire Department at the home of Mrs. E. W. Howard, jr. Mrs. Robert Hayes, president, presided.

The parade was one of the chief topics discussed by the women who so cheerfully give their services each year to make the event a success. Without them, firemen agree, there could not be much of a parade.

Determined to carry off one of the best prizes, the auxiliary decided to enter a float. A committee to take care of the design and other details will be announced soon.

The auxiliary's executive committee will meet Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Logan Woolward.

Camp Phones

Forest Workers Soon to Have Communication and Electricity.

Camp life is getting easier and easier for the reforestation workers, with plans complete for installing communication systems in all camps and electric power in many.

Camps which are not too far from commercial telephone lines will have phone communications, while Army short-range radios will be installed in the remainder. The phone lines are being constructed by the workers under the direction of the Signal Corps of the Army. The radios for other camps will be the regular Army portable sets for sending and receiving.

A few camps which are located near commercial electric lines have brought this power into their camps. In the First Corps Area in the New England States 80 old generators have been reconditioned. Bought during the World War, they generate 4,000 kilowatts each. Camps in this area will make practically all their own power, with lights in kitchens, mess halls and each tent.

Incidentally Camp Fechner seems to be the most popular name for the work camps. There are more camps named for Robert Fechner, director of the conservation corps, than even for President Roosevelt.

Francis V. du Pont, also of Wilmington, a son, received the $20,000 in stocks for the benefit of the people of Delaware to be used "in whatever manner and at whatever time or times he may deem it wise." For himself he received $100,000, property in Dorchester County, Md., and 10 per cent of the holdings of Elalfrel Co. stock.

Harriman's Mind Is Called Affected

Dr. Jelliffs, Alienist, Tells Court Banker Is Mental Incompetent.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Joseph W. Harriman, former head of a Fifth avenue bank bearing his name, was described by an alienist as "mentally incompetent" at a hearing today to determine his mental fitness to face trial on charges of making false entries of $1,713,225 in the bank's books and misapplying $600,000.

The alienist, Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe, testified that Harriman was suffering from multiple neuritis, an inflammation of the nerve fibers which eventually affects the brain.

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey held the hearing at the suggestion of Harriman's counsel. The hearing was recessed until noon Monday. In the meantime, the judge will confer with George Z. Medalie, district attorney, on the possible selection of additional alienists.

Cabinet Trio in Chile Will Retain Offices

Santiago, Chile, July 7 (A.P.).—The cabinet situation was definitely consolidated today with the three ministers, including Premier Alfredo Piwonka, who submitted resignations, remaining at their posts.

There was no further exchange of communications after President Arturo Alessandri refused to accept the resignations yesterday and criticized elements in the Radical and Democratic parties for threatening to withdraw support from the government. The ministers had submitted resignations to give him a free hand in the situation.

Public Enemy Held in Death Of 4 Officers

Chicago Gunman Is Seized for Quiz in Massacre at Kansas City.

Kansas City, July 7 (A.P.).—R. E. Vetterli, in charge of the Kansas City offices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced late today James (Fur) Sammons, Chicago "public enemy," was under arrest here for investigation in the shooting of four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, here June 17.

Vetterli said he understood Sammons was wanted in the East.

Federal officers and Jackson County deputy sheriffs, armed with riot guns, gas bombs, pistols and bullet-proof hand shields, effected the arrest yesterday at a house here which police said was the residence of a bootlegger.

Sammons, armed with two pistols, made no resistance. Taken to the county jail, he was booked as "John Doe, a native of Illinois."

Nash, an escaped convict, was being returned to the Federal Penitentiary, at Leavenworth, Kans. Officers believe Nash was killed accidentally during an attempt to free him.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Chicago police tonight said they had been informed through Department of Justice channels that James (Fur) Sammons, Chicago "public enemy," had been arrested in Kansas City, presumably in connection with the "union station" massacre there a few weeks ago.

Four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, were slain by machine gunners, June 7, at the plaza of the Kansas City station. Yesterday the Federal Department of Justice ordered the arrest of Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma bandit, and five others in connection with the slayings.

Police here said they understood Sammons was wanted in Baltimore for a bank robbery.

Women Move For New Deal In Employment

National Party to Hold Services Tonight for All Workers.

Recognition of the American working women on the same basis that she has been accepted politically will be the principal campaign idea of the National Woman's Party, according to action taken here yesterday as members prepared for an impressive memorial service at the Sylvan Theater at 8 o'clock tonight.

Reports at the meeting indicated a rapid increase in the number of organizations supporting the equal rights campaign. Recent restrictions imposed upon women wage-earners include the Government's action against married women whose husbands also are employed in Federal departments, a general tendency throughout the country to discourage the employment of married women, and low wage scales.

Delegates here were urged to contact their home State members of Congress on behalf of economic equality. Reports of progress will be sent to the headquarters of the National Woman's Party from time to time.

The ceremonies tonight will include representation from every line of work which employs women, not only professions, but branches of industry as well. Grouped under a banner "Industrial Women Workers," will be seamstresses, waitresses, laundry workers, saleswomen, bookbinders and clerical workers. Mrs. Mary Murray, president of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Women's League, will carry the banner.

Among the professional groups some of the best-known women in Washington will participate. Some of them are:

Dr. Elizabeth O'Malley, president of the Women's Medical Association and clinical director of St. Elizabeth's Hospital; Miss Mary Linkins, representing lawyers; Miss Willye Freeman, representing teachers; Mrs. Emma Shaw, women in Government service; Miss Dorothy Dietz, of Friendship House; Dr. Leah Minkin, dentists; Miss Priscilla Edgerton, Business and Professional Women's Club of All Souls' Church; Miss Ruth Snodgrass, homemakers; Mrs. Stanley Reed, writers; Mrs. Mabel O. Wilcox, actresses; Miss Mary Bland Bryant, artists; Miss Myrtle Patterson, poets, and Mrs. Flora McGill, musicians.

Ceremonies will begin with a concert by the Marine Band, a feature of which will be the "March of Women." The invocation will be offered by the Rev. Rietta M. Emerson, of Wilmington, and Miss Carmela Ponselle, of the Metropolitan Opera, will sing "Weep No More."

Miss Marian Chase, accompanied by a group of young girls, will participate in a special ceremony. "Onward Christian Soldiers" will be sung by the Estelle Wentworth chorus.

Speakers will be Gail Laughlin, State senator of Maine; Miss Doris Stevens, of New York, and Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, national chairman of the Woman's Party.

Railway Engineers Balk Law Change

Brotherhood Rejects Plan to Spread Administrative Authority.

Cleveland, July 7 (A.P.).—A plan to drastically alter the constitution and by-laws of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers by providing a new administrative arm and reducing the number of grand officers was rejected by the triennial convention today by a vote of 495 to 405.

The action came after two days of intense debate on the project. Proponents argued that the plan would spread administrative authority, giving some of the powers now held by Grand Chief Alvanley and his advisory board to a board of directors. Reduced number of officers and allocation to a board of directors of duties which now take up the time of the convention itself, it was argued, would be in the interests of economy.

The rejection of the plan now clears the way for the convention to consider recommendations by the regular contitution and by-laws committee, which do not drastically alter the present setup.

Italian Armada Poised for Hop For Labrador

1,500-Mile Leg Considered Most Dangerous; Feted at Iceland.

Reykjavik, Iceland, July 7 (A.P.).—Gen. Italo Balbo announced today that he plans to order a takeoff at dawn tomorrow of the squadron of 24 seaplanes he is leading on a flight by stages to the Century of Progress in Chicago.

The armada arrived here late Wednesday and has since been awaiting favorable weather for the fourth stage of the trip, a 1,500-mile hop to Cartwright, Labrador.

The general's announcement was made aboard the Swedish-American liner Kungsholm in the harbor here. He and his companions were the luncheon guests of 500 Americans aboard the vessel.

Mechanics have completed a check-over of the seaplanes and pronounced them ready for what is considered the most difficult stage of the entire trip.

At a reception given by Prime Minister Asgeirsson of Iceland, Gen. Balbo, the Italian air minister, said that "the way of aviation is the way of progress, the way to friendship between nations and the avoidance of the terror of war.

"All know the aim of our cruise," said Balbo. "Three years ago we were ordered to take a message of friendship from Italy to the Latin nations of South America.

"Identical messages we are now directed to take to the nations of North America.

"Signor Mussolini, the genial chief and founder of the new order in Italy, has directed that these messages should be taken by airplanes. He thinks the airplanes are the best messengers for civilization."

Thespian Hoodlum Fails to Foil Police

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Customers and employes alike were astounded at a laundry on South Halsted street today when a dapper man dashed in, tossed off his coat, and dodged behind the counter.

"And," he said to a customer, "what can I do for you?"

"Some clerk you've got there," commented Detective Sergt. Jim Symczynski. "Come on out 'Red.' You can't dodge arrest that way."

James Fawcett, 30, hoodlum and public enemy, dropped a package of laundry and went to detective headquarters for questioning.

Regional Wage Standards Balk Coal Operators

Johnson Plans Survey and Wants Same Hours as in Normal Times.

(Associated Press.)

Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, told bituminous coal operators yesterday that any North-South wage differential in a code for the industry was "a question of the facts."

Faced with a question from a group of operators, mostly from a group of union fields in the Central and Midwest regions, as to the possibility of a spread between miners' pay in the North and South, Gen. Johnson said regional differences in living costs would be considered, as in the framing of the textile code.

"The size of the differential won't be determined on the say-so of either side," Johnson continued. "It's a question of facts, and there will be an exhaustive survey thereon."

As for maximum hours, the administrator said the whole idea was to put the same number of miners to work as worked in normal times. Exact hours, he said, would have to be worked out by the operators.

"The weekly wage," Johnson continued, "must be large enough for a decent living. It doesn't make any difference whether labor is union or nonunion. Labor is to get a square deal, union or nonunion, the miners are to be free to join any union they want to. There's to be no coercion to make a man join any union. That must be the code."

Johnson addressed the operators and miners after they had gone to work on a code. Preliminary discussions had been started by a committee of operators and union labor officials. John L. Lewis, president of the mine union, claimed the committee represented 14 States.

Johnson said it might be feasible for "two or three" large regions to present codes which could be reframed into a single code with "reasonable discriminations as to regional differences."

It was reported in coal circles here that large Southern interests were finishing a code to be presented next week.

Goebel, Film Man, Convicted In Trial Lasting 207 Days

Producer Who Victimized Catholic Clergy and Laymen in "Clean Movie" Fraud, and Eight Accomplices Given Prison Terms.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The trial of Otto E. Goebel, Hollywood producer, and eight others charged with using the mails to defraud, ended today, 207 days after it started.

After deliberating all night, the weary jury convicted Goebel and his associates. Goebel was sentenced to serve five years in a Federal penitentiary and to pay a fine of $41,000.

The case started on December 12 last and shattered all known records for a criminal trial. For 109 days the judge and jury listened to testimony and arguments. The remainder of the time was consumed in week-end adjournments and recesses caused by the illness of jurors

The defendants were charged with illegal use of the mails in the sale of $3,000,000 of stock of the National Diversified Corporation, formed by Goebel for the avowed purpose of carrying on a "clean motion picture movement."

Most of the investors were Catholic priests and laymen. The Government called as witnesses many prominent Catholics, including former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, John J. Raskob, former Democratic national committee chairman, and Bishop John J. Dunn, who denied authorizing use of their names for stock-promotion purposes.

Goebel, plump and with a ruddy complexion and brown hair shot with gray, was the first defense witness. He was called to the stand on March 30. On May 18, his face pale, his hair altogether gray and about 20 pounds lighter, he finished testifying—a new record for the length of time on a witness stand.

The jury of 13 men, including an alternate, listened to the testimony for two months without asking a question. Then, they began. Before the trial ended some of them were experienced at cross-examination.

It will cost the defendants approximately $12,000 to have the record transcribed if they appeal. The court stenographer, Michael Gilligan, inscribed more than 3,000,000 words of testimony.

Elizabeth M. Flautt, Goebel's sister-in-law, for whom the jury recommended mercy, was sentenced to serve a year and a day in a penitentiary. Her sister, Irene C. Flautt, was sentenced to serve four years and to pay a fine of $41,000.

Six salesmen for the corporation received prison sentences and were fined $41,000 each. Jerome D. Klein and James F. Cassidy were sentenced to four years each, and Bernard J. Flynn, Franklyn Johnson, Robert J. Patterson and John Elder were sentenced to serve two years each.

How to Keep Well

CHIGGER BITES.

A CHIGGER, commonly known as a redbug, is so small that the unaided eye can scarcely see the pest. But it can penetrate to the deeper structures of the skin and, what is a greater source of trouble, secrete a mild poison. This poison causes itching, redness and some swelling; it is capable of liquefying blood—dissolving its corpuscles and causing it to ooze a short distance into the tissues.

There is no evidence that this poison can absorb in any harmful quantity, cause fever, hemolysis or any other serious condition, or that it can transmit any disease. It is true that chigger bites sometimes result in ulcers, but that does not occur except as a result of scratching and infection by fingernail dirt. So far as the evidence goes, chiggers are of importance only in so far as they cause discomfort.

This carries with it one implication: if no attention, or very little, is paid to the itching—if the temptation to scratch is resisted, the discomfort caused by chigger bites will be reduced by half. If one will disregard the chigger the discomfort caused will be greatly reduced and the hazard of infected scratch marks will be obviated. It holds true of all disorders and conditions the sole effect of which is discomfort that the patient contributes more than half the discomfort through his mental reaction and, as a corollary, the discomfort can be reduced at least half by the right kind of mental reaction.

There are various effective methods of relieving chigger bites. The one the writer knows most about calls for a drop or two of chloroform on each bite. After dropping on the chloroform one hand is cupped and held over the bite, so as to keep the chloroform fumes in contact with the skin. The hand is held in this position until the skin burns uncomfortably. This kills the bug in place. One treatment generally suffices. When the itching sensation disappears we know that the bug is dead, and that in a few days the swelling will disappear and the redness lessen gradually. Some people grease the bites with salted butter. There are several other very good chigger remedies—better than salted butter, in fact. The fond mothers of younger children may prefer to pick the bug out of the skin, using the point of a needle for the purpose.

There are various effective measures of prevention. A very good one is to start out in the morning by dusting powdered sulphur into the shoes and over the feet and up the legs to about the garter level. Ninety per cent of the chiggers invade from below. They get on the skin, usually of the feet and ankles, and crawl upward until they reach an obstruction such as a garter or a tight band on a garment. When its ascent is stopped the bug scouts around for an area of thin skin, then bores in, following the duct of a grease gland or sweat gland or a hair shaft. The skin on a flexor surface is generally chosen because it is thin.

It is a very good plan of prevention to take a bath and put on fresh undergarments after having been in pastures and other places where chiggers abound. Laundry soap is the best kind to use to wash off the bugs that have not yet holed in.

Being Deceived.

R. J. B. writes: I have been suffering with hay fever for the last ten summers. My friends tell me the cause is to be found in the blood and that a change in diet will produce clean blood, which will completely cure hay fever. What do you think?

Reply: I think some one is trying to deceive you.

Explainer

Many Aids Ask President to Radio Description of Their Jobs.

There is no doubt that administration leaders consider President Roosevelt the champion explainer of the whole new deal, judging from the number of his assistants who want him to tell, in radio talks, about the work they are doing.

The new groups which have asked him to explain their purpose include the Farm Credit Administration, the Home Owners Loan Corporation, the Emergency Relief Administration, the National Recovery Administration, the Public Works Administration, and two or three others, the President said yesterday.

The civilian conservation corps has also asked him to make a radio address to the reforestration army, and he has agreed. During the course of an hour-long program dedicated to the workers, he will say just 20 words. This conservation corps "speech" is the only one for which he is scheduled.

Tricks

By Mary Brook Lucas

"Alice, I couldn't wait for you to see this new bag, isn't it adorable? Of real wood with all the grain. They come in walnut, oak, zebra and bird's-eye!" exclaimed the excited Judy. Her simple frock of blue linen is trimmed with pearl buttons. Alice's white linen suit flaunts a black organdie bow and hat.

"Isn't this a nice idea, Alice? Merely top this frock with this heavy crash coat and pin a red, pink and yellow carnation on the lapel and, presto—the whole appearance is changed. I adore things to 'pin on,' don't you? And these terribly bright carnations are a big change from the shy gardenias.

"I want you to tell me what you think of this new white chalk crepe. Oh, yes, it's washable, most of my summer things are! I just snap this tricky scarf around my neck and slip a piece of the matching silk around my waist and through the big buckle for the grand effect.

"And when I tire of these many dizzy dots I go Scotch with this plaid gingham and snap this nice starched flower to the neckline and replace the dotted belt with this plaid one! Isn't it fun to do tricks? Variety is the spice of life—have a mint lemonade?" laughs Judy.

The Meanderer Says

Serve Cooling Drinks in Nice Glasses to Forget Heat.

The weather man says it's going to be a dry summer, but (with a sly wink) the Meanderer says it's not. The Washington shops substantiate her theory, too. Not in so many words, you understand, but by their displays of all conceivable drinking facilities. In your wildest dreams you never saw the like of all the new and attractive contraptions the ingenious manufacturers are presenting to the public.

For instance, there's the liquor-proof tray with six mugs in early American design. Two mugs are red, two crystal and two blue. Here's a wonderful opportunity to suit the color-minded guest. One of the most appealing features of the set is the convenient handle on the tray. You know, one hand for the handle and one for balance. Complete set, $2.

Along this same line are the new utility tray tables, light, easy to carry and always ready for use. They're collapsible, too, but guaranteed to collapse only at the right time so that they can be folded up and tucked away to await their call into service. If you feel in the bargain mood, don't fail to see the 25-piece beverage sets, including a pitcher, 8 tea glasses, 8 water tumblers and 8 orange juice glasses, all for the sum of $1.

We all agree that beer parties are lots of fun to attend, but they can also be fun to give if the hostess has an eye for finishing touches. Suppose, for instance, she used one of the gayly striped pretzel jars, thereby subtly suggesting the festive spirit. Let her follow this up by serving the beer in the new Pilsner abbreviated mugs—this for atmosphere. Instead of worrying over the linen problem, she may find a ready solution in the red and blue checked paper napkins, and in this way stress the informality of the occasion.

If you're going on a picnic and want to take along seven or eight bottles of beer you'll find the "Polar Beer Paks" the very thing. Furthermore, they're guaranteed to keep the contents cool for as long as 12 hours. In other words, pack up your beer in the Polar Pak, and smile, smile, smile.

No doubt you're going to look a bit skeptically at the old Meanderer when she suggests that you have your silhouette put on your tumbler, but it can be done in such a delightful fashion that the result more than compensates for the first shock of suggestion. By using the copper-wheel device, which is being featured in a certain store, it can be worked quite easily, and altogether delightfully. If modesty prompts you to scoff at this, perhaps you will take more readily to the engraved initial idea. There's something very distinctive about monogrammed glasses.

Some one suggested to the Meanderer that she advocate using the copper-wheel device to number beer glasses so that Oswald would be sure to keep No. 7, Jane No. 5 and John No. 3. But the Meanderer could see that in case of a casual mixup there might, just might, mind you, ensue complications, and after all, what's the use of spoiling a good party? What do you think?

Is there a hostess anywhere who hasn't worried over the broken handle of a pitcher? Take heart, for it's no longer necessary. Crystal pitchers, which, incidentally, are always good, can be bought in chromium frames, and just you try to break chromium.

The new sensation in fizz circles is the "fizz-its." The bottle containing the effervescent liquid fits down into a little receptacle connected with a chrome-plated tube which does the work. By this means you can now own your own home fountain, and with a little practice soon be a past master in the art of soda-jerking. The course is to be had for the low cost of $1.95, the price of the "fizz-its."

There is often a demand for instantaneous crushed ice, and if so, the easiest way to attend to this business is to have on hand the lightning ice cube breaker. The formula is, "Drop cube in—give handle spin." Q. E. D.—crushed ice.

In the new cooking hot plate there's certain proof that some man was an understanding husband or else a chef, for his inventive genius led him on to something that alleviates a bit of the kitchen misery for a housewife. Place the plate between the pan and the burner, and the chemical in the plate will absorb the heat beyond the boiling point, so that the vegetable, or what-have-you, may merrily cook away for hours without danger of scorching. Imagine, only 50 cents for a luxury like this.

Seen on the 10-cent table of a certain store where very few things are 10 cents: Linen finish paper table cover, 40 by 80 inches, with napkins to match.

Call Junior, quick! The Meanderer has a surprise package for him!

Hello, Junior! How do you like this? A glass bulb! It is half-filled with water. Now, what do you think is bouncing around in there? A little teeny frog! (of celluloid). You want to keep it, do you, Junior? Well, you tell mother it's only $1.

The Mode . . . Dare

ONCE upon a time we said "bathing suit," and that called up a certain picture in our minds, a picture that meant, "bathing suit" to us. Well, and bathing suit meant something more or less knitted—more so as the years went on and the manufacturers flattered us more and more! Next thing you know, when we said bathing suit we thought of something knitted or woven, but delightfully styled—flattering, daring, even.

Only this year, and a very little last year, did we begin to think of bathing suits as a possible something else than knitted. First we heard of cloth suits, very dress-like in their styling. Then we heard of rubber bathing suits, and then this and that, the other—all new and different, all bathing suits.

So now, when we say we need a bathing suit or two or six, what happens? We have to ask ourselves what kind of a bathing suit! And we have to make our very, very important choice between knitted, or cloth, or rubber, or rubberized silk, or whatever.

Of them all, I find that of those that really do cling only the rubber ones are really freedom-giving and comfortable. The cloth ones, however, are delightfully sophisticated and girlish, both in the same breath. So, today let's just talk of them.

Cloth bathing suits can be made from bandana handkerchiefs, and cost a total of 20 cents per suit. Or they can be made of $12-a-yard Jah-may . . . or gingham, or broadcloth. They can be made in little girl styles, or very, very "femme fatal" styles—with high necks and long sleeves. Or they can be as nonchalant as the wind. One can buy them already made, or one can make them. One can order them made by one's dressmaker—incorporating into them the details that one has found over years are the details best suited to one. And one can wear them merely on the beach or in the water. And they are called "dressmaker's suits," these bathing suits of undeniable elegance. Meaning a bathing suit or beach costume which can be made by a dressmaker . . .

• • • •

And, if you would like the very, very simple directions for making this dressmaker's suit for yourself, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for them. The top, skirt pieces and shorts are made separately. You can turn this over to your dressmaker, you know, if you haven't the time to make it yourself—but I'll bet you will have, when you see it. In this same leaflet are a hat and bag set which you might find amusing to make, too. The new endurette, that transparent processed silk which looks just like cellophane but which can be sewn, makes a smart set. Or sway de swah, that waterproof, suede-like fabric—or oh, any fabric you prefer.

• • • •

The new Ambassador from France, or his wife, rather, wears a black cire satin evening gown cut on severe lines with a V-shaped decolletage formed by plain bands on the bodice which are tied at back a little to one side. The gown is slightly draped around the hips, and this draping is held in place by two circlets of diamante. Accompanying the gown is a shoulder cape fastened on one side with a scarf arrangement which is flat and caught to the cape with diamante buttons.

Au revoir.

National Park Plan Is Aired in Virginia

Pollard and Leaders Meet on Project Proposed for Dismal Swamp.

Richmond, Va., July 7 (A.P.).—Proposals to establish a national park in Dismal Swamp were discussed in a conference today between Gov. Pollard, Henry G. Shirley, mentioned as Virginia administrator for the public works program, and William R. Shands, director of the bureau of statutory research and drafting.

Besides the swamp park, they discussed other project proposals, including a Cape Henry National Park, tunnel connecting Norfolk and Portsmouth, Yorktown Bridge, bridges across New River, municipal projects, oyster conservation, stream pollution, erosion and strengthening highway bridges.

No conclusion was reached on the projects pending announcement of the Federal policy on the program from Washington.

What's Good to Eat

Cup Cakes Favorites For Midsummer Eating

By Ann Barrett.

BECAUSE cup cakes are so good and convenient to eat with ice cream, says Irene Dunne. That's why she likes them so much in summer.

But there's many another good reason why these little cakes are such favorites this time of year. Because they're quickly baked. Because they keep well. Because they carry well—if you're picnic-minded, and make a good impression (in dainty sizes) if you're party-minded. Because you can just dust them with powdered sugar, if you don't want to take time to ice them. And last, because one basic recipe will give you almost endless variations.

Basic Cup Cake Recipe.

Here is such a recipe: First cream ½ cup butter, add ½ cup sugar and beat. In another bowl beat 2 egg yolks, then beat them into ½ cup sugar and add to first mixture.

Next, sift together 1¼ cups sifted flour (2 cups less 2 teaspoons), 3 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Add this to first mixture alternately with 2-3 cup milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Last, beat 2 egg whites stiff but not dry, and fold them into mixture. Fill well greased cup cake tins 2-3 full of mixture and bake in center of 385 oven. This recipe makes about 16 family-size cakes (2 inches across at bottom) and about twice that many party-size cakes (1 and ⅛ or ¼ inches across).

Cup-Cake Variations.

Changing the flavoring of these cakes is one way to give them a little extra mascination. I had them the other day flavored with 1-3 teaspoon ginger, and found this especially good with iced beverages. Or you might like half a teaspoon cinnamon. Or one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg. (Nutmeg especially good if you make these cakes with sour milk, using three-eighth teaspoon soda instead of baking powder.) In these cases omit vanilla.

Nut cup cakes (which seem to be very much the thing for parties) you can make by mixing three-quarter cup chopped nuts with a little of the flour specified.

You can have chocolate cup cakes (slick!) by adding 2 squares (ounces) melted chocolate to creamed butter and sugar. Chocolate and nuts both make this recipe past master.

Three more good varations: 1 cup finely shaved citron. Or 1 cup currants, carefully washed, dried and mixed with part of the flour. Or one quarter cup chopped dates and one-half cup chopped nuts mixed with part of flour.

Icing and Decorating.

For icing these cakes, I like our old dependable friend 7-Minute Frosting best. In case you've forgotten how it goes: Just combine 1 egg white (unbeaten) with ¾ cup sugar, 3 tabelspoons cold water, ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar and a few grains of salt in top of double broiler. Set over boiling water and beat with rotary beater until it will stand up in peaks. Flavor with ½ teaspoon extract—vanilla, lemon, orange or almond. Decorate while icing is soft with coconut, chopped or whole nuts, bits of candied fruit, chocolate sprinkles or colored sugar.

Send for Ice Cream Recipes.

I've already hinted (by way of Irene Dunne) what ice cream and cup cakes can do for each other. In case you're interested, I have a new bulletin, "Sure Way to Success With Ice Creams and Sauces," that tells about ice cream. How to make it by the good old crank method as well as in automatic refrigerators. Ice creams, ices, sherbets, mousses, parfaits, 5 pages of useful hints as well as recipes.

Culbertson's Bridge

734.

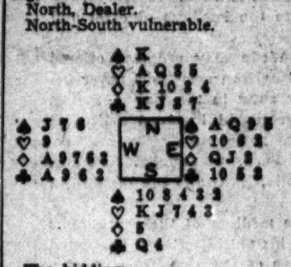

Under an Assumed Name.

"HOW would you have played that hand, Mr. Culbertson?" a fair lady, who happened to be my partner at the bridge table recently asked me after having played a hand in a particularly atrocious manner.

"If I had played it as you did I would have played it under an assumed name," was my reply.

The hand which brought forth this comment was the one following:

North, Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

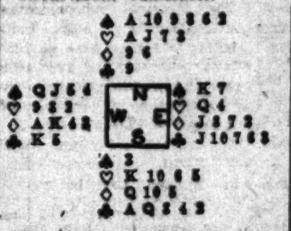

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♡	1♠	2♡	Pass
3♡	Pass	4♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

My partner for some reason decided to play the hand for a cross-ruff and, as a result, was down one on a hand which it will be noticed is spread for four-odd. In the process of play she even ruffed the good diamond King in Dummy and established spades in her own hand. In doing this she gave East an opportunity to discard two small clubs so that she never made a club trick although holding in the combined hands the K Q J. I explained that a cross-ruff on this hand was unnecessary.

The next hand, however, caused me to regret my advice. Again the contract was in four hearts. Again my partner was the Declarer. The hands were:

East, Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The Opening lead made by East was the small diamond. The Ten was played from Dummy and West took two rounds of diamonds and continued the suit, my partner discarding a spade. She had now learned her lesson, so on this hand, which should be played as a cross-ruff, she drew two rounds of trumps and finessed the club Queen, which lost. West then led his last trump and the hand was set two tricks.

It is, of course, apparent that the hand can be made by a cross-ruff, as after the opponents have taken the Ace and King of diamonds, and Declarer has taken the Ace of clubs, the Ace of spades and the Queen of diamonds, three high-card tricks, the remaining seven tricks can be made by ruffing spades and clubs.

The tactics of the lady were right, but they were applied to the wrong hands.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

"CANCER."

INFLUENCES operating on this date may possibly bring about strained relations between close friends and may even result in the breaking of friendships over the most trival of matters. Those in business will tend to rely much on their contracts and more than one deal will be put over as a result of pressure brought to bear on a friend; people will seek to "work the angles."

The child born on this July 8 will in all probability get into a goodly amount of mischief; and this in spite of his rather innocent looks. He will be great fun to have about and will always be at his ease regardless of those present. He will have a wholesome respect for his elders, but no fear of them.

If July 8 is your birthday, you are likely to be a person who is always outwardly calm and completely master of any situation; regardless of how turbulent may be your emotions at any one moment you are able to conceal your feelings. Your voice is always well modulated; seldom do you raise it. People often look on you as a cold sort of person, but you are not that at all. The suffering of others causes you much anguish and whenever possible you quietly go about helping others less fortunate than yourself. You do not like publicity and you are embarrassed when you are forced into the limelight. It is probable that you do not like to pose for pictures, even when asked to by friends.

If July 8 is the date of your birth, you will no doubt accomplish a great deal more than you will ever be given credit for. Into whatever activity or activities you get, you will probably be the "power behind the throne." You could go far, and make a great name for yourself if you would come out in the open and push yourself a bit.

Coeducation, 100 Years Old, Begun by Oberlin, in Ohio

By Sigrid Arne
(Associated Press Feature Writer).

This year sees the close of the first century of high education for women in the United States, the Federal Office of Education points out in a review of the women's educational institutions in the Nation.

Some idea of what was expected of young college girls a century ago is shown in the catalogue of Oberlin College, Ohio, for 1835:

"Young ladies of good mind, unblemished morals and respectable attainments are received into this department and placed under the superintendence of a judicious lady whose duty it is to correct their habits and mold the female character.

"They board at the public table and perform the labor of the steward's department, together with the washing, ironing and much of the sewing of the students. They attend recitations with young gentlemen in all the departments. Their rooms are entirely separate from those of the other sex, and no calls or visits in their respective apartments are at all permitted."

All students were required to work three hours daily. Board was $1 a week for the men and 75 cents for the women, since the women received only 3 cents an hour when the men received 5 cents for their work.

Just 100 years ago Oberlin College, Ohio, opened with a "hearty welcome accorded to women." Oberlin is the oldest coeducational college in the country, although from 1833 to 1837 it was coeducational only in the preparatory department.

"Four women were sufficiently prepared to enter college work by 1837," says the office of education, "and they were graduated in 1842. By 1890 one of every three college students was a woman, and by 1930, with 1,083,000 college students in the country, nearly one-half were women."

Coeducation as an experiment at Oberlin proved successful. Horace Mann, the noted educator, applied it in founding Antioch College in 1852. State universities soon followed suit, partly because of the great need for women teachers, due to the Civil War, which drew men into military service. Coeducation antedated the first colleges exclusively for women, since financial supporters for women's colleges were few.

Politics and Public Works.

The task of separating sound from unsound public works projects is complicated by the intrusion of politicians who are urging huge expenditures for projects of questionable merit. The public seems to be willing to support expenditures on a great scale, provided they are devoted to projects which are needed and which will provide immediate or early employment relief. Politicians in many States, taking advantage of this attitude on the part of the people, are demanding excessive sums for their respective States, to be expended on projects that are either unnecessary or unsound. Instead of co-operating with State and Federal authorities to weed out unsound projects, too many politicians are merely scrambling for bigger appropriations for their States, without regard to the merit of their proposals.

The Public Works Administration will endeavor to have all projects passed upon by impartial and competent State administrators, so that the States shall do their share in confining the expenditure of public money to sound projects. Perhaps the greatest task before the Public Works Administration is the selection of these State administrators. Political influence is at work to bring about the selection of officials who will join in trying to get the largest possible allotments instead of rejecting questionable projects.

The States can well afford to bear in mind that they must face the question of repayment of a large part of the money devoted to public works. Countrywide complaints against the burden of Federal taxation could have been directed with better reason against extravagance in the States. Now that great sums are being laid out for reemployment purposes, to be repaid ultimately by taxes, a barrier should be set up to prevent political influences from committing States to projects that are unnecessary or unsound.

Mattern's Escape.

Word that "Jimmie" Mattern is safe comes as especially good news, after he had been virtually given up as lost in Bering Sea. He is in a remote section of the Siberian coast, between the Gulf of Anadyr and Bering Strait. He had not been reported since June 15, probably because of a forced landing in a region having no communication with the outside world. His journey to the village of Anadyr Chukotka may have been replete with hardship and danger.

Mattern seems to have taken excessive risks with his plane in an effort to cut down flying time after the delays in Siberia. The plane was overhauled several times, but apparently it developed faults which compelled Mattern to make an emergency landing. If he was not compelled to land, but did so because he feared that some defect might plunge him into Bering Sea his prudence is to be commended; for he lives to fly another day, and men with his enterprise and skill are none too numerous.

Cupid's Depression.

When the times go sour Dan Cupid, it appears, experiences slack business along with every one else. Marriage statistics for 1932, published Thursday by the Bureau of the Census, disclose the lowest national wedding rate in the 57 years that such records have been kept in Washington.

For the country as a whole there were 7.87 marriages for every 1,000 of population last year. In 1929 the figure was 10.14; the next year it fell to 9.15, and in 1931, to 8.54. The 1932 rate of 7.87 produced 981,759 wedding ceremonies—the first time in 21 years that the national total has fallen below the million mark.

But the ancient principle of compensation appears to rule in vital statistics as well as in the fortunes of war and peace. With the decline in the marriage rate there was a sharp falling off in divorces. From 1887 to 1929 the divorce rate climbed steadily. But in 1930 it declined 4.9 per cent under the previous year. Again in both 1931 and 1932 the rate continued downward by 4.1 per cent annually. Last year the Bureau of the Census tabulated only 160,329 divorces, against 183,664 in 1931. For 1932 there were 6.1 marriages to each divorce, against 5.8 in 1931.

All of these figures sustain experience long recognized by professional observers of social trends. It is almost axiomatic in recent American history that the marriage rate responds more quickly to the changing tempo of business activity than the tax rate—almost as quickly, indeed, as the bank rate. On the other hand, the distressing influence of rollicking prosperity upon the divorce rate is promptly checked when the years of economic penance are at hand.

Viewed together the two sets of figures appear to confirm the philosophical suspicion that there is, after all, some connection between the business indices and the higher concerns of spring.

Security Regulations.

An elaborate set of rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of the Federal Securities act has been issued by the Federal Trade Commission. Most of the regulations are required by law. In those instances where the commission may exercise its own discretion the rules are merely tentative or experimental. Changes may be made as experience suggests.

The rules have been drafted with a view to protecting the public against worthless stock and bond issues, but the commission reports that it has also "endeavored to place no undue burden either upon general business or upon honest and reputable investment dealers." The central purpose behind the act is to make available to the public full information regarding any security offered for sale. Congress in passing the act and the commission in formulating its rules have done little more than to turn the flood-light of publicity on new security issues.

Any concern wishing to offer stocks or bonds to the public must file with the commission a statement containing full information as to the nature of the security, the status of the issuing company, the names of its directors, its place of business, &c. Such statements must be on file with the commission for 20 days before stocks or bonds listed therein may be sold. During that period the commission will investigate the facts reported in the statement, and if it concludes that all the provisions of the statute and its own rules have not been complied with, it may withhold the securities from the market.

The commission is apprehensive that its function of investigating these statements may be misunderstood. It is the duty of the commission to make information concerning any securities available to the public and to check up on the accuracy of the statements submitted by security underwriters. But it has no authority to pass judgment upon the soundness of any stock. To avoid confusion on this point the commission requires inclusion of the following paragraph in all prospectuses concerning new securities:

> Neither the fact that such registration statement has been filed with the commission, nor the issuance of this prospectus under the rules or regulations prescribed, shall be deemed a finding by the commission that this prospectus is true and accurate on its face, or omits to state a material fact or to mean that the commission has in any way passed upon the merits of, or given approval to, such prospectus or the security mentioned therein.

It is well that the commission is emphasizing the limits of its authority. It can not in any way become the guarantor of securities that are offered through its permission. Yet the commission has a very delicate function to perform in its study of prospectuses to determine whether they are complete and accurate. It will be interesting to watch how this legislation works out in practice, especially in good times, when optimism pervades even official boards.

Accord in the Levant.

For nearly a thousand years there has been open hostility between the two chief heirs of the Byzantine Empire. The history of Turkey and Greece has been a chronicle of conquests, rebellions and repressions which endured until three years ago. At that time, with the admitted help of Italy, the statesmen of the two rival nations finally realized that for the past two generations their countries had been catspaws of greater powers, and that their salvation lay in reconciliation. They talked things over in an effort to reach unprejudiced conclusions, and soon it developed that despite their conflicts, or perhaps as a result of them, they understood each other better than they were understood by other nations.

The good relations which were brought about by M. Venizelos and Ismet Pasha have borne fruit. Although Turkey and Greece produce similar products, the two countries concluded a commercial treaty of six months' duration, renewable by an exchange of letters. It is expected that the volume of Greek exports will increase, while Turkish ports and Greek shipping will thereby benefit. The recent edict which restricted employment in many professions to Turkish citizens threatened to deprive a large number of Greeks living in Constantinople of their livelihood. This has been postponed for one year in its application to Hellenes.

The trade agreement is the forerunner of a more comprehensive pact between the two countries whose purpose is "to assure peace in the Eastern Mediterranean." This policy was made possible by the moderation of the Turkish stand. After their triumph over the Greek invaders the Turkish Nationalists limited their objectives. They did not cry "back to 1914," and renunciation of their Pan-Islamic aspirations made possible their present friendly contacts. The diplomacy by which Mustapha Kemal and his people have achieved friendship with a former bitter enemy is an example which various other belligerent neighbors would do well to consider.

Chinese Airmen.

Under the direction of Colonel Jouett, fourteen American instructors are completing the training of 60 Chinese young men who will comprise the finest group of aviators China has had. The wide use of airplanes on the part of Japan in the recent conflict with China has convinced Chinese military leaders of the necessity of having a strong air force. Consequently, they are spending more money for equipment in this branch of the service than in any other. The natural aptitude of the Chinese for aviation, according to the instructors, combined with competent training, will make them equal to those of any other country.

The fact that American instructors and American planes are being used in China has given the aircraft companies of this country a substantial advantage over European competitors. Manufacturers are looking toward the future with the idea of selling commercial rather than military machines. The great distances and the inadequate means of transportation throughout the greater part of China offer an ideal field for commercial flying.

Regular air routes have already been established between the principal Chinese cities, and these routes are constantly being extended. The Chinese take readily to air travel wherever money is available for the purpose. In consequence China may become an important factor in American airplane production.

Pan American Concerts.

In the long catalogue of notable enterprises sponsored by the Pan American Union during its quarter-century career in making neighbors of nations, few projects appear destined to higher rank for lasting cultural benefits than the Latin American concerts initiated in Washington several years ago. The sixty-seventh program in the series, heard on Wednesday evening in the moon-lighted esplanade of the Pan American Union, offered an appropriate and stimulating epitome of the rich artistry below the Rio Grande which has been so long neglected throughout the United States.

To those who were privileged to hear the intriguing plaint of the Peruvian quenas on the occasion of their first concert use in the United States, the program long will be a cherished memory. The origin of these lilting pipes is lost in the tangled folklore of the Andes, but they still are used by shepherds in the highlands of Peru and Bolivia. On the esplanade they were a reminder to an era of frenzied haste and preoccupation that, to a marked degree, the gentler arts are the heritage of calm and gentle people.

In all, the Wednesday program offered eleven Latin American selections never before played or sung in the United States. Composers represented included artists of Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Mexico, Venezuela, Cuba, Peru, Guatemala, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Chile, Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

Through the medium of these programs Dr. Rowe and his able staff have presented the whole range of Latin American music. Through elaborate international broadcasts they have sent back the compositions of the Southern Republics from the tubas, drums, and strings of the United States Army Band.

The singers of all ages have it that those who pipe the same tunes are likely to be the warmest friends. Thus, the Pan American concerts are far more than pleasant evening interludes for Washington music lovers. Through them earthbound nations, confused by the babble of tongues and confounded by the bedeviling cobwebs of tradition, salute each other as neighbors, in the language of the universal art.

The Senate Banking Committee has reached the astounding conclusion that the country can get along without its probing into things financial during the summer if Mr. Pecora will only sit on the lid of the stock market.

Ancient Water Systems.

From the New York Herald Tribune.

New discoveries by scientists of the University of Chicago in Asia Minor and the Near East show that the Romans were not the only ancient peoples who had problems of supplying water to large cities and built aqueducts to overcome this difficulty.

Dr. James Henry Breasted, director of the Oriental Institute of the Chicago institution, in a communication to the Herald Tribune, disclosed that the Irak expedition in the field had discovered a 30-mile-long aqueduct built by Sennacherib, King of Assyria, about 705 B. C. The actual find was made by Dr. Thorkild Jacobsen, Swedish scientist, now connected with the Oriental Institute on a fellowship. He is now with Dr. Henri Frankfort, field director of the Irak expedition.

"Dr. Jacobsen was out in the country when he noticed a native sitting on a row of blocks, some of which bore the inscription of Sennacherib," Dr. Breasted said. "On inquiry, he found that the blocks had come from near by, and Dr. Jacobsen, following the clew, found what he reported to be a bridge over a river. We received a concession to investigate, and found that the 'bridge' was a section of a great stone aqueduct. This section, 1,000 feet long and 85 feet wide, magnificently built, carried the water over a river. It is supported on pointed arches and their use in this fashion is the earliest known.

"This aqueduct is the earliest in existence, and undoubtedly influenced the Romans in their construction. Twenty-five to 30 miles long, it carried water from the Kurdish Mountains to Nineveh, and among other uses watered the city's famous gardens. Each pier contains a building inscription of Sennacherib, and when translated it was found that he called the aqueduct 'Sennacherib's channel.'

"The annals of Sennacherib give an account of this 'channel,' which hitherto had not been identified, and also give the names of a whole series of villages past which it went. In one of the villages near the route of the aqueduct Dr. Frankfort found a purely oral tradition that these ruins had brought water for the gardens of Nineveh. The tradition has the names of the villages as Sennacherib listed them, although the names have long since changed. The tradition had been passed down by word of mouth for 2,600 years."

HEAT.

Oh, for gray skies again
And cooling rain!
Cold winds of the north
Come forth,
Make fresh and sweet
The city streets!

But wind of the north find first
Not our best paths, but our worst!
Come to the dark abodes
Crowding the narrow roads.
The miseries abate
Of God's unfortunate.

Flutter that frayed, soiled lace
Now limp at the window place.
Caress the tired woman's brow
Whose child is so restless now.
Hear her utter such words as these:
"Thank God for this cooling breeze!"

Let neither pomp nor pride
Nor flattery turn you aside;
Nor wealth induce you to stay,
But hasten along your way
Until you have comforted first
The poor, whose need is the worst.

Wind of the north, make sweet

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter.

By Robert Quillen

MY Dear Louise: When I urge you to avoid foolish and unnecessary risks, I am not suggesting that you develop the habit of timidity or make a practice of running away from life.

Too much caution invites trouble. Fast driving is dangerous, but those who don't drive fast enough get bumped from the rear or arrested for blocking traffic.

It is far safer to live boldly than to live cravenly. The best defense is an attack, and the best way to avoid trouble is to seem thoroughly prepared to meet it.

It is quite literally true that fortune favors the brave. And it also favors those merry and rather indifferent souls who aren't too anxious to win.

In my unregenerate days I frequently observed that luck almost invariably deserted the gambler who felt that he had to win. If he played without anxiety, being able and willing to pay for his fun, he seemed incapable of losing. But if he played desperately to recoup heavy losses or to gain money desperately needed, it seemed impossible for him to win.

It is always when company is coming that the cake falls or the biscuits burn. It is only when guests are present that the infant refuses to show off. It is always when you have an important date that your hair refuses to look respectable. Trying too hard is more fatal than not trying hard enough.

I have seen unwise girls, hungry for the attention of boys, make such desperate play for their favor and employ such eager and pathetic wiles to hold their interest that the dullest clod among them would think himself superior to such cheapness and hasten to escape.

And I have seen less desirable girls, wise in the weakness of males, make themselves coveted and courted without using any other bait than a manner of casual and nicely-poised indifference.

I don't know why it is so, but he who would save his life shall lose it and the richest rewards are given to those who take no anxious thought for the morrow.

I don't advise you to live dangerously, if that means being foolhardy and reckless and stupidly indiscreet; but I do urge you to meet life boldly and accept its normal risks without anxiety.

The fellow who won't fly, or ride in an automobile, or get on a ship, or so much as mingle with happy crowds for fear of disease germs, will fall in his bath and break his neck before he is 30—and think of the fun he misses.

It is stupid to play with fire, my dear, but even more stupid to freeze yourself because fire is dangerous to the foolish. Love, DAD.

Political Comment

The Conservation Army.
Kansas City Star.

The completion of the conservation corps of a quarter million, with enrollments that insure the maintenance of this quota or its enlargement, if desired, mark the success of one of the very interesting phases of the recovery program. When, in the course of his campaign, Mr. Roosevelt suggested reforestation and kindred projects as one means of absorbing a large number of unemployed young men, the policy was regarded with considerable skepticism. Even after enrollments began the applications were so slow, with not infrequent withdrawals after the nature of the work was revealed, the outlook was discouraging. But as camps were established and work began, as the healthy, outdoor occupation was better understood, and as the misapprehension of military discipline was dissipated, the ranks filled rapidly. Now there are 1,300 camps in 47 States, with recruits from virtually every township in the land.

Active and Passive.
Minneapolis Journal.

The Roosevelt administration is appointing a flock of "acting" postmasters. Sophomore wants to know what is the difference between an acting postmaster and the other kind, if any.

Well, an acting postmaster is supposed to act. He may be expected to keep on acting until he gets the permanent appointment. Then he becomes passive.

Poor Environment.
Boston Globe.

Small wonder the doings of the economic conference delegates seem complicated. They are meeting in a museum of fossils in the city of dreadful fogs.

Going for Guns.
Topeka Capital.

The Washington Post reports that Attorney General Cummings is stirring himself to find out "how machine guns come out of the nowhere into the here." Here's hoping that something comes of it.

In Favor of Honest Laws.
Portland Oregonian.

The reversal of sentiment on prohibition the country over is overwhelming and astonishing. Three years ago, even two years ago, nobody would have been so rash as to predict such an upset. The revolt is a mass revolt. Nobody can say with truth that liquor interests or a wet press or people who have always been wet are responsible for it. The people themselves have changed. Their verdict is that the experiment of national prohibition is a failure.

Independence Again.
Detroit Free Press.

The statement of policy issued by the American Navy Department within 24 hours of the announcement of the new arms conference postponement becomes an utterance of great and immediate interest.

It is given out, that the fundamental policy of the Government is to "maintain the Navy in sufficient strength to support the national policies and commerce and guard the continental and overseas possessions of the United States."

The significance is found in the final clause of this passage which is an extension of the formal enunciations of American naval policy in recent years, and together with the grant by President Roosevelt of an extra $75,000,000 for fleet construction, may be considered a direct answer to the evident abject failure at Geneva.

Senator Costigan—I agree with my colleague. This is an orderly body and it should proceed in a dignified manner.

Mr. Pecora—Precisely.

Movie Camera Man—I got it!

Mr. Pecora—Got what?

Movie Camera Man—An idea for a picture. Will you gentlemen all come closer and pose in an attitude indicating you want more dignity? You, Mr. Pecora, stand on your head on the table! Fine! And you, Senator Goldsborough, suppose you lie on the floor with your right hand under your chin. And you, Senator Adams, will sit on the table with both your hands over your head, holding a calico doll.

Mr. Tooper (anxiously) — Where do you want me?

Movie Camera Man—All you do is sit still a minute; we've sent out for some Siamese twins and a bearded woman for you to hold in your lap!

Letters to the Editor.

Solid Literary Works Rather Than Fiction Should Be Provided for Branch Libraries.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you permit me to say that, while I am in favor of more generous appropriations for branches of the municipal library, I don't think the indiscriminate addition of "the latest fiction" to the library is advisable. No "story book" should be purchased which has not stood at least a five-year test. The library already contains plenty of time-honored fiction to meet any reasonable demand. In addition to plenty of "light reading," the main purpose of a public library should be to supply solid reading for the cultural improvement of the masses.

A large part of today's fictional output is remarkably clever, but it has too much sameness. The love motif is so well taken care of by the moving pictures that to me it seems wasteful to spend the taxpayers' money in the questionable exploitation of such literature.

SHARP WITTED.

Horses have long been known to possess an almost uncanny ability for recognizing old friends, says the Boston Post. An incident in Amesbury is a good sample of this. A man who had owned a particular horse for 13 years recently sold the animal to a milk concern.

The other day the horse was left standing on the street. Suddenly it spotted its old owner walking some distance away. With a bolt, it clattered after him, the milk wagon and bottles rumbling behind. A sharp witted animal, indeed.

U.S. Dollar Hits Bottom Prices In Sale Abroad

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The American dollar, buffeted by the cumulative force of rumors, speculation and capital flight, was roughly treated in the foreign exchange markets today. Opening at $4.66 the British pound sterling soon shot to $4.73, an overnight gain of 16½ cents. The initial quotation of French francs was 5.46 cents, but later it was extended to 5.59, and closed at 5.50.

All other exchanges were strong, with Swiss francs at 27.06 cents, up .56 cent; Dutch guilders at 56.43 cents, an increase of 1.33 cents, and Belgium belgas 19.55 cents, a gain of .40 cent.

London, July 7 (A.P.).—Sales reputed to be from both New York and the continent today pushed the American dollar down to $4.71¼, a drop of 21 cents for the day.

Market followers declared the selling movement undoubtedly was caused by rising commodity prices and the monetary program in America coincident with absence of official action here to halt the drop. After an opening of $4.59, the rate went to $4.73 when the New York market opened, but it improved slightly before the close.

Paris, July 7 (A.P.).—The American dollar today touched a new low since the United States left the gold standard, closing officially at 18.18 francs to the dollar (5.50 cents to the franc), a drop of 70 centimes from the previous day.

Later in unofficial trading the close was 17.90 francs (5.59 cents to the franc).

Meanwhile the British pound sterling showed strength from an earlier drop and closed at 85.01 francs following large purchases by the Bank of France.

Weakness of the American currency was attributed by brokers to lack of buyers and fears of speculators to engage in nongold moneys operations.

Berlin, July 7 (A.P.).—The dollar closed on the Berlin boerse today at 3.02 marks to the dollar (33.12 cents to the mark).

Rio de Janerio, July 7 (A.P.).—The American dollar today touched the lowest level since March, 1931. The Banco do Brazil, at the close, was quoting it at 12.81 milreis.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—New State and municipal financing scheduled for next week totals $9,386,091 compared with $9,242,645 during the past week, the Daily Bond Buyer reports.

Grand Union Co. store sales for the four weeks ended July 1 totaled $2,224,050 compared with $2,400,243 for the corresponding period last year, a decrease of 7.3 per cent.

J. C. Penney Co.'s June sales volume was $14,617,388, an increase of 21½ per cent over a year ago.

Export orders received by Curtiss-Wright Corporation in the first six months of this year approximated $2,500,000, says Thomas A. Morgan, president. This is equal to the company's entire export business for all of 1932.

New bond issues formally offered this week totaled $36,680,000, against $92,595,000 last week and $27,600,000 a year ago.

A rise of $77,000,000 in currency circulation during the week ended July 5 was below the normal advance for the period embracing the Fourth of July. Currency demands for this holiday are usually among the year's largest, and a big gain invariably occurs. It was the second increase since the country's banking holiday, the other having occurred in the last week of May.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission May operating income of $591,931, compared with $553,688 in May, 1932. The figures covering operating activities only, excluding dividends, interest and other revenues.

Bond Prices Up In Record Sale Of Three Years

Four-Tenths Gain Is Staged in Trading Volume of $25,522,000.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—All classes of listed bonds forged ahead today under the heaviest volume of trading witnessed in this market in more than three years.

Sales totaled $25,522,000, par value, an aggregate which has not been exceeded since March 20, 1930. Although many of the largest gains were pared or erased by extensive profit taking in late transactions, the average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced four-tenths of a point to 81.1, another new high for the past year or more.

An exceptional spurt in French government and municipal obligations, attributed largely to arbitrage purchasing based on the depreciation of the dollar, was one of the day's features. Both the French government's 7s and 7½s jumped 8¾ points while loans of Bordeaux, Lyons and Marseilles were up around 6 to 10 points. German issues rallied 1 to 3 or more points and United Kingdom 4s gained 3¾ points. Italian Kingdom 7s and Italian Public Utility 7s slumped 3½ and 4¼ points, respectively.

The rails again led the domestic list, spurred by speculative inflationary factors as well as reports of substantial traffic improvement. Among the best of these, with gains of 1 to 3 or more points, were some liens of Baltimore & Ohio, the Canadian roads, Burlington, Chicago & North Western, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Illinois Central, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Reading, Southern Pacific, Wabash and Western Pacific.

The best utilities and industrials, up 1 to 2 or more, included American Inernational, American I. G. Chemical, Chile Copper, Colorado Industrial, Consolidated Coal, International Paper, Paramount Publix, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron, Pure Oil, Utilities Power & Light and Shell Union Oil.

United States Government securities drifted moderately lower.

Public's Stock Buying Drives Prices Higher

Inflationary Psychology Increases Volume of Trading to 7,024,530 Shares in One of Year's Most Active Sessions.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—A stock-minded public, imbued with inflationary psychology and avid for equities, surged into the market today and bought and sold 7,024,530 shares in one of the most active trading sessions this year.

The list as a whole closed irregularly higher for late profit taking shaved some of the early 1 to 4 point gains. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics closing average for 90 selected issues, however, scored a new high at 95, up nine-tenths of a point. An assortment of advances of 1 to 3 points net was nearly counterbalanced by numerous declines of similar proportions.

Foreign exchanges moved strongly against the dollar all day. Wheat and corn made a new high, but closed under yesterday's final prices, and cotton was dragged down about $1 a bale. Bonds took their cue from stocks and moved into higher territory.

Inundated by a flood of rumors and reports, the trading community has definitely come to the conclusion that the administration desires a still cheaper dollar, in relation to foreign exchanges, and that something might be done to speed up the decline. Dispatches from London that the World Economic Conference had decided to retain the monetary question on its revised agenda—at the insistence of the American delegation—were interpreted in Wall street as evidence that Washington's program was receiving more general support. On this basis, it was believed, support might be forthcoming from the foreign nations for the United States policy of a higher level for both prices and wages.

Several large stock exchange firms with extensive wire connections throughout the country reported that the public was seeking to borrow additional sums to purchase stocks. To a degree, at least, these firms believe, the rise in shares and commodities is a reflection of the decline in the value of the dollar.

Steel and electrical equipment shares were singled out for special attention in the stock market. U. S. Steel common closed up 2 for the day. Bethlehem improved nearly a point net and National Steel gained over 2. Westinghouse shot up almost 6 points, and General Electric advanced 3. Other prominent issues up 1 to 3 were New York Central, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Kennecott, Anaconda, Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers and Radio.

Losses of around 1 to 3 were shown by Lackawanna, Union Pacific, Standard Oil of New Jersey, International Harvester, Sears Roebuck, Chrysler, United Aircraft, American Tobacco B, Owens Illinois, National Distillers, and Celanese.

The domestic industrial picture contained heartening news. Coupled with the expectation of a healthy increase in the Steel Corporation's June backlog and larger car loadings for the railways during the past week was the Dun & Bradstreet report that a "prospectus of even a week's development is rendered difficult, as wider advances are recorded before the news can be collated."

Stock Exchange Lists 1,285,081,423 Shares

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange announced today that as of July 1 it listed 1,207 stock issues, aggregating 1,285,081,423 shares, with a total market value of $36,348,747,926, compared with 1,217 issues, aggregating 1,293,876,237 shares, with a total market value of $32,473,061,395, as of June 1.

Wool Prices Gain 2 Cents This Week

Boston, July 7 (A.P.).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"Wool is higher again this week by about 2 cents, clean basis, all around. Demand favors the fine French combing wools, so far as the volume of business done is concerned, but medium wools are relatively scarce and dear.

"The manufacturing position is eminently sound and the buyers of cloth are now compelled to accept allotments from the mills, a situation which has not obtained for some years—consumption of wool at the mills is proceeding heavily.

"London opened with medium and low crossbreds, 25 to 30 per cent over the previous series' closing rates and other description 15 to 25 per cent higher. All sections were buying and rates have tended to harden since the opening. Little wool is left for sale in the hands of the Western growers. What is left is held at prohibitive prices. Mohair is in limited supply and very strong, with Texas hair quoted at 31-32 cents."

London, July 7 (A.P.).—A total of 10,553 bales of wool were offered at the auction today, of which 9,598 were sold. Offerings met with spirited sales at firm prices. Fine crossbreds were rather dearer, while some coarse crossbreds were withdrawn on firm limits.

Standard Oil Workers Offered Shares at $34

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey announced today that employes may purchase the company's stock at $34 a share during the last half of the year under the stock subscription plan. On the New York Stock Exchange the shares were quoted near the close at $40 a share.

In the first half of 1933 the company offered stock to employes at $30 a share. In the last half of 1932 the subscription price was $23.60 and in the first half $30.50.

Minimum Pay Fixed By Furniture Retailers

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—A code setting minimum wages of from $10 to $16 a week for clerks and providing for a 48-hour week, was adopted today by furniture retailers.

The code proposed a "national retail recovery board," including jewelers, druggists, clothiers, grocers, shoe dealers, hardware and dry goods dealers, to administer the trade rules of all retailers and suggests boards to adopt regulations for each trading area.

Curb's Rallies Defeat Drives Of Profit Sales

Heavier Trading Results in Sales Turnover of 1,000,000 Shares.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Trading on the curb exchange today again passed the 1,000,000-share level by a slight margin, compared with 802,000 shares for Thursday.

Stocks were in substantial demand during most of the forenoon, but profit-taking that appeared around midday, made serious inroads in prices during the afternoon. Selling abruptly subsided in the final hour and a last-minute buying rush carried prices back to within striking distances of earlier levels.

Aluminum Company of America rose 2, then registered a net equivalent loss which subsequently was regained. Armstrong Cork and National Sugar firmed around a point each. General Tire & Rubber rose 2½, while Richman Brothers gained 4 on a small transfer.

Newmont Mining was up 4 at one time, but closed slightly more than a point higher. Lake Shore Mining finished fractionally to the good. Distillery issues were quiet, Hiram Walker closing a shade lower.

Utilities were exceptionally firm in the early dealings, and while much of their advance was canceled in the late realizing, most of the leaders closed higher on the day. Oils were steady to firm, Gulf gaining a point.

"The present policy of the Government," states the report, "is shown by its refusal to enter into any stabilization agreement in London, and such statements concerning domestic condition as follows: That commodity prices are not high enough, that business must continue to improve. It has the power to force commodity price indefinitely higher and by this stimulant can cause further business improvement, at least for a period. It has embarked upon a course from which it would be difficult to retreat, and apparently will not retreat in the near future, unless its objective is reached.

"Business indices of all types continue to reflect improvement. Power output is now 10.09 per cent above a year ago. The steel industry is at 53 per cent of capacity with most buying for immediate use, particularly by automobile manufacturers. Railroad car loadings are still further ahead of a year ago than they were last month. Wheat prices are advancing partly because of currency considerations, but now mainly because of the drought. Financial statistics do not as yet reflect much actual inflation, although the Federal Reserve banks are buyers of Government bonds. Member bank reserve balances are continuing to increase, which is a basis for credit expansion."

Utility Holding Report Reflects Asset Changes

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 7.—The annual report for the year ended May 31, 1933, of the Public Utility Holding Corporation of America and its investment company subsidiaries, South American Railways Company and United States & Overseas Corporation, made public today, reflects the changes in the corporation's affairs incidental to the refunding of South American Railways Company notes guaranteed by the parent company.

A comparison of the corporation's consolidated position at May 31, 1933, with that at the same date the preceding year shows a complete elimination of bank loans and accounts payable amounting to $1,290,000 and a reduction of $11,403,000 of the guaranteed notes of South American Railways Co., offset, however, by the net amount, after retirements of $4,632,000 principal amount of new notes issued by the parent company in partial exchange for the subsidiary's notes.

During the year capital surplus and earned surplus were reduced from a total of $9,209,000 to $1,351,000, but during this year a general reserve was created from capital surplus, the balance of which at May 31 amounted to $9,884,000.

Assets Show Reduction.

Current assets show a reduction from $1,799,000 in 1932, to $595,000, while the value of investments carried partly at current market quotations, partly at cost and partly at written down valuations, was reduced from approximately $39,000,000 to $30,000,000, a part of this reduction being reflected in the reduction of the special reserve from $7,474,000 to $4,119,000.

Among contingent liabilities reported in last year's statement was an obligation to lend to Union Electrique Rurale $195,895, and to Buenos Aires Central Railroad & Terminal Co., $657,459. Both of these contingent items have been eliminated during the year.

In comparison with last year, the portfolio shows an elimination of all but one of the German investments and most of the other European holdings, as well as miscellaneous blocks of domestic securities.

Income Is Down.

Both gross and net income are down for the year, the net applicable to parent company being $443,665, as compared with $1,827,992, the difference being accounted for partly by the sale of foreign income producing assets and partly by the fact that Buenos Aires Central Railroad & Terminal Co. is in arrears in its interest payment on its notes in the amount of $990,875, calculated to May 31, 1933.

G. E. Devendorf, president, in his report to stockholders, states that "general expenses and taxes, other than Federal income taxes, for the six months and for the year ended May 31, 1933, compared with the same items for the preceding six months and for the preceding fiscal year, reflect reductions of approximately $78,000 and $174,000, respectively.

"Additional economies made since the consummation of the exchange offer will effect further material reductions in general expenses for the coming fiscal year."

Bankers' Acceptances Rise ⅛ of 1 Per Cent

Mail Order Sales Gain.

U. S. Comptroller Issues Call For Status of National Banks

(Associated Press)

The Comptroller of Currency issued a call yesterday for the condition of all national banks at the close of business Friday, June 30.

The last figures available issued by the Federal Reserve Board showed that on May 31 there were 4,862 national banks, with deposits of $16,743,906,000, licensed to do unrestricted business, while 1,029 national banks, with deposits of $1,155,279,000, were not licensed and in the hands of conservators or receivers.

The last national bank call showing conditions of the national banks December 31 showed there were 6,016 banks in continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii which had aggregate resources of $23,310,974,000, an increase of $744,979,000 in three months, but a decrease of $1,351,312,000 in the year.

On December 31 deposits in the 6,016 banks amounted to $18,518,107,000, an increase of $836,190,000 in three months, but a drop of $726,340,000 in the year.

At that time the capital stock, paid in, totaled $1,624,484,000, which was $71,252,000 more than three months before, and $13,035,000 more than the year before. Surplus funds of $1,173,278,000 and net undivided profits, excluding reserve accounts of $269,785,000, totaling $1,443,063,000, showed decrease in the 3 and 12 month period of $71,260,000 and $290,146,000, respectively.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Considerable activity and strength developed in industrials on the stock exchange today owing to investment buying for foreign accounts and some speculation prompted by Wall street advices and commodity price rises. Home rails, oil shares and gold mining issues were cheerful while gilt-edged securities eased. Transatlantic issues were firmer in sympathy with Wall street and on general buying. The market closed steady.

Paris—Prices on the bourse fluctuated irregularly under conflicting influences, namely, yesterday's recovery in Wall street and week-end liquidations. The closing was also irregular.

Berlin—Chancellor Hitler's instructions to high officials regarding interference with the nation's economic life created a favorable impression on the boerse. The closing, however, was inactive.

20 Banks Here List Deposits of $212,886,357

First Comptroller's Order for Statements Omits Restricted Houses.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

The first call issued yesterday by J. F. T. O'Connor, newly appointed Comptroller of the Currency, for banks' statements of condition as at close of business June 30, 1933, found Washington's 20 unrestricted banks with deposits amounting to $212,886,357.02 on that date. This was a gain of $9,738,211.93 for these 20 banks compared with their total deposits as at the close of business December 31, 1932, date set by the last call of the office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

The eight licensed national banks of the District of Columbia had total deposits of $121,761,129.01.

The five trust companies, all of which reopened to do a 100 per cent banking business following expiration of the national bank holiday, presented a total of $76,586,065.09. The seven unrestricted savings banks of the city revealed aggregate deposits of $14,539,162.92.

Deposit Gains Revealed.

Several banks showed remarkable gains in deposits over their total as of December 31, 1932. Riggs National Bank's gain of nearly $8,000,000 is said to have been the largest ever made by an individual bank in the history of the city.

National Metropolitan Bank reported an increase of more than $4,000,000 for the period, and American Security & Trust Co. returns exhibited an advance of more than $2,500,000.

Deposits in individual, licensed banks on June 30, 1933, were the following: National banks—Bank of Washington, $8,532,570.46; Columbia, $3,401,216.77; Liberty, $3,793,940.75; Lincoln, $5,811,738.97; Metropolitan, $22,947,343.21; Capital, $1,682,006.68; Second, $5,466,487.92; Riggs, $70,125,824.25. Trust companies—American Security, $34,414,009.80; Munsey, $4,511,952.32; National Savings, $13,498,372.88; Union, $8,002,305.92; Washington Loan, $16,159,424.17. Savings banks—Anacostia, $1,175,507.57; Commerce & Savings, $1,484,829.95; East Washington, $699,513.56; McLachen Banking Corporation, $2,146,466.84; Morris Plan, $1,458,429.55; Security Savings & Commercial, $5,200,415.29; Washington Mechanics, $2,374,000.16.

Other Banks Omitted.

As was predicted earlier in the week, the 12 restricted national and savings banks were not called upon by the office of the Comptroller of the Currency to publish their figures in the newspapers, their statements being forwarded for the information of the foregoing office only.

This was the first call upon banks for statements of condition made for a date in the present year. The spring call, usually made during the first week of April or last week of March, was omitted this year, probably because of the proximity of its date to the country-wide banking moratorium. This is the second year that there has been no first quarterly call, such a one having been omitted last year.

Common Stock Bought.

During the past quarter, Incorporated Investors added more than $3,500,000 worth of common stock to its holdings, 12 new companies appearing in the June 30 portfolio, as follows: American Gas & Electric, Canada Dry, Columbia Gas & Electric, Goodyear, International Harvester, International Nickel, Montgomery Ward, Pullman, Reynolds Tobacco B, Reynolds Metal, Standard Oil of California, U. S. Smelting.

During the past quarter Incorporated Investors disposed of its entire commitment in Allied Chemical, General Foods, and Gillette.

A complete summary of the decreases in the June 30 list of holdings as compared with three months previous is as follows: Allied Chemical, General Foods, Gillette.

Demand for Flour Speeds Mill Work

Kansas City, July 7 (A.P.).—A last minute rush to buy flour before the processors' tax of 30 cents a bushel becomes effective tomorrow night has spurted Southwestern flour mill operations to a point seldom equaled in the industry.

Kansas City mills have been pushing their output to capacity to meet the deluge of orders from grocers and other retailers who face an increase of approximately $1.40 a barrel on flour costs after midnight, July 8.

Millers said today orders for thousands of barrels will remain unfilled at that time. The tax is being levied on processed wheat as the first step in the Government's plan to pay farmers 30 cents a bushel on all domestically consumed wheat if they agree to reduce acreage next fall in an amount to be determined later.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Zinc—Stocks at the end of June totaled 123,924 short tons, against 136,634 at the end of May, and 134,027 at the end of June, the American Zinc Institute reports.

Grocery trade—Reports in wholesale quarters say that volume for the last six months ran above that of the same period last year, and that the outlook is more favorable than a year ago.

Hardware—It is reported that dollar sales in the wholesale market are beginning to exceed the volume of a year ago, with the tonnage gain even more pronounced.

Glass—Output of plate glass is said to be running at the highest level for nearly two years, with orders for beer bottles and other glass containers well ahead of current production capacities.

Shoes—Trade estimates place factory operations currently at 60 to 75 per cent of capacity.

Reports of Rain Also Aid Downward Sweep; All Grains Lose.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Speeding swiftly above $1 a bushel for all future deliveries, the Chicago wheat market today touched $1.10¼ in some transactions, and then plunged downhill.

Immense profit-taking more than wiped out wheat gains for at least the time being. The maximum advance of wheat today, 3 cents a bushel, received its chief immediate impulse from wild fluctuations in foreign currency, following President Roosevelt's stand as to the money policy of the United States.

Contributing to subsequent reverse action of wheat and other cereals were timely rains in the corn belt, and indications of further beneficial moisture for crops tonight.

Today's rise in grain values carried all Chicago deliveries of wheat up beyond $1 for the first time this season, and resulted in new season high price records, not only in wheat, but also in corn, barley and rye. At the extreme top today, wheat was up 13¼ cents above last week's low, and corn was up 14¼ cents.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾ to 1⅜ under yesterday's finish; corn, 1½ to 2⅜ down; oats, ¾ to ⅜ off, and provisions, 7 to 22 cents up.

Sensational switches in foreign exchange, making Liverpool wheat prices more than 4 cents higher than expected, did much to start Chicago grain values skyrocketing today. Besides, spring wheat, both north and south of the Canadian border, was reported as deteriorating fast. Unlike the two preceding days, interest centered much more in wheat today than in corn, but there was broad general speculative buying of both grains until the wheat market began to appear overstrained, and the weather forecast indicated beneficial moisture was extending eastward throughout the corn belt.

Rain Is Too Late.

Authoritative Canadian advices said rain in the Southern and Central areas of the prairie provinces came too late to counteract drought damage. Reports were also at hand from domestic spring wheat territory saying that crops where most promising three weeks ago were now showing 50 per cent damage from grasshoppers and heat, whole fields in North Dakota being cleared bare by hoppers which hot weather hatched out fully three weeks ahead of the usual time.

An unsettling factor in late dealings, however, was a notice calling for reports on open interests of more than 500,000 bushels by individual traders.

Corn had all the symptoms of a typical weather market, with violent sudden fluctuations. May corn at the top today commanded 76¼ cents a bushel, the highest price quoted for any delivery since December, 1930. Oats mainly followed corn and wheat.

Provisions advanced, responsive to the course of hog values.

Month's Oil Output 84,747,000 Barrels

(Associated Press.)

Production of domestic crude petroleum during May was reported yesterday by the Bureau of Mines as 84,747,000 barrels, as compared with 68,523,000 in the corresponding month of last year and 65,313,000 in April.

The daily average for May was 2,734,000 barrels, an increase of 557,000 over the daily average of April. It was the highest daily output since October, 1929.

The Bureau of Mines said the gain resulted primarily from a large increase in the East Texas field, where operations were suspended during most of April.

The daily average production for this field in May was 890,000 barrels, compared with 249,000 in April.

A number of other fields also reported increased production in May, the most important being Conroe, in Texas, where the daily average rose from 43,000 barrels in April to 78,000 in May, and the Oklahoma City field, which rose from 104,000 to 135,000.

Pacific Grain Gets Options on Ships

Portland, Oreg., July 7 (A.P.).—The Pacific Continental Grain Corporation announced today it has closed options on two freighters to take full cargoes of wheat from Portland to New Orleans.

Options were obtained on the Mary D. and Plow City. The Mary D. has a capacity of 7,000 tons. The Plow City's capacity is 5,000 tons.

The Continental Co. revealed its plans to discharge the ships at New Orleans, distributing to millers in the Mississippi Valley and loading them back for the Pacific Coast with corn.

5-Cent Loaf Abolished By Baltimore Bakeries

Steel Ingot Yields Up to High Mark

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Steel ingot production recorded another large gain in June, rising to 2,597,517 tons compared with 2,001,991 in May and 912,757 tons in June, 1932, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported today.

The approximate daily output jumped to 99,904 tons from 74,148 in May and 39,618 in January, the low point of the year. Last year's June rate was 35,106 tons daily.

For the first six months output aggregated 9,969,192 tons compared with 7,697,210 in the like period of 1932.

Gains in Cotton Dropped Under Realizing Rush

October Sells at 10.41 With General Market Down 19 to 23 Points.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Cotton ruled strong for a time in the early trading today but failed to hold its gain.

October contracts, after selling up from 10.76 on the opening demand, broke to 10.40 in the late trading and closed at 10.41, with the general market closing barely steady at net losses of 19 to 23 points.

Initial prices were up 10 to 14 points on trade and commission house buying, which included considerable demand through houses with Liverpool, continental and Far Eastern connections.

Realizing Is Heavy.

The advance encountered heavy realizing, however, and prices turned easier under continued profit-taking combined with some reselling by early buyers and selling through houses with Southern connections.

Some stop orders were uncovered during the progress of the decline, which carried the active months about 32 to 37 points off from the early highs, and the close was at, or within, the lowest for the day.

The failure of the advance in foreign exchange and strength of the stock market to bring in a more aggressive demand, was a disappointment to some of the early buyers and a disposition to even up long accounts was again attributed partly to an inclination to await more definite reports with reference to acreage curtailment proposals and publication of the Government acreage report tomorrow.

Exports of Cotton.

Exports today, 29,252, making 8,007,539 so far this season. Port receipts, 28,104. United States port stocks, 3,389,941.

Liverpool cables reported a steady market there on scattered buying and trade calling, although Liverpool traders were reluctant to follow the advance.

The increased Southern selling here led to some talk of freer offerings from the interior, but there were also rumors that local spot houses were finding a good demand for the cotton recently taken from the old Red Cross supply and that about 30,000 bales of this cotton have been or will be shipped to Europe.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil today advanced early on strength of lard, but turned reactionary owing to heaviness of cotton and late easiness of grains. At one time prices were 7 to 10 points higher. The close was steady, net 4 points lower to 2 points higher. Sales totaled 8,700 barrels. Bleachable spot and July closed at 6.00; September, 6.08; October, 6.16; December, 6.32, and January, 6.36.

Goods Market.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Further advances in cotton goods are being forced by the rising costs of production due to recovery law. Buying for future delivery has been confined to a few operators. Wool goods dealers are withholding offerings until their code of ethics is presented and accepted at Washington, most of the spot business being done through jobbers. Rayon sales have been large enough to take care of the September output. Silks continue in steady demand for fall. Burlaps are firm at top prices asked.

Silk Market.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Raw silk futures closed firm; sales, 2,180 bales. July, 2.27b; October, 2.21b; December, 2.21. Open market quotations (60-day basis): Shanghai steam filature, 78 per cent seriplane, 20-22s, 2.05; Canton, double extra, "A," 14-16s, 1.65; Japanese, special crack double extra, 81 per cent seriplane, 13-15s, 2.52.

Sharp Upturns Mark Business For Past Week

Dunn & Bradstreet's Survey Asserts Improvement Is Now Fact.

New York, July 7 (A.P.). — The past week was marked by further sharp gains in many lines of industry and trade, said the Dun & Bradstreet Review today.

"It is no longer an opinion," asserted the agency, "that business is on the upgrade; it is a fact. The complete reversal of trade trends during the first six months of the current year, with the precipitous and unprecedented climb of productive and distributive totals, has left even leaders of industry mystified.

"In addition, orders are being received from unexpected sources, and many for amounts unequaled in years, while unemployment is being reduced each week and is accompanied by the encouraging announcements of more firms granting pay increases.

"The buying wave has now reached such proportions that it has swept aside all the suspicion and lack of confidence so prevalent three months ago, and the weekly increase in the backlog of unfilled orders is considered unquestioned proof of the permanency of the general improvement.

"While speculative buying is not absent in current operations, wholesalers as well as retailers are placing their orders with conservatism and are reluctant to stake too much on future developments. Early returns on June retail sales show volume well in excess of last year's figures with the exception of some of the large cities in the East, where the margin of decline from the 1932 comparative record will be slightly wider than it was in May."

Lincoln National Life Withdraws Properties

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 7 (A.P.).—Temporary withdrawal of its city and farm property from listings for sale was announced today by the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co.

President Arthur F. Hall said: "No attempt will be made to dispose of these acquired properties until there has been a definite indication that real estate values have materially increased. * * * It has been our policy to avoid the unnecessary 'dumping' of real estate on the market, and we believe we are making a definite contribution to the enhancement of real estate values."

Brewers Plan 40,000,000 of Beer Monthly

3,000,000 Barrels Sold in May, Chicago Meeting Is Informed.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.). — The hopes of the brewers, 40,000,000 barrels a month by April, 1934, were given voice today as fifteen directors of the United States Brewers Association put their heads together here.

C. D. Williams, secretary, reported that 3,000,000 barrels of beer were sold in May, while April sales were only 750,000 barrels. He expressed hope and belief that the 40 million figure would be reached at the end of a year of legal beer.

The brewery leaders met to sketch a code of industrial practices, and a committee headed by Edward Schmidt, of Philadelphia, prepared a rough draft. One of the desires of the brewers was said to be an advance in wages without a corresponding advance in the price of beer.

The question was asked at the conference whether any concerted movement was afoot to make generally available the five-cent glass of beer. Williams said none of the directors wished to hold the price above five cents, but that taxes prevent a general reduction in retail prices.

"For example, Ohio has a tax of two cents on each bottle sold," he said. "That is aside from the Federal tax. We don't wish to make it seem that we are kicking on the tax, though." He suggested that the States legislate more uniform tax rates, but added that it's the consumer who suffers, not the brewer.

Standard Oil Company To Meet 62-Cent Price

Tulsa, Okla., July 7 (A.P.).—Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing Co., Standard of Indiana subsidiary, announced today it would meet the top price of 62 cents a barrel for Midcontinent crude oil posted by the Carter Oil Co., Standard of New Jersey unit.

The Standard companies failed to boost prices to a top of 85 cents, which is being paid by the Consolidated Oil Co. (Sinclair-Prairie), Continental Oil Co. and several others, representing an increase of 33 cents a barrel. The Magnolia Petroleum Co. and the Sun Oil Co. today announced a flat price of 75 cents a barrel for East Texas crude, an advance of 25 cents.

Building Soars To New Peaks In South's Area

Construction Works Reach $29,144,000 Total; Up $10,188,000.

Baltimore, July 7 (A.P.).—A new high mark for the year was set last month in the awarding of building, engineering and construction contracts totaling $29,144,000 in the sixteen Southern States, the Manufacturers Record reported today.

They represented an increase of $10,188,000 over awards of the preceding month, when the total was $18,956,000.

The Record's summary noted an extensive increase in the valuation of contracts for new industrial plants and expansion of established enterprises, along with general building projects.

June in High List.

June was the second consecutive month in which those two classes of privately financed construction have been undertaken in such large volume.

During the month contracts were let for industrial projects to cost $14,303,000, including a $7,000,000 chemical plant at Corpus Christi, Tex., belonging to the Southern Alkali Corporation.

Meanwhile, the Industrial Rayon Corporation is installing new machinery and equipment in its plant at Covington, Va., to increase its production of rayon 2,700,000 pounds annually.

Other Industrial Projects.

Other industrial projects included in the June contracts are woodworking plants, flour and feed mills, ice and cold storage plants, lumber mills, breweries, laundries, garment factories, furniture plants, oil refineries, and textile mills costing from $10,000 to $500,000 each.

Textile mill expansion, especially, was notable. Many installed modern machinery to replace obsolete equipments and enlarged their buildings, all of which created a demand for a wide range of building materials.

June contracts for hotels, apartment houses, banks, office buildings, churches, dwellings and stores totaled $3,495,000 as compared with $2,202,000 in May and $1,937,000 in April.

Meanwhile, the month's contracts for roads and street paving amounted to $5,597,000 as compared with $4,131,000 in May.

Awards for public buildings totaled $4,472,000, representing a decrease under May when contracts for that classification of work amounted to $5,431,000. Included in the June figures were $3,670,000 for Federal and State buildings and $802,000 for school houses.

Public Utility Holding Net Is $433,665 for Fiscal Year.

New York, July 1 (A.P.).—A dividend of 20 cents in 5 per cent convertible preferred stock was declared today on the common stock of Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation, payable August 15 to stock of record July 20. A similar payment was authorized three months ago.

The Public Utility Holding Corporation, an investment trust, today reported for the fiscal year ended May 31 net income of $433,665 compared with net income of $1,827,993 in the previous fiscal year. Figures for both years do not take account of losses on sales of securities or write downs in values of securities, which in the last fiscal period amounted to $3,609,286 and $807,191, respectively.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Net loss of $446,456 for May was reported today by the Pullman Company, carrier subsidiary of Pullman, Inc. Last year a loss of $335,778 was incurred in May. Gross earnings were $2,711,023 against $3,558,078 a year ago.

In the first five months of 1933 gross earnings were $14,226,454 and net loss $2,034,660 against earnings of $19,554,583 and loss of $1,160,904 in the same period of 1932.

U. S. Sugar Order Stirs Philippines

Manila, June 7 (A.P.).—Announcement from Washington that the War Department had awarded a contract for 1,875,000 pounds of sugar for the Army in the Philippines to a Japanese firm which will supply a Java product brought criticisms today from Philippine producers in view of a campaign to patronize American products.

The contract, representing three-fourths of the needs of the Army for the fiscal year, was awarded to the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, of Tokyo. Recently a Chinese firm was awarded a contract for 625,000 pounds of Java sugar.

The latest lot was purchased at 2.70 cents a pound. The Chinese price was 2.71 cents. Philippine bids were higher.

Money Policies Renew Buying In Cotton Trade

Prices of All Deliveries Make New Highs in Past Week.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The evident determination of the administration to put a rise in general commodity prices ahead of currency stabilization, as indicated by developments in the London conference, combined with further weakness in the dollar, stimulated a renewal of active buying in cotton here at the beginning of the week.

Prices for all deliveries made new high ground for the movement with October contracts selling up to 10.82, or about ½ above the low price touched on the reaction at the end of last month.

This advance attracted heavy realizing. There also appeared to be some increase in Southern selling, and reactions of some 45 to 50 points followed with fluctuations toward the end of the week reflected a disposition to even up commitments pending something more definite with reference to the acreage curtailment campaign in the South.

An announcement that loans had been arranged to finance sales of between 60,000 and 80,000 bales of cotton to Russia, combined with advances in the grain and stock markets, were contributing factors on the advances, while bullish sentiment found some further encouragement in reiterated reports of improving general business conditions.

A disposition to take profits on long cotton, however, was increased by reports that the acreage curtailment campaign was making rather slower progress than anticipated, and that the canvass might be carried over into next week, while there seemed to be considerable uncertainty as to the showing of the official acreage figures on Saturday.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau reported that cotton in Texas and Oklahoma was withstanding drought conditions fairly well, but was beginning to need rains badly, and, while rains or showers were reported in parts of Texas later in the week, it was considered doubtful whether they had been adequate.

Pay Boosts Announced Despite Company Loss

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 7.—The Alpha Portland Cement Co. today announced a 10 to 15 per cent increase in wages and salaries of employes at its large plant at Manheim, in Preston County, effective as of July 1.

Similar advances are being made at all the other plants of the company, the management stated, despite the fact that the company's business the first six months of this year was on an unprofitable basis. The management added that it is in entire sympathy with the program of the administration at Washington to increase purchasing power and relieve unemployment, and is taking this step in cooperation with it.

Flour Mill Restorees Pay Cut Retroactively

Portland, Oreg., July 7 (A.P.).—Employes of the Sperry Flour Co. here were advised today the company not only has canceled the order of last February for a 10 per cent reduction in salary, but that this 10 per cent reduction will be restored in full.

E. A. Parker, vice president, said the retroactive elimination of the pay reduction would be effective in all Pacific Coast plants. "Business has improved so much," he said, "that we thought it was the only fair thing to do."

"FORGOTTEN MEN." A war record from the official films of fourteen combatant nations, compiled by Samuel Cummins, assisted by Edward Gellner and Louis Goldberg. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

This reminiscent spectacle of the filth, the drudgery, the savagery and the futility of war is not in its major aspects very greatly different from numerous other symposiums of "official" pictures of the World War, of which "The Big Drive" was the most recent.

It shows about the same repetitive scenes of shell-splashed terrain, sprinkled with showers of mud and the corpses of fallen men; the same ponderous mobility of the heavy mechanisms of modern warfare; the same mobilization of nation after nation, following the first impact of heroic little Belgium's resistance of the invading hordes; the same sinking of merchantmen and chasing of subs on the high seas; the same Zeppelin raids, aerial dogfights, bombing expeditions and destruction of observation balloons; the same familiar, hideous, barbaric panorama, in short, of mankind engaged in an orgy of slaughter and doing its utmost to wipe out to the last vestige every trace of civilization's vaunted advance from the blood lusts of the Middle Ages.

Many other pictures have undertaken the same task with varying approximations of the completeness with which "Forgotten Men" paints the whole sodden picture of systematized and efficient mass murder. But "Forgotten Men" advances a step beyond the rest in the directness and vigor of its propaganda on behalf of the veterans of the war, not only of this country but of all countries engaged on both sides of the colossal conflict.

Toward this end, the closing scenes of the picture reproduce the ejection of the B. E. F. from the heart of the Nation's Capital by the armed forces of the Government just about a year ago. On top of this are piled glimpses of the Roosevelt inauguration, an optimistic hopefulness with regard to the efficiency of the "new deal," a large close-up head of President Roosevelt and a final fadeout on Old Glory, fluttering in the breeze.

By these devices "Forgotten Men" becomes a frankly controversial subject as well as one that makes vividly and brutally clear with what exquisite tortures man's inhumanity to man can be adorned when the world centers its inventiveness and entire effort upon creating new means of causing death.

There can be no question that there is a certain magnificence in much that is revealed in "Forgotten Men." Many of its scenes emphasize the heroism of great armies of erstwhile peaceful citizens transformed into fighting machines willing to face the horrors of a holocaust that exacted a toll of almost 8,000,000 killed and 19,000,000 wounded.

It may not be a pleasant sight to see laughing, singing youth marching up to the shambles from which they were to emerge, if they emerged at all, crippled, twisted and mutilated wrecks, but there is a magnificence of spirit about it that is inspirational.

All this is stressed not once, but a seemingly endless number of times as the major campaigns of the Allies and the Central Powers are spread upon the screen with a fair essay at accurate chronological sequence.

Further fascination is lent the film by glimpses now and again of practically all of the war-time great—Kitchener, the Kaiser, Papa Joffre, Foch, Pershing, King George, the Prince of Wales, the Czar, von Hindenburg, Ludendorf, the Crown Prince—Wilson—wearing a top hat and a mangy cat-fur coat—all whose names filled the headlines from 1914 to 1918.

Representatives of many of the combatant nations share the running narrative that accompanies the film with Robert Cummings, who at times grows just a trifle maudlin in his glorification of both those who died in the four-year struggle and those who survived it.

Last night many representatives of veterans' organizations, official and diplomatic Washington attended the premiere of the film as guests of the management.

In addition to the feature, the bill includes a new issue of the Paramount Sound News and a new cartoon comedy featuring "Popeye, the Sailor."

Loew's Fox.

"HOLD ME TIGHT." Fox picturization of a story by Gertrude Rigdon, featuring James Dunn and Sally Eilers, with Frank McHugh and Noel Francis. Directed by David Butler. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

The team of James Dunn and Sally Eilers, which rose to stellar eminence with the filming of Vina Delmar's "Bad Girl," has at last been given another vehicle which rolls tight down the center of the Dunn-Eilers alley.

It is Gertrude Rigdon's "Hold Me Tight." While it does not possess the dramatic profundity or the emotional appeal of the Delmar opus, it is, nevertheless, a yarn of homely realism, calmly acted.

The story, laid in this year of grace A. D. 1933, revolves around the all-too-frequent contingency of wives working to support husbands unfortunately without a job. It is not a story attempting to justify this sort of thing, but rather the simple story of a couple finding themselves in this predicament through no fault of theirs.

But unlike real life, the husband is finally reinstated in his job through his part in the foiling of a robbery. Even though there are a few minor deviations from literal truth, "Hold Me Tight" does mirror present-day conditions in a way that offers James Dunn and Sally Eilers the opportunity to continue that excellent brand of histrionics that helped to make "Bad Girl" not merely another picture, but one of the outstanding releases of its year.

There is nothing here that is extravagant or out of the ordinary realm of possibility—just the plain tale of a young married couple harrassed by unfortunate circumstances.

As another couple in the same straits are June Clyde and Frank McHugh. The not too-dastardly villainly is furnished by Kenneth Thompson. Noel Francis, Dorothy Peterson and Clay Clement complete the cast.

"The Kitchen Pirates," otherwise Peggy Taylor and Gary Leon, assisted by Stuart Tarrington and Eddie Flynn, truly headline the stage bill with their adagio act, no less thrilling in performance than it is cleverly conceived and staged.

The Norman Thomas Quintette opens the bill with a jamboree of jazz which has for its piece de resistance a one-man four-hand piano arrangement of "Listen to the Mockingbird" (at least, it sounds as though it could not be done with less than four hands). The dexterity of the drummer, whose traps include everything north of the orchestra rail, tap dances and the vocal solo, "That's Why Darkies Were Born," are also worthy of commendation.

Nan Halperin presents "The Little Southern Belle," "The New Cook," and "Scarlet Sister Sadie," a trio of character readings that are excellent. Assisted by May Morgan, Harry Savoy traipses through a line of chatter that is not altogether new—or old.

For the overture the Fox Orchestra, under the direction of Phil Lampkin, plays an "International Fantasie," with Chester Towne and Helen Knott doing a hot modernistic rhumba to the rhythm of drums and gourds, and Jean Moss singing "Stormy Weather" for the finale.

Earle.

"JENNIE GERHARDT." Paramount's picturization of Thodore Dreiser's novel, adapted to the screen by Josephine Lovell and Joseph Moncure March, starring Sylvia Sidney, supported by Donald Cook, Mary Astor, Edward Arnold and H. B. Warner. Directed by Marion Gering. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Jennie Gerhardt is another, but a less moving, Rae Schmidt. And so Dreiser's novel, antedating Fannie Hurst's "Back Street" by years, comes second in merit, as well as in time, to the screen.

On its own, it is interesting, though overlong, in its story, which, in the film, spans the years from one Roosevelt in the White House to another. The stories are twin only in broad outline, of course, and Jennie and Rae more kin in their loves than their natures.

It is a little difficult to understand just why this picture, as authentic as "Back Street," is so much less vital and touching. We believe, however, that it is because it is so determinedly somber with only two short, light touches of gayety, because Sylvia Sidney is so stolid in her performance of Jennie, and because possibly through necessary omission of some of Mr. Dreiser's voluminous document, Jennie's difficulties, unhappiness and more than dismal luck seem so much less inevitable than Rae's.

Jennie Gerhardt is left by the death of a man she did not marry, did not love but was grateful to for kindness, to support their daughter alone. She falls in love with the son of the family which she serves as a maid, and, keeping the existence of her daughter secret, lives with him.

After several years, he realizes that he loves her enough to marry her, despite the opposition of his parents, but Jennie tells him about her child and he leaves her. He returns and Jennie vows to stay with him as long as he needs her. Some years later, she decides he no longer does and leaves him. He marries, becomes highly successful and famous, only to find that he does need her and that she is the one he wishes to see before he dies.

Although occasional vivid glimpses of her usual sensitiveness and emotion show through, Miss Sidney's Jennie, for the most part, turns a wide-eyed, vacant face to her audience for it to read into it what emotions it will. The novel gives that impression of her and Mr. Dreiser is said to be pleased with her work.

One very pleasant feature of the film is the emergence of Donald Cook from minor roles in major pictures or major roles in minor pictures into a real assignment which he handles with sympathetic understanding and finesse. We have had a private little game of watch and wait for this young man's progress ever since "Rebound" on Broadway and "The Mad Genius" in the movies.

Edward Arnold, one-time National Players stock favorite, does exceedingly well by the brief but important role of Senator Brander, father of Jennie's child. Little Cora Sue Collins, as the child, and Louise Carter, as Jennie's mother, are the best of the excellent supporting cast.

Maxine Doyle, in blues and greens and all manner of delectable get-ups, hasn't anything very sensational, but, then, again, nothing too routine to announce for the stage this week.

William and Joe Mandel are both amusing and amazing in their acrobatics; Ann Pritchard is a light and graceful dancer with some tapsters for support; Madie and Ray dance a little and then get around to their real job of elegant rope twirling, and Demarest and Sibley do all sorts of things to a piano and their vocal chords, respectively.

Palace.

"HOLD YOUR MAN." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Anita Loose, featuring Jean Harlow and Clark Gable, with Stuart Erwin, Dorothy Burgess and Muriel Kirkland. Directed by Sam Wood. Reviewed, second week, by Isabel Harraman.

There can be no doubt about the success of the Harlow-Gable team as a box office attraction when we consider the fact that, by popular demand, they are remaining a second week at Loew's Palace at a time when second weeks are hard to get.

In "Hold Your Man" the luscious Miss Harlow portrays her usual lady of doubtful reputation and Mr. Gable, of course, is the predatory male whose caveman tactics have so charmed a gasping feminine public. As the sizzling delineators of "hot cha" love they leave nothing to be desired.

The Anita Loos "Bad Girl" formula is doctored up with a few bathtub scenes and there is a theme song! You fill in your own words and meaning (if any).

In the course of "holding her man," Ruby (Jean Harlow) lives happily without a wedding ring, joins in his scheme to work a badger game, gets caught and goes to the reformatory. Eddie (Clark Gable) bursts in and marries her (with the aid of a colored preacher) so that their child will have a name 'n' everything. The latter incident, and the fact that the two are pictured as contemplating the straight and narrow path as the picture fades out, seems to satisfy the censorially inclined that all is well with Hollywood morals.

There are several interesting added attractions, including an Andy Clyde comedy, "Feeling Rosy," and a Lyman H. Howe "Hodge Podge" which gives some inside dope on circus life. The Metrotone News presents a brief shot of the Prince of Wales, who says a few words in good old King's English that are a delight to the ear.

Huge Wrecking Jobs Will Start Soon at Capitol

Old Census Building Razing to Begin Wednesday to Extend Grounds.

Demolition work is scheduled to begin on the project of extending the Capitol grounds next Wednesday, according to the Heckinger Housewrecking Corporation, which has charge of the work. The old Census Building, at Third street and Constitution avenue, will be the first structure razed.

The sections for extension are in two parts, specified by the wrecking company as the Library Annex job and the Capitol extension job. The former, near the Folger Shakespearean Library, is bounded by First and Second streets and Pennsylvania avenue, and the latter includes the old Census Building, the old Greyhound Bus terminal, the Winston Hotel, the Driscoll Hotel and the Ventosa Apartment House. It is the section just northwest of the Capitol, extending along Constitution avenue from First street to Third street.

On each of these jobs the wreckers have been given 100 days in their contract. They plan to begin Wednesday on the Capitol extension job. Buildings in the Library job section are still occupied, but the occupants have been given legal notice to leave, and wrecking will begin on that section not later than August 28.

The Heckinger Corporation estimates that in three weeks as many as 100 men will be employed on the project, which is the largest wrecking job done in Washington in many years.

To make way for the wreckers the Ventosa Apartment House plans to hold an auction sale Monday, July 17. Work will begin on that building immediately afterward.

Boy, 14, Saves Trio Caught in Current

Augusta, Ga., July 7 (A.P.).—Rescue of three persons being carried out to sea by undertow of Sullivans Island was accomplished by J. Ryerson Edenfield, jr., 14-year-old schoolboy of Augusta.

A girl from Columbia, S. C., whose name was not learned here, was first caught by the rip tide, and she cried for help. Young Edenfield swam swiftly to her rescue and towed her to shore.

Meanwhile, the youth's mother, Mrs. J. Ryerson Edenfield, sr., was knocked down by a breaker and was caught in the undertow. Her husband swam to her, but was too exhausted to help. Their son plunged back into the sea and helped his mother to the beach. Then he swam out and towed his father to safety.

'Napoleon,' Post's New Comic Strip, Features Clumsy Dog

Clifford McBride's Uncle Also Starred, Will Start Monday.

It has been said that true humor lies in the faithful caricature of happenings that have their counterpart in our own experiences. This may explain why the new comic strip, "Napoleon," that will appear in The Washington Post daily and Sunday, beginning next Monday, proves so irresistibly amusing to all who see Clifford McBride's clever sketches and read his sparkling dialogues.

"Napoleon" is a dog. A big clumsy animal who looks more like a hybrid of the canine and pachyderm families, yet into all his antics and expressions McBride infuses a lovable, appealing character that makes one realize that he is merely trying to help when he clears the table of dishes with one sweep of his massive tail.

Uncle Elby, a jolly, rotund gentleman of the old school, is Napoleon's master—or should it be said that the dog is Uncle Elby's master, as usually proves true—however, the pair has a rare facility for getting into embarrassing situations, which by their trueness to life, invoke responsive sympathy and appreciation.

It so happens that these amusing cartoon strips are based upon actual, living characters. They derive their inspiration from an uncle of the artist, Elba Eastman, who is a prosperous lumber dealer in a small town in the State of Wisconsin, and from a St. Bernard dog that is owned by Mr. McBride.

Asked if his uncle did not object to having his face and form caricatured in newspapers throughout the country, Mr. McBride replied: "Oh, Elba gets a great kick out of it. In fact, he has changed the spelling of his own name to conform to that of the cartoon. Nowadays he's Elby Eastman."

Mr. McBride also told of his purchase of "Napoleon:"

"I got him out to my house, and it was just about like bringing home an elephant. So I called in a carpenter and had him build a dog house. You ought to see it. It's so big it looks about like a cow barn.

"Then I introduced Napoleon to the house, and he sat there stupidly looking at it. It just didn't mean a thing to him. I pointed to the door, and coaxed, but that didn't work. So I tried to shove him in. That was just plain foolishness. He weighs 250 pounds, and he put his paws out and propped himself into position and . . . well, I gave that idea up right away.

"Then I figured that he'd probably succumb to reason, and I talked to him as one would with children. I explained all about it—how that was his house, and that it was up to him to go in and get acquainted. But he still sat there.

"I had a great idea then. I would teach him by example. So I got down on my hands and knees and crawled into the house.

"Napoleon got the idea right away. He perked up, ambled up to the door and crawled in before I had a chance to get out. There we were inside, all tangled up with each other. It was a darn hot evening—dark—I couldn't get out, and I couldn't get Napoleon to budge. I didn't know him very well then, and didn't dare to get strenuous, because I was afraid he'd bite. So all I could do was sit there and suffer, and pet him, and say a few prayers for my own safety.

"If he'd ever taken it into his head to roll over on me playfully, I'd have been finished. I guess it was fifteen or twenty minutes before I managed to get past him, and crawl out, but it seemed like a couple of hours. Anyway, that's the story of Napoleon."

This experience provided the first episode in a never-ending series, each of which is refreshingly new, hilarious in its picturization and text and, above all, true-to-life. They will be brought to Washington exclusively in The Washington Post, in a daily comic strip, beginning Monday, and in a full page in color each Sunday, beginning July 16.

Warring Union Mine Factions' Truce Is Called

Strike Threat in Illinois Averted; Ousters Ask Johnson to Aid.

Harrisburg, Ill., July 7 (A.P.).—Progressive miners' leaders today promised to observe a five or six day truce before picketing Peabody Coal Mine No. 43, and as a result threatened strife between warring factions did not occur.

Assistant Attorney General M. E. Cox and Lieut. Col. Robert W. Davis, a National Guard officer, conducted an investigation to determine the best method of keeping peace in Saline County.

They left late today for Springfield to report conditions to Gov. Henry Horner. The Progressives promised they would not picket the mine, which is being worked by members of the United Mine Workers, until they heard what course the State would pursue.

The Progressives have sent telegrams to Gen. Hugh L. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, asking him to intervene. They charge that the Peabody Coal Co. has refused to let them return to their jobs in the mine because of their affiliation with the Progressive union, which is fighting for supremacy in southern Illinois coal fields.

2 Held for Death Of Man in Crash

Unknown Man Victim of Collision, Coroner's Jury Decides.

Entering a verdict of "death caused by the colliding of two trucks," a Prince Georges County coroner's jury yesterday held two men for the grand jury in connection with the death of an unknown hitch-hiker on Crain highway, near Marlboro, July 1.

One of the men, Milton T. Harris, of Norfolk, Va., was held under $200 bond only as a State's witness. The other, Israel Gray, colored, of Calvert County, was held under $500 bond as a principal.

The hitch-hiker was picked up in Glenburnie, Md., by Harris. Near Marlboro, the truck and another operated by E. A. Ward, Glouster Point, Va., collided with Gray's truck, killing the unknown man almost instantly. His body was buried in the county potter's field.

Negro Is Made New Assistant To Cummings

Pittsburgh Lawyer, Native of Carolina, Lauds Party for Recognition.

Robert Lee Vann, Pittsburgh newspaperman and attorney, a native of Ahoskie, N. C., was sworn in yesterday afternoon as a special assistant to the Attorney General. He is the first colored man to hold such a position under a Democratic administration.

"My appointment," he said, following the ceremony in the office of the Attorney General, "is proof positive that if the Negro does something for the Democratic party, that party will do something in recognition of him."

He was accompanied to the Attorney General's office by Joseph R. Guffey, Pennsylvania political referee. The oath was administered by Hugo J. A. Carusi, secretary to Attorney General Cummings, in the presence of the First Assistant Attorney General, William Stanley; the Attorney General, himself, appearing immediately after the ceremony.

The new incumbent stated that he expected to make headquarters here and to divide his time between Washington and the Pittsburgh area in fulfilling the duties of his office. The last colored man to hold the position of special assistant to the Attorney General, to be located here, was Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman from Mississippi.

Among the large group of friends of the new appointee who witnessed the swearing in, and felicitated him at its conclusion, were George W. Coles, sr., and Mrs. Coles, of Pittsburgh; Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, of Columbus, Ohio; D. O. Willistion, Louis R. Mehlinger, Robert A. Pelham, Mrs. Eunice Scott, Manuel Roque and Mrs. Vann.

Beer Permit Probe Intrigue Charged

Government Counsel Hints Congress Member Sought to Block Inquiry.

Philadelphia, July 7 (A.P.).—Government counsel today hinted that influential Chicago interests tried through a member of Congress to thwart the Government's effort to revoke an alleged racket brewery's permit.

Climaxing the permit revocation hearing of the Health Beverage Co., of Reading, Pa., a special assistant to the Attorney General asked whether the holder of the brewery permit "knew that a Chicago congressman went to the office of the Attorney General and tried to have this hearing stopped?"

Samuel M. Lunine, the permit holder, said he knew no one in Chicago who might have interceded in his behalf.

Teachers Told To Be Creative During Leisure

Much Time Spent Dodging Boredom; '34 Meeting to Washington.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—With more leisure in prospect, Americans must learn to fill their spare time with "personal creative activity," and not rely on ready-made entertainment, teachers of the National Education Association were told today.

The problem of leisure was answered by a special committee on "the enrichment of adult life," which reported in the final sessions of the association's convention.

The teachers wound up their six-day meeting by selecting Washington, D. C., as their 1934 convention city and adopting resolutions condemning further pay cuts and urging schools to expand their curricula back to normal.

For after-work hours, the committee recommended any sort of creative activity which is enjoyable and "productive of mental contentment." Declaring leisure time to be of "profound significance" now, the committee, headed by James A. Moyer, director of university extension work in Massachusetts, said recreation must play an important part. Proper leisure pursuits could take the place of the joy of working, which, it said, had been taken from most workers by the advent of the machine.

Much missionary work is ahead in this field, the report said, hinting that "the leisure habits of the better educated adults, rich and poor alike, show a lack of even ordinary intelligence."

Just now, the committee believed, much spare time is put into dodging boredom and in a search for momentary excitement.

30,000 Expected to Honor Walter Johnson at Twin Bill Today

Crawford Beats Vines in Final; Wood and Shute Tied for Title

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

A TOUCHING little scene was enacted at Griffith Stadium yesterday. Clark Griffith, of the Grfiith Stadium Griffiths, returned to his ball park office after his trip to Chicago to see the all-star major league game. He summoned the club secretary, Edward B. Eynon, jr.

"Ed, I'm in a jam," said Griffith,. "I've got some friends coming to the games tomorrow. They want seats by the dugout. I can't disappoint 'em. You've got to get them for me. By the way, how've the tickets been going?"

"You're in a jam?" replied Eynon. "I'm the one in a jam. It's worse than a world series rush, I'm telling you. I don't know where I'm going to get your tickets. It's just too bad for you."

"That's great," said Griffith. "Glad to hear it."

It was all very, very touching.

Just then Eynon's eyes fell on this reporter, who was browsing about picking up odd ends of this and that on the beat.

"Say, you," said Eynon, "that wasn't for publication. We've got plenty of seats to sell. I don't want to let the fans think there aren't plenty of seats left. There are.

"We've only reserved the first five rows of the grandstand; there're thousands of unreserved seats that go on sale tomorrow morning. And there's 10,000 bleacher seats besides the pavilions that aren't reserved. You can have that for publication."

Joe Took No Chances.

Canny Joe Cronin came back from Chicago yesterday, but it developed that he was taking no chances in a game that didn't count in the American League standings.

"Did you bring your bat back with you, Joe?" asked Griffith.

"Yes and no," said Cronin. "I left my bat in Washington. I wasn't taking any chances breaking it against National League pitching. I took Ossie Bluege's bat with me. I brought it back, but I didn't use it out there. I used Jimmy Foxx's bats. They've got a lot of hits in 'em."

Runs, Hits and Errors.

Any time Al Schacht wants to leave the Nats there's a third base coaching job awaiting him at Cleveland with Walter Johnson . . . Schacht was ill in New York, but went through his stunts with Altrock like a true trooper . . . Ball park officials are awaiting the o. k. of the local musicians union before announcing the American Legion Band will play for the Walter Johnson ceremonies today . . . Connie Mack withheld Jimmy Foxx from the All-Star game because he didn't want to show any favoritism toward his A's . . . The radio announcer at Chicago Thursday pulled two for the books . . . described a pretty double play, Frisch to Cronin to Terry . . . and said it had been a long while since Eddie Collins had been seen in a Red Sox uniform . . . I'll say it had.

Californian Is Defeated in 5 Sets

Seems Headed for Win in First Three and Then Crumbles.

Crown Is Brought Back to Australia After Several Years.

By Harry Romer.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 7 (A.P.).—Jack Crawford, brilliant young Australian, battered his way to the top of the men's tennis world today with a terrific five-set victory over Ellsworth Vines, defending champion from the United States, in a Wimbledon final that produced some of the greatest tennis in the history of the famous tournament.

Before packed stands so tense with excitement that gasps alone broke the stillness, the amazing youngster from down under fought his towering American rival through two bitter hours before he triumphed, 4—6, 11—9, 6—2, 2—6, 6—4, and brought back to Asutralia the crown neither the Island Dominion nor any other part of the British Kingdom has been able to win since the days of the great Anzacs, A. F. Wilding, Norman Brookes, and Gerald Patterson.

The issue was in doubt until the very last second when Vines, worn to the point of exhaustion, drove into the net the match point that lifted Crawford to the throne seat of tennis.

Feud Renewal Likely.

With Australia favored to beat England and play the United States for the right to challenge France for the Davis Cup, Crawford and Vines seem certain to renew their feud in two weeks with the international trophy itself at stake, since the seven-year reign of the French now appears to be over.

Seven times in the past year, the lanky Vines, until today the uncrowned king of the singles world, had met the young Australian, who is almost his equal in size, and five times Vines had won, but today—and the situation may easily be reversed the next time—there was no question at the end of Crawford's supremacy.

He took the most terrific assault the cannon-balling Vines is capable of, weathered the onslaught, and then came back gamely, brilliantly, in the final set to wear the defending champion down to a point where he was able to break through his service at love for the final and deciding game.

Seems Headed for Victory.

All through the first three sets—as the only sound about the famed Center Court was the thud of balls on racquets, the gasps of the crowd as one star or the other faltered

Great Finish Sees Pair Get 292s

Americans to Play Off Today for British Open Crown.

Sarazen and Diegel Are Only Single Stroke Behind Leaders.

By Frank H. King.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 7 (A.P.).—For the tenth successive year, the golfing shotmakers from the United States dominated the British Open Golf championship finals today over St. Andrews' classic terrain, but whether the title honors go to Craig Wood, the powerful blond, from New Jersey, or the dark, slender Densmore Shute, the Philadelphia stylist, will not be known until they play off their tie at 36 holes tomorrow.

Crashing through in one of the fiercest, most exciting battles ever waged for this ancient championship, while favorites were eliminated right and left by St. Andrews' famous hazards, Wood and Shute finished in a deadlock at 292 strokes each for the 72 holes of championship conflict.

68 Best Score of Day.

Wood's dazzling 68 on his third round this morning was his decisive thrust, the best score of the entire day, and his tally showed successive rounds of 77—72—68—75. Shute had four 73s in a row, even par on every round, for one of the most consistent exhibitions ever witnessed.

Like the Ryder Cup matches, however, the leaders were not safe until the last putt was hit by the last player, who, as at Southport, was Syd Easterbrook—"Syd, the saviour," they called him after he beat Shute on the home green in the deciding match for the international team series.

But the deliberate, good-looking West countryman from Bristol failed, like a dozen others today to come through in the stretch drive. His final putt failed to drop and instead of a three-cornered play-off, two young Americans with contrasting games and personality will wage the first play-off since Jock Hutchison whipped Roger Wethered in the 1921 open.

Sympathies With Shute.

If there were any sympathies for either one in the swarming Scotch galleries, they probably shifted to Shute, not only because of his steady, stylish play, but also because of his British antecedents.

Easterbrook, with whom the last home-bred hopes died after Henry Cotton and then Abe Mitchell had faltered badly in the last round, tied for third place with two more Americans—Gene Sarazen, who saw this title fly away with a disastrous eight on the fourteenth hole—jinx hole of the tournament—and Leo Diegel, who missed a 3-foot putt on the last green. All three finished a stroke behind Shute and Wood with 293.

WALTER JOHNSON,
"Big Barney" to Washington fandom, who returns to the scene of his former triumphs today as manager of the Cleveland Indians. It is Walter Johnson Day at Griffith Stadium, and 30,000 fans expected to attend are hoping it is a complete failure for Cleveland.

Boss Acquitted of Assault Charge

Jury Returns Its Verdict After Hour and Half of Deliberation.

CHICAGO, July 7 (A.P.).—Harley Boss, the Cleveland Indians' first baseman, was absolved by a Circuit Court jury tonight of charges made by Miss Lillian Eloise Mitchell, 22, formerly of Winston-Salem, N. C., that he attacked her. The girl had asked $50,000 damages for injuries she alleged she received.

Miss Mitchell accused Boss of beating her, blackening her eye, breaking a tooth and tearing her dress when she resisted his advances in his hotel room in Cleveland last April 19.

The baseball player denied the charge. He asserted he met Miss Mitchell that afternoon for the first time and that he invited her to his room after dinner. Boss said that when she told him "My time is worth something to me," it angered him so he put her out of his room.

The jury's verdict of "not guilty" was returned an hour and a half after it retired.

Boss, who testified today, was en route by plane to Washington to join his ball club.

Two Ballots Taken.

A member of the jury said it took but two ballots to acquit the ball player. The first ballot, he said, was eight to four for acquittal.

The juror said two things apparently swayed the jury—first, that Miss Mitchell had not filed criminal charges against Boss in Cleveland, and, second, that Mrs. Marie Sweitzer, who allegedly introduced Miss Mitchell and Boss, had not testified.

Attorney Lloyd A. Faxton, representing Miss Mitchell, recently obtained a $10,000 judgment against Boss at a default hearing, but this automatically was set aside when the verdict of the jury was reached today.

The high spot of the trial today appeared when Boss took the stand to tell the jury that the only display of affection he made was to "kiss and embrace" the girl, a Southern divorcee.

Displayed Affection.

"When Miss Mitchell and you were alone in your apartment," asked Faxon, "did you show any affection toward her?"

Others Could Find Use for 'Em, Mack

Philadelphia, July 7 (A.P.).—Connie Mack, back from the Chicago "wars," which saw his American League baseball All-Stars defeat John McGraw's National League All-Stars, tonight answered the question that has been worrying quite a few fans:

"Why didn't you use Jimmy Foxx, Wes Ferrell, Bill Dickey, Lazzeri and Hildebrand in the baseball 'dream game'?"

"I didn't shake the team up because it's against all my instincts to disturb a winning combination," he said. "Nothing made me feel more badly than the fact I didn't use Foxx, Lazzeri, Dickey and pitchers Hildebrand and Ferrell.

"After all, I was chosen manager of this team to win the game, and I resolutely followed my own methods once the game was under way. The players understood."

Simmons, Dykes and Haas Lead in 15-Hit Attack on Former Mates.

Philadelphia, July 7 (A.P.).—With former Athletics leading the way, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 1, today in the first game of a five-contest series.

Big Ed Durham allowed only six hits over the distance.

Al Simmons, former member of the A's, ran his total of runs batted in to 74, connecting for a homer in the ninth and a single earlier. Jimmy Dykes, another former Mackman, also blasted out a four-bagger, while the third one-time member of Connie Mack's troupe—Mule Haas—hit safely four times in five trips to the plate.

Detroit Downs Yanks; Ruth Hits 19th

Four Hurlers Are Pounded by Tiger Batters for Total of 18 Bingles.

NEW YORK, July 7 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers opened the Western invasion of the Yankee Stadium today by plastering four Yankee pitchers for a dozen hits and winning, 9 to 4. The victory sent the Tigers into fifth place ahead of the idle Cleveland Indians, while it put the Yanks three games behind Washington.

Babe Ruth walloped his nineteenth home run of the season in the first inning after Fred Walker had walked. But the two-run lead lasted only to the fourth inning. Then Charley Ruffing struck a streak of wildness and was chased from the game after walking in a run and the Tigers began hitting to collect two more after Don Brennan took the hill and went into the lead.

Brennan was touched for eight of Detroit's blows.

Nats Lengthen Lead to 3 Games as Tigers Defeat Yanks.

By Shirley L. Povich.
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE Nats return to their public today to vie with an enemy for the plaudits of the multitude.

The name is Walter Johnson, now cast in the dual role of friend and foe to Washington fandom, as he leads his Cleveland Indians into Griffith Stadium on Walter Johnson Day for a double-barreled attempt to spike the rising pennant hopes of the team with which he served 21 years as a player, 3 years as manager.

Johnson in a Cleveland uniform, exhorting his players to beat Washington, has captured the imagination of Washington fandom, already fired to a frenzy of pennant hopes by the Nats' spectacular ascent to the league leadership, and estimates last night placed the crowd for today's twin bill at 30,000.

President Roosevelt will attend, barring the pressure of official duties, at 1:30 o'clock.

Nats 3 Games Ahead.

Without moving a muscle yesterday, the Nats lengthened their lead to three full games as another former Washington manager, Bucky Harris, led his Tigers to victory over the Yankees at New York.

Again Johnson is tugging at the heartstrings of Washington fandom who shared his heart-breaks when he was laboring with last-place teams back in the dark era of the Washington Club, pitching pennant baseball while ragged support heaped defeats upon him.

Today Johnson comes back to Griffith Stadium to see the team that he bequeathed to young Joe Cronin making runaway motions in the direction of the league lead only a year after Johnson's own Washington club of 1932 was in third place, far out of the race.

Designs Against Johnson.

But sentiment in baseball will have no place out there on the field after the ceremonies at the plate are over. The Nats will be out to make Walter Johnson Day a complete competitive failure for Walter Johnson. The league race is still serious business, and with a chance to increase their advantage over the Yankees, the Nats will present their strnogest front.

Youthful Joseph Cronin, fresh from his appearance in the all-star game at Chicago with Pitcher Alvin Crowder, has nominated Crowder and Earl Whitehill for the Nats' pitching duties today and expected last night to face Oral Hildebrand and Wes Ferrell in the box for Cleveland.

Out in Cleveland two weeks ago, Cronin dared to start Whitehill in the face of the fact that only one southpaw had lasted against the Indians all season, and Whitehill justified his faith with a 9-to-0 shutout triumph over the Tribe, thus exploding the southpaw myth.

Both Ferrell and Hildebrand, the aces of the Cleveland staff, were unable to halt the rampaging Nats in the West and Ferrell was beaten twice during the five-game series, being pounded out early in both starts.

See Nats as Leaders.

Barring those 5,000 fanatics who roared a noisy welcome to the club on its triumphal return from New York the night of July 4, Washington hasn't seen the surprising Nats since they left the Capital a second-place club on June 12 to go into the West on the tour that would make or break their pennant hopes.

What they did out there is history, toothsome, joyous history, which records how they won 13 of 16 games in the hinterland to overhaul the leading Yankees and top off their journey with a double-barreled defeat of the Yankees at New York.

Monel, Favorite, Leads All Way to Win Feature Race at Arlington Over Fingal

Mate, Back, Is Third at Aqueduct

Racing in Long Island Comes to Close Until Next Autumn.

Flag Flying Is Victor in Best of Program at Latonia.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 7 (A.P.).—Dominating the mile event from the rise of the barrier, S. W. Labrot's Monel won the top event of an ordinary program at Arlington Park today.

Monel was hustled to the front by Jockey J. Kacala, made all the pace, and had plenty in reserve to stand off challenges in the stretch by Fingal and Ebony Lady, which took place and show money, respectively. The victor, which ran the mile in 1:37, had a margin of two and one-half lengths over Fingal.

Aqueduct Ends Meeting.

Aqueduct Racetrack, New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Racing in Long Island today came to a close until next autumn with the running of the getaway card at the home of the Queens County Jockey Club. The final program was featured by the return of A. C. Bostwick's colt, Mate, fourth largest American money winner, which made his first start since last fall in the fifth race, an allowance affair of 1 mile for 3-year-olds and upward.

Opposed to comparatively ordinary horses and under the trifling impost of 109½ pounds, the 5-year-old son of Prince Palkillashandra did nothing to indicate that he will be the serious threat he used to be in the handicap division. Favorite at 9 to 10, the Bostwick horse wound up third in a blanket finish. C. H. Thieriot's Scoutmaster won by a half-length, while The Potter headed Mate. The latter was a length before Don Pedro.

As Mate picked up a mere $75 for running thrid, his earnings now total $287,440. Scoutmaster, a 12-to-1 shot, ran the mile in the unimpressive time of 1:40 2-5.

Mate broke on top from the inside and led Don Pedro by a length in the first furlong. Then Don Pedro moved up to the leader's throat latch and The Potter also loomed alongside. The three horses ran heads apart through the stretch, but Scoutmaster, badly outrun for 6 furlongs, staged a great rush on the outside and flashed past the tiring leaders in the final sixteenth.

Latonia Program Light.

Latonia, Ky., July 7 (A.P.).—The racing program here this afternoon was a typical off-day offering, each of the eight events being given over to platers and maidens.

The fourth dash, an affair for older sprinters, attracted the best field and resulted in a stunning setback for the form players when E. Haughton's Black Comet, even money favorite, trailed M. Burton's Flag Flying and C. W. Moore's Essential to the wire.

Jack Howe was first to show in front, but his advantage was short-lived, as Flag Flying assumed command after a quarter of a mile. Steadied in the van, the Burton gelding at one time enjoyed a length lead, but in the last 50 yards began tiring and just managed to withstand the closing challenge of Essential.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

THE water spider, although it must have air to breathe, lives under water—it builds its home there; its young are born under water. To make its submarine haunt habitable the spider builds an open-bottomed nest much like the engineer today constructs a caisson—an inverted cup-like structure which, because its air can not escape, offers a dry refuge beneath the water.

The principle is the same as that demonstrated when a tumbler, open end downward, is thrust into a pan of water—the air remains in the glass, holding the water out.

The spider, having no airlines or pressure pumps to change the air in his underwater castle, must carry fresh air down to it. This he does by taking small bubbles from the surface down to his nest, and there releasing them. The excess air escapes from the nest at whatever point on the lower rim is nearest the surface of the water.

A swallow that one summer, 1927, nested under the eaves of a house near Metz, France, spent the following winter on the Island of Martinique, 4,000 miles away, then returned to its summer home in France. This was proven by messages carried by the bird in its transoceanic flights.

Galento Is One of Boxing's Curios

Squatty, He Packs a Hard Wallop, One Barry Is Hoping to Avoid.

SOMETHING new in the way of boxing curios will be presented at Twin City Monday night in the person of Tony Galento, the gent who will step ten rounds with Reds Barry. They've been tall and short, lean and robust, soft-hearted and hard-boiled, but Galento is the one lad who appears to be different from all the rest.

The New Jersey Italian is a squatty person, 5 feet 6 inches off the ground, but he packs pounds and pounds of solid beef—a Mack truck body on a Ford chassis. And when he socks the opposition it's the Mack truck part of him that goes with the blow.

Figuring a way of fighting a man several inches shorter than himself has kept Barry fully occupied during the past week. The redhead has heart and soul set upon beating Tony to avenge his one-round knockout of several weeks ago. If sincere training can win the fight Barry is home.

Plans to Move About.

Barry lost to Galento because of his inability to keep moving. His instructions were to move around. He tried to, but Galento caught him early in the fight, landed a haymaker on his jaw and it was over in nothing flat. Reds has been moving about as lightly and swiftly as a bantam in training. He'll do the same in the ring. Move in and out, jabbing and boxing his tough opponent.

George Harmon, the green youngster who took a drubbing from Ray Bowen two weeks ago, encounters Roma Labona in a four-rounder, and Sam Romano will hook up with Angelo Brocato in another four. Not much class but plenty of blood and thunder.

Two Good Six-Rounders.

Two promising six-rounders have been lined up with Sammy Lucas and Chief Perry Knowles meeting in the semifinal, and Bob Lowry pitted against Kelly O'Neil in the second.

Knowles is punching better than when he first appeared before a local audience. He looks like a comer in the gym and on paper figures to beat Lucas, who battled to a draw with Doug Swetnam his last time out. Knowles also fought a draw with Swetnam some time ago.

Tribe 1st Baseman Acquitted by Jury

Boss recalled he had.

"What did the affection consist in?"

The baseball player said he had kissed and embraced the complainant.

"I did not," Boss responded.

Then he reiterated his version of how the tete-a-tete ended. He forced her from his apartment, he said, using his hand on the side of her face. Then he gave her 75 cents for cab fare, Boss testified.

That was after she had suggested her "time and company were worth some money," Boss testified.

Boss said he weighed 187 pounds.

Feminine hosiery meant nothing to him, the defendant testified, in answer to questioning as to whether he had mentioned to Miss Mitchell a "run" in her stocking, and offered to purchase her a "carload" of new ones. Miss Mitchell had testified thus.

"Stockings weren't discussed," Boss said. "I'm not interested in them."

Attorney Faxon again brought up Boss' tactics on the baseball diamond. Asking for what reason he had ever been "benched" by the management of the Cleveland Club, Boss said it was because he had hit poorly.

"By that you mean hitting a baseball?" Faxon said. The crowd chuckled.

Faxon attempted to show that Boss had ended his college career at Louisiana Tech because of trouble with school authorities. The Jonesboro, La., boy who made good in big-time baseball said he had left the halls of learning because of his desire to turn professional athlete.

Miss Mitchell, recalled to the stand by her attorney, denied the party at Boss' apartment came to the conclusion to which he had testified.

Dear Al: Arlington Park, July 7.

You couldn't have been hurt today, if you stuck to my special, Morsun, which paid better than 6 to 1. Frankly, though, old boy, the form displayed here, coupled with the weather, has most of the players as nutty as a fruit cake. No system has yet been devised that will beat these nags. Even Smitty, who claims all that he needs is money to make his system work, has discarded the sun shade and dug up a new one for his clients called the "inside." Tomorrow is another day. Here's the best line obtainable tonight.

Bill.

FIRST RACE—Coucci thinks he can nurse the faint-hearted ADAMITE home. GOLD SIGNET and SUN MONK for place and show.

SECOND RACE—Westrope will have HAPPY ANNE away winging. HIGHER and MISS TULSA are the contenders.

THIRD RACE—At the weights, DYAK will give PAIRBYPAIR a real battle. I prefer GROWING GLORY for show end.

FOURTH RACE—Going to slip you a long shot. HELIANTHUS with PLAYTIME and SIDNEY GRANT for place and show. Plucky Play will be the favorite, but distance is against him.

FIFTH RACE—The "Lassie," with $1,000 added, will have them all "shooting" anyway, and there is no reason why MATA HARI should be defeated. SLAPDASH is very consistent, and DABCHICK should be in the picture. FAR STAR, a stable mate of MATA HARI'S, is far from out of it.

SIXTH RACE—Just as hard as they make them. If TRACE CALL has fully recovered, you may have the answer. I am selecting the entry—JOVIOUS and EDELWEISS—to win, with TRACE CALL and BARN SWALLOW for place and show.

EIGHTH RACE—Here's another hard one. PHARAHEAD and Jockey Coucci, ELCIDIO, with Westrope up, together with PEACE LADY and Tipton aboard, should make a good finish.

NINTH RACE—Chances are this race will only be run in event some other event is declared off. You will either be broke or have plenty of money before it comes up. My tip is to go home. LA SALLE, ESKIMO and OUTBOUND seem best of those entered.

Season to See Three Fights for Titles

Ross to Meet Canzoneri; Jeby, Rosenbloom Also to Defend Laurels.

NEW YORK, July 7 (U.P.).—Taking advantage of the boxing interest created by the Baer-Schmeling and Sharkey-Carnera bouts, promoters today matched three championship fights for this summer.

Tim Mara, president of the Aram Athletic Club, arranged for Barney Ross, of Chicago, to defend his lightweight title against Tony Canzoneri, of New York, in a 15-rounder at the Polo Grounds, September 13. Ross wrested the crown from Tony on June 23 at Chicago.

Mara also arranged for Ben Jeby, who is recognized as world middleweight champion in New York State, to defend that title against Lou Brouillard, the hard-hitting southpaw from Worcester, Mass., who last night won a 10-round decision over Mickey Walker. Jeby and Brouillard are slated to step 15 rounds at Yankee Stadium on July 26.

Rosenbloom Is Signed.

Not to be outdone, Madison Square Garden also matched Maxie Rosenbloom, of New York, to defend his light heavyweight crown against Mickey Walker in the Garden on July 20. This will be the first indoor title fight in years in the New York area.

At the same time, the Garden announced that former heavyweight champion, Jack Sharkey, was returning to the ring wars and would fight once a month for four months, until he had eliminated all the heavyweight contenders, if they would meet him.

Sharkey figures his first victim will be King Levinsky, the Chicago fish peddler. Chicago promoters are trying to arrange this match for late August. It will go through if they can dig up the $25,000 guarantee demanded by the former champion.

The Garden indicated today that Sharkey was matched tentatively with Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion, for an indoor match early in October. Sharkey would like to fight Max Baer, but Jack Dempsey has Baer under contract and disapproves such a bout.

Tri-City Regatta To Begin July 29

Plans for Herald Harbor Meet Are Virtually Completed.

The roar of hydroplane and the put-putting of two-lunged outboard motors will resound once again at Herald Harbor July 29 and 30, when speedboat racing enthusiasts will assemble for the sixth annual Tri-City regatta.

Plans for the meet have been virtually completed by the committee in charge. All of the leading race drivers operating on the Chesapeake Bay, and many from Northern waters, are expected to compete. An attractive program, including races for all sizes of crafts, has been arranged.

In conjunction with the regatta the Maryland Yacht Club will stage its annual cruiser race from its clubhouse in Baltimore to Herald Harbor. This contest featured the 1932 meet, one of the most successful ever held.

All races will be over a 2-mile course, patrolled by Coast Guard boats. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded winners of the various events. Entry blanks may be filed either at the Boat House, Herald Harbor, or with J. A. Anadale, secretary of the Potomac Power Boat Association, 1317 H street northwest.

McMillan and Speers Signed for Thursday

With happy memories of 10,000 fans in the stands at the Londos-Steele match last Thursday night still in his mind, and with visions of another such turnout, Joe Turner yesterday departed for Philadelphia, where he will attempt to corral another pair of top-notchers for next week's wrestling show at Griffith Stadium.

Before leaving, however, Turner announced the signing of Jim McMillan and Frank Spears for the semifinal bout, and promised not to come back unless armed with a sure-fire attraction and three good preliminaries.

Louise Hofmeister Defeats Reba Kirson to Retain D. C. Women's Net Crown

Long Rallies Feature of Match

Consolation Play Is Won by Betty Kronnan, Mrs. Pritchard.

OPPORTUNITY gave three rather feeble knocks at the door of Reba Kirson yesterday, but the Baltimore tennis ace was unable to respond vigorously enough to topple Louise Hofmeister from her pedestal as defending champion in the finals of the District of Columbia women's tennis championship at Columbia Country Club.

The first set was bitterly contested, with Miss Kirson jumping into the lead, three games to one, and playing set point three times. The Chicago girl continued to play very coolly, however, and finally battled back to deuce games and an 8—6 victory. Miss Hofmeister continued her very steady play against a slightly wavering opponent to win the second and final set, 6—3.

Is Replete With Rallies.

The match, which was replete with long rallies, found Miss Kirkson particularly adept at the net and on placement shots. Miss Hofmeister used a drop shot to very good advantage throughout the match, working her opponent out of position and scoring points with this shot no less than 10 or 12 times.

The singles matches became strictly a nonresident affair with the elimination in the semifinals of Ruth Martinez and Frances Walker, the last surviving Washington players.

In the consolation semifinals, Betty Kronnan defeated Mrs. Ruth Elliott, 6—0, 6—2, in a match also played at Columbia, and Mrs. Marion Pritchard defeated Doris Ferry, 6—4, 6—8, 6—3, at the Chevy Chase Club.

Wood, Shute Tied For British Crown

round and the other at "hell bunker" on No. 14 on his final round, cost Sarazen a golden opportunity to repeat his 1932 victory. In each the American took three wallops with his niblick.

In one of the closest of all finishes for the championship, no less than 14 players, including 8 Americans, wound up within 5 strokes of each other, but the carnage was frightful. Among the favorites on the last round, and foremost among the victims, was Walter Hagen. The American Ryder Cup captain, who had a 68 on his first round and set the pace for two days, began to fade on his third round, which included a 7 on No. 14, and he went to pieces with an 82 on his last round for a total of 301.

Chances Are Wasted.

Of the five players who were tied at the end of 54 holes this morning—Cotton, Mitchell, Easterbrook, Joe Kirkwood and Diegel—only two, Easterbrook and Diegel, were still in the fight when the finishing holes were reached. Diegel wasted chances with a 77, Mitchell took a 78, Cotton a 79 and Kirkwood an 81. Easterbrook's last round was 77.

It remained for Wood to go out in front, after other front runners had failed, and then the galleries, numbering 10,000 spectators, had thrill after thrill as, first, Shute came through to tie, and then Easterbrook failed. Shute, with a sensational 33 out in the morning, had damaged his chances with an incoming 40, the difference being chiefly that his putts didn't drop so often, but there were no signs otherwise that he had lost his smooth swing, the accuracy of his irons and cool control around the greens.

Wood's third-round 68 was a gem, sparkling with putts for birdies on six holes. Skirting all the famous hazards with astonishing accuracy, the big Jersey pro made his only mistake of the round when he took a 5 on the thirteenth, missing the green with his second. He would have matched par on his last round and won the title outright but for a 6 on the fifteenth, where his ball got into the gorse bushes, and it cost him two extra shots to reach the green. Instead of being thrown off his stride by this, he finished the last three holes easily in par for a 75.

Kamrath, Mako Win Chicago Net Matches

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Two college stars of the net world, Karl Kamrath, of Texas, and Gene Mako, of the University of Southern California, came back with rousing finishes today to join Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, and Junior Coen, Kansas City, in the semifinals of the national clay court singles tennis championship.

While Parker and Coen idled by the sidelines to get full advantage of a day off, Kamrath survived the battle by defeating his arch rival of the courts, John McDiarmid, Texas Christian University professor, in a stirring five-set duel, 2—6, 2—6, 6—4, 6—2, 6—3. Mako submerged Lefty Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., 3—6, 6—2, 6—2, 6—4.

Sharkey-Levinsky Bout Is Arranged

Chicago, July 7 (U.P.).—Sammy Wolff, Chicago promoter, announced today that he had made arrangements by telephone for a fight in Chicago September 7 between Jack Sharkey, former world's champion heavyweight, and King Levinsky.

Wolff said he made the agreement by telephone with Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, and that the fight would be 15 rounds.

Sharkey recently lost his title to Primo Carnera, who previously had defeated Levinsky twice, but failed to floor him. Carnera knocked out Sharkey in the sixth round.

Vines Loss Hurts Davis Cup Stock

Paris, July 7 (A.P.).—America's Davis Cup stock took a slight drop today as a result of Ellsworth Vines' defeat by Jack Crawford in the Wimbledon singles finals, particularly in view of the likelihood of the United States meeting Australia in the interzone finals.

Australia, led by Crawford, meets England next week-end in the European zone finals and is highly favored to sweep on into the interzone finals against the United States the following week, with Vines and Crawford meeting again in singles.

The American camp was far from discouraged at Crawford's five-set victory today. No less an authority than Helen Wills Moody predicted here that Crawford would win today on the grounds that Vines has not yet reached the peak of his form.

Vines is taking a holiday over the week-end and is expected here Tuesday.

Lois Bates Will Bid For Diving Honors

Capital Girl to Perform in National A. A. U. Event July 17.

Her first bid for national fame will be made by Lois Bates, 17-year-old local acquatic star, in the National A. A. U. Junior Outdoor Diving Championship for Women, to be held at Crystal Pool, Glen Echo, July 17. Although she has never entered competition outside of Washington and Baltimore, many are of the opinion that her work off the springboard compares favorably with that of divers of the caliber of Helen Meany and Georgia Coleman.

As two of her five optional dives, Miss Bates will probably attempt a back double somersault and the twisting back one and one-half somersault. These two figures have not been used before by a woman diver in the South Atlantic section, and have been used in competition only by Georgia Coleman.

Pending approval by National A. A. U. of a list of officials submitted, Frederick J. Brunner, Carl Ahlenfield, Farl Knight, Roger Hawthorne, and Edward H. McCrahon will officiate.

Vines Is Defeated By Jack Crawford

momentarily, then blazed up again with some super play—Vines seemed to have the match well in hand, though he lost both the second and third sets.

Vines' cannon ball service boomed over the net, unreturnable at times, and his fine forehand drives to the corners left Crawford helpless in the face of such power. There was a little volleying, and both were content to hold to their backlines as the American ran out the game, 6—4, after breaking through Crawford's second service.

The Australian shook his head in bewilderment as Vines' service flashed past him in the second set while he had to battle with every ounce of his guile and speed to hold his own delivery. Crawford held on desperately and barely escaped losing the eleventh game, his service, where Vines had him, 15—40. But the Australian's steadiness and courage carried him through.

Match Is Evened.

The break came in the nineteenth game when the sting started to fade from the American's service. A double fault on the deciding point cost Vines his service. Crawford turned on all his power, followed his own service to the net, and forced Vines to drive weakly into the barrier for the final point that gave him the set, 11—9, and evened the match.

Apparently inspired by Vines' first sign of weakness, the fading of his service and unsteadiness in his backhand, Crawford rose to new heights in the third set, driving his forehand shots fiercely to the corners. Returning everything, everywhere in his own court, the Australian broke Vines' service in the sixth and eighth games, the last time at love.

But Vines came back in the fourth set as brilliantly as Crawford had in the third. Driving harder than ever, winning his first service at love, Vines ripped through the last three games to take the set, 6—2.

His Backhand Crumbles.

The Australian showed them in the final set. Each won on his service, Vines taking the eighth game again at love, to even the count at 4-all. Then, as Crawford rallied for the final effort, Vines' backhand crumbled. The Australian won his service to lead 5—4 when Vines netted three backhands in a row. Then Vines' service slumped as well, Crawford smashed through him at love, still drilling to the backhand, and the new champion was crowned.

The crowd gave Crawford one of the longest, wildest cheers that ever has echoed through Wimbledon. Not since 1922, when Patterson won the championship, has an Empire player held off the attack of the French and Americans.

Today's gathering was chiefly a man's occasion. The ladies will have their day tomorrow, when Helen Wills Moody, five times champion, meets Dorothy Round, second-ranked British girl, in the women's final. Mrs. Moody, on the threshold of equaling Suzanne l'Englen's record of six triumphs, is a decided favorite.

East Qualifies Three Crews for Races

Yale, Cornell and Harvard in Draw; Washington Is West Coast's Hope.

MARINE STADIUM, Long Beach, Calif., July 7 (A.P.). The East rose in all its might today to qualify three crews to one for the West in the elimination races for the national intercollegiate sprint championship here tomorrow over the 2,000-meter course inaugurated a year ago by the Olympic games.

Running true to expected form, Yale captured the first heat in 6 minutes 44 3-5 seconds, trailed a length by Cornell.

Washington's Huskies, Pacific Coast champions, came back to the defense of the West, winning the second heat in the best time of the afternoon, 6 minutes 40 seconds, finishing with a terrific sprint to cross the line four lengths ahead of the flashing Crimson oars of Harvard. California and the University of California at Los Angeles finished in third places and were eliminated.

Gives Surprising Fight.

However, the U. C. L. A. crew, rowing in the second intercollegiate race of its career, made a surprising fight of it with the Crimson, battling bow to bow until the finish, when Harvard's superior stamina enabled it to capture the fourth qualifying position by two lengths.

A sharp wind which whipped diagonally over the course from the southwest slowed times appreciably. Washington's mark was 10 seconds slower than its winning time here April 15, when the Huskies captured the Pacific Coast title in 6 minutes 30 seconds.

It also was considerably slower than the course records of 6 minutes 28.2 seconds, established during the Olympic games last summer by Italy.

In Complete Command.

Yale was in complete command of the first race in expected fashion, starting out in front and relinquishing the lead only momentarily during the first part of the 2,000-meter sprint.

Washington was even more superior. The Huskies never stepped their stroke above the cadence of the low thirties and apparently put on their finishing spurt only for effect.

In the draw for tomorrow's final race, Washington was fortunate to get lane No. 4, protected over part of the course from the prevailing wind by the bank of the lagoon and the stands.

Yale drew lane No. 3, with Cornell in lane No. 2 and Harvard well on the outside on lane No. 5.

Fothergill, People's Choice, Given Release by Red Sox

Favorite of Bleacherites Cut Adrift to Make Room for Rookies.

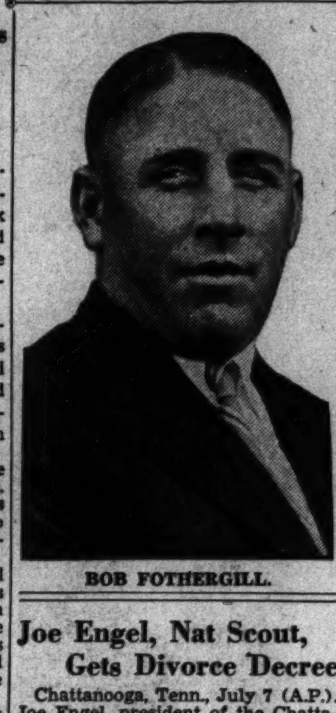

BOSTON, July 7 (A.P.).—Roly-poly Rob Roy Fothergill, baseball's gift to the Fenway Park bleacherites, was cast off by the Red Sox today and made as free as the winds that blew through his enormous uniform shirt.

"Fat Robert" used to come to Boston in a White Sox uniform and his scampering about the outfield and his slashing with a bat combined with the excessive tonnage he carted about made him a favorite with the bleachers gang.

He was a welcome addition to the Boston team in the eyes of the fans. For a time he roamed the pastures in great style, but then settled down to a bit of pinch-hitting and coaching on first base.

Whenever a game became dull and the Sox were runs behind, as they were mighty often up to a short time ago, the cry would be raised, "We want the people's choice — Fatty Fothergill." And usually the stout one would oblige with an appearance at the plate.

The purchase of Freddy Muller and Bill Walters from the Pacific Coast League made it necessary for the Sox to have more room on the bench. The departure of "the people's choice" to join the list of free agents assures Muller and Walters plenty of room to sit there when they arrive.

Cubs Beat Giants In 10 Innings, 6-5

Koenig's Pinch Home Run in 8th Ties Score; Error by Jackson Costly.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—The Cubs opened their home stand against the Eastern clubs of the National League today by taking a ten-inning thriller from the league-leading New York Giants, 6 to 5. Despite the loss, the Giants held their 5½-game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals, who also were defeated.

The Giants scored all their runs in a third-inning rally, which drove Pat Malone from the hill and knocked Lynn Nelson around for a while. The Cubs knotted the count in the eighth, when Mark Koenig knocked a pinch home run. Three straight singles off Watson Clark, third New York pitcher, crammed the sacks in the tenth, and then an error by Travis Jackson, New York shortstop, allowed Frank Demaree to score the winning run.

Finn, of Phillies, Dies in 30th Year

Allentown, Pa., July 7 (A.P.).—Halted at the top of his big league career, Neal (Mickey) Finn, star second baseman of the Phillies, died today of a stomach ailment, in his thirtieth year.

Former West Coast ace and more recently the property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Finn succumbed after a recent operation at a hospital here. The pleasant-faced, speedy infielder had been in the hospital since June 22. He had shown up particularly well in spring training, but shortly after the season opened the stomach ailment, which hospital authorities described as "chronic duodenal ulcers," hampered his play.

The operation was performed by Dr. H. Poetter Boyle three days later, and Finn apparently was on the road to recovery, but took a turn for the worse a few days ago. His family was at his bedside at his death. Finn and Gordon Slade, now with the St. Louis Cardinals, were an outstanding infield combination with the San Francisco Missions, of the Pacific Coast League, a few years ago. Then Brooklyn purchased both in 1930.

Carleton Ineffective, Dodgers Rout Cards

St. Louis, July 7 (A.P.).—Tex Carleton, who pitched 16 innings of the 18-inning duel between the Cardinals and the New York Giants Sunday, proved ineffective from the start today and the Brooklyn Dodgers hammered out a 10-to-4 victory over St. Louis.

Carleton retired in favor of Dazzy Vance after yielding seven hits and five punts in four innings, and was charged with the defeat, his fourth of the season. Jess Haines, third Cardinal pitcher, was the victim of a four-run rally in the ninth. The defeat reduced the Cards' margin over the third-place Pittsburgh Pirates to a half game.

Gill Is Leading Industrial Batters

Shelton Second and Cloud Is Third; Collier Is Down to 28th.

ONCE regarded as the most dangerous hitter on the sandlots, a natural ball player and a sure-fire big leaguer had it not been for his short stature, "Fee" Collier is gripped in the throes of a batting slump that finds him with the meager average of .280 as the second half race of the Industrial League gets under way. The mighty "Fee" is slipping.

Batting averages for the first-half race released yesterday by Johnny Fenlon, official scorer of the loop, give the stick honors to "Reds" Gill, of the Police team. The Bluecoat pounded the ball at a .437 clip, driving out 21 hits in 48 trips to the plate to lead Bill Shelton, of the Blue Ribbons, and his nearest rival for the crown, by 9 points.

Cloud, of Fairfax, Third.

Shelton connected safely 21 times in 48 appearances at the plate. Cloud, of the lowly Fairfax Farms Dairy nine, was third with a mark of .406.

Collier and other members of the Dixie Pig Club were far down the list. Ralph Bennie led the team, usually one of the hardest hitting sandlot aggregations on the lots, with an average of .354. "Huck" Stahl and Babe Clapper were next in line with .325 each.

The chubby Collier's fall from his usual lofty position was a long one, down to twenty-eighth to be exact.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

APPARENTLY Ed Wynn's broadcasting chain has taken on new life. At least LeRoy Mark, of Station WOL, Washington member of the proposed network, is optimistic.

"We expect to receive test programs within the next few days," Mr. Mark said. "Western Union wires have been installed and we will be able to hear the New York auditions sitting at our desks here in Washington.

"It wouldn't surprise me if the new network didn't begin to broadcast regularly before August 1. The name of the new chairman of the board is to be announced soon. He is a man who is known from coast to coast and the members of the board are crackerjacks likewise.

"The new network now has barrels of money behind it and the board of directors will compare favorably with that of either of the major networks. Ed Wynn himself has spent upward of $50,000 in the venture and others are ready to back him up with whatever additional money is necessary.

"The studios in New York are completed. The equipment is Western Electric with the exception of the microphones, which are RCA. The network is taking plenty of time to start, but once it does there will have to be no apologies to anybody."

Mr. Mark said that he had heard in New York that Ed Wynn was to receive $250,000 for the moving picture venture which is taking him to the Pacific Coast.

It isn't hard to settle down before marriage, the hard part is settling up afterward, according to Allen Prescott.

THE prison emergency at Lorton Reformatory presented the local police radio system with its second severe test. The first was during the bonus riots of last year.

In earlier days, precious hours would have been wasted by a cumbersome concentration of police about Lorton. Jaded desk sergeants would have been frantically jiggling telephone receivers in calls to various precincts.

Now, Washington is covered by an invisible net, whose meshes, the various scout cars and cruisers, can be tightened or loosened at the simple and rapid command of the police radio announcer. In time of trouble at Lorton, loaded cruisers from every precinct can converge on the trouble spot, and Washingtonians are again protected by the police radio.

State and local branches of the Woman's Party, which is sponsoring the ceremonies in tribute to the memory of Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, are arranging meetings throughout the country to listen to the program.

Carmela Ponselle, of the Metropolitan Opera, is making her first appearance in Washington and will sing, accompanied by the Marine Band.

The speakers will include Senator Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas; Judge Genevieve Cline, of New York City; Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, of Wilmington, chairman of the National Woman's Party, and Miss Doris Stevens, of New York, chairman of the Inter-American Commission of Women, who will speak in honor of Mrs. Belmont.

High in the air a Germany military Zeppelin limping along with disabled engines while allied planes, like buzzing flies, hunted for her through the night, and far below in the African jungle the deep booming of native signal drums warning the tribes to be ready to help in an emergency landing—this is the dramatic setting of the story which K-7 will tell in the spy adventure this evening over WRC at 8:30 o'clock in "Drums of Africa," a program devoted to German World War activities in Africa.

THE first summer air performance of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra will be transmitted direct from Robin Hood Dell in Philadelphia's famous Fairmont Park tonight. Such symphonic favorites as the prelude to Wagner's immortal music-drama, "Lohengrin," and George Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F and "Pavance" and "La Valse" by Ravel will be included in the initial presentation. Harry K. Kaufman will be at the piano for the Gershwin number. WJSV will devote 45 minutes to the concert beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra concert will be heard from the stadium in New York through WMAL tonight from 7:30 until 9:15 o'clock.

Crews from Harvard, Yale, Cornell in the East, and the Universities of California, Washington and Los Angeles branch of California, on the West Coast, will compete in the event which this year takes the place of the usual contest at Poughkeepsie.

"THE CURSE OF SCIPIO" will be revealed in a talk about the headhunters of South America by J. O. Kinniman, dean of the Miami Military College, over WRC at 2:30 p. m. Dean Kinniman has lived with many savage tribes in his enthnological research work.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Vignettes of the town:

They've gone swank out at Coney Island this summer. Several of the stalls are selling hamburgers under the tonier title of chopped sirloin. . . . The squabbles continue at public bathing beaches as to how much bathing suit you can or can't wear.

New Yorkers become quite confused due to the fact that each magistrate has the right to make his own ruling on the matter. The fate of those scantily clad ones who are tossed into the calaboose depends upon how liberal-minded is the magistrate they face.

Mystery.

A striking, mysterious figure often seen around the night spots is a girl with an extremely youthful face who has gray hair. She always wears a silver evening gown, with her nails colored with silver enamel. . . . Tallulah Bankhead now thinks she'll go to Spain instead of Hollywood. . . . Dennie Moore was a chorus girl in "Tangerine" at the age of 16. Now she's the dramatic stage's outstanding red-haired comedienne.

After her long sojourn in Europe, Mary Hay made her first public appearance at one of those roof gardens overlooking Central Park. I saw Mrs. Floyd Bennett sitting at a ringside table. She's writing a biography of her husband. . . . The coming of summer so affected a shoe string trader in Wall street that he ducked into a hat store and emerged with a straw skimmer. "Well, well," greeted a pal, inspecting the straw, "how do you like your new office?"

One of the larger department stores on Fifth avenue is owned by a dozen or so brothers, uncles and nephews. When the numerous partners hold their weekly meetings to discuss policies of the business, they don't call them conferences.

Evidently influenced by the new deal, they call them cabinet meetings. The one who can shout the loudest is secretary of state.

That betrothal of Thomas Manville, jr., and Claire Windsor seems to have struck a snag. At least, both attended the opening of a new play, but not together.

Backward, Turn Backward.

I have just received the new volume of "Who's Who in the Theater." Among the more interesting items is the note that one of Broadway's best known stars has dropped ten years from her age since the previous volume was published.

It might as well be recorded here—the plaint of a reporter who gets up the "25 Years Ago Today" column for a New York daily. He says that virtually every time he mentions the quarter century past activities of an actress or a society leader, she immediately threatens to sue the paper for libel.

Walt Mason, Himself

The World's Most Famous Rhymster

Cheering the Sick.

AT times I gather up some books that I have read nine times or ten, and send them to those quiet nooks where sick folk languish, dames and men. They lie in bed day after day, they're all bunged up, they can't get out; some have the fever known as hay, all complicated with gout. They have all sorts of standard ills, they are a tired, unhappy bunch; their only fun is taking pills, which pastime loses, soon, its punch. Monotony becomes a pest in such a grim and dismal place, and anyone is doubly blessed who swats that monster in the face. And there is joy in all the wards, the patients hum a grateful hymn, when some one comes along with cord of stories full of pep and vim. The sick folk do not care so much for heavy tomes of sterling worth; they only wish to get in touch with cheerful doings on this earth. They'd rather read about the sleuth who trails a gangster to his nest than struggle with a Vital Truth that takes a fortnight to digest. They'd rather read a jazzy tale of youth that steps upon the gas, than toil with something that was stale when Johnson wrote his "Rasselas." And so I gather up some books concerning kings and cabbageheads, and Master Minds and gaudy crooks, and send them to the sick folks' beds.

M. M. Casler, 70, Commits Suicide

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 7.—Moreau M. Casler, 70, one-time employed as official photographer of the Naval Academy, but who had been living in retirement for a number of years, committed suicide today. He fired a bullet from a .32-caliber revolver into his right temple and died within a few minutes.

Mr. Casler left a note in which he attributed his act to despondency. A note addressed to his wife, Mrs. Bertha Casler, was found tucked in his shirt. The contents of this were not revealed.

Mr. Casler fired the fatal shot while standing near the garage at his home on Weems Creek, West Annapolis. His wife, who was in the house, heard the shot and notified neighbors. Police Justice Thomas G. Basil, acting coroner, decided an inquest unnecessary and gave a certificate of suicide.

Richard Dix and Wife Separated, He Admits

Hollywood, Calif., July 7 (A.P.).—Leaving town today for the week-end, Richard Dix, film actor, admitted through his secretary that he and Mrs. Dix, the former Winifred Coe, San Francisco society girl, had separated.

"There are no hard feelings," the actor said. "We talked it over and decided a separation was best. We enjoyed different things. A divorce was never discussed."

Girl Lost 3 Days Found in Cellar.

San Francisco, July 7 (A.P.).—A three-day police search for 8-year-old Linda Giorni ended when she was found hiding in the basement storeroom of her parents' apartment home. During the three days she ate 2 pounds of candy which had been intended for her paternal grandmother.

Woman Kills Spurner of Blondes.

Oakland, Calif., July 7 (A.P.).—Miss Nellie Clarice Burdick, 26, of Berkeley, will face trial a month from today on a charge of murdering Mario Rossi, 25. Police said she admitted shooting him because he told her he would never marry a blonde. She is a blonde.

Bearded Sea Lady Is Wed to Seaman

Baltimore, July 7 (A.P.).—Malvina Emily Perry, the bearded lady of Baltimore waterfront and former sea captain, today was the wife of an ordinary seaman who once sailed under her command.

She was married yesterday to Joseph Edward Cheelsman, who she said she promised to marry when she "taught him to steer the ship and box the compass." They met less than two weeks ago after not having seen each other for ten years.

Mrs. Cheelsman has a 14-year-old son by a previous marriage. She claims she is the only woman in the world who has a full master's sailing license.

Dear G. A. O. Poet:
Your prayerful poem I have read,
Your pleas I have made note of,
Your greater need for change for bread
Than beer, I also wot of.

You seem to think a financier
Is able, and much more so,
To keep the country's ledgers clear
Than clerks who are just so-so.

Now, what a silly bard you are!
How foolishly you argue!
Can't you see, 'tis better far
For YOU to bear the brunt, Oh!
—Your lovin' Uncle Frank.

CONSIDERABLE progress is being made in the formation of an association to assure reemployment for all recently discharged Government workers, as outlined in the Federal Diary of recent date. It is our plan to perfect on organization of, by and for the civil service employes, and we earnestly solicit the support of all workers, or former workers, with civil service status.

Incredible though it may seem, there is apparently widespread fear among the Federal employes that engagement in activities of this sort would seriously impair their personal chances for reemployment. It is unthinkable that any American citizen should ever be blacklisted by his Government, or by any responsible officer thereof, for the temperate and legitimate exercise of his inalienable rights. I wish to state, however, in this connection, that all letters addressed to me will be regarded as strictly confidential and that no one supporting this cause will be exposed to any undesired publicity.

Further information regarding the aims and purposes of this association will be given to any one applying to the undersigned.

F. W. HERRON,

When you are down and going out—An overworked furlough adopted a Government clerk and threatened to stay with him for 90 days or longer. The clerk, as is the general rule for the species, was a mild, well-trained and susceptible individual. Previously he had been struck with a 15 per cent reduction in pay, and with rising prices all about him, he was sinking lower and lower in a financial mire that bordered on bankruptcy for him.

At this time a growing concern in the Middle West felt the effects of an improved market and a brother of the Government clerk, who was employed with the firm, wrote for him to come out for a visit during his furlough. He went and so impressed the head of the firm with his abilities that he is going to accept a position with them at 10 per cent above his basic salary with the Government.

Uncle Sam, while you are out with the farmer making hay in the sunshine, and with the bootlegger making him pay for his moonshine, please remember your loyal white-collar hired help who would like to continue to work for you in sunshine and shadow, but with a fair appreciation and adequate treatment for their contribution to the common weal and welfare. Brighten up the corner where you are.

Have you a brain trust in your department?

Add Commerce's Juvenile Brain Trust: Bill Lane, Patent Office, who won an engineering degree from George Washington, and his LL. B. is near at hand. Mrs. Lane, Foreign Construction Division, will not let Bill get ahead. She recently was graduated with an A. B. from G. W. A great big hand to both, who put in long hours after work doing more work in classes. Then there is Thomas Quincy Tilson 3d, lawyer-to-be.

THE FEDERAL NEWS, N. F. F. E. weekly newspaper today publishes the following editorial:

"The administration should lose no more valuable time in 'coordinating its personnel plans.

"The 'special Cabinet committee,' designated to 'study plans' for the reemployment of dismissed workers, should use all possible speed in making definite recommendations to the President.

"It is singularly unfortunate that such indefensibly poor management has marked the administration's handling of its personnel problem. It is to be hoped ardently that business and industry generally will not take this particular leaf from the Federal Government's book.

"Months ago plans were made to separate employes from the field and departmental services. Months ago plans were made to build up great emergency organizations, the success of which necessarily would be dependent in large degree upon the ability of administrators to secure trained and experienced personnel.

"No far-reaching plans were made, however, for the transfer of employes from the departmental service to the emergency agencies or for other reemployment in the Federal service.

"Now, days after the end of the fiscal year, when thousands of workers have been dismissed, a 'special Cabinet committee' is 'studying' the situation * * *."

Miss Alma Street, Internal Revenue, has changed her name lately to Alma (Street) Carr. Miss Eleanor Townsend, Press Service, Agriculture, enjoyed a few days at her home, Oakland, Md. Did some one say "wedding bells?" Well, time will tell. Mrs. Agnes Maher, Press Service, Agriculture, enjoys the week-ends at Bay Ridge, Chesapeake Bay, near Annapolis. Miss Edna Mae Phelps (*) Press Service, Agriculture, sojourns to Laurel, Md., occasionally, where lives a "Sonny Boy" in whom she is interested. BOUQUET FOR STEWART.

THREE cheers for C. E. Stewart, administrative assistant to the Attorney General, for his position on efficiency ratings. He follows well the leadership of President Roosevelt calling for candor of action. Employes are entitled to know just how they rate. To see such record may cause the employe to "shiver," and inspire an ill feeling for the rating official, but the open-record system lets the person concerned know facts and destroys all mystery.

The example of Mr. Stewart should be imitated by all other administrative officers since it follows so intimately the high-minded ideals for frankness set by the Chief Executive.—William Shakespeare.

IT'S THE NEW YEAR.

MERCHANTS and business firms have from time to time immemorial adopted the practice of taking stock inventories at the close of a calendar year. The Federal employe, by common right, is now permitted—at the beginning of the fiscal year—to inventory his or her assets, meager though they may be:

1. Fifteen per cent cut in Government pay extended by executive order.
2. Six hundred and fifty-six Agriculture workers out.
3. Four hundred and twenty-six employes of Commerce released.
4. Interior workers will be cut by 97 within two weeks.
5. Extensive furloughs prospective in all Federal departments.
6. Dismissals to date represent a start. "Wringing out" process will continue for at least three months hence.
7. Postoffice will fix furlough scale this week.
8. Internal Revenue Bureau dismisses 600 employes.
9. Public Health Service drops 500,
10. Industrial Alcohol Bureau releases 200.
11. Justice lets out 1,700 employes, mainly prohibition workers.
12. Navy dropped (June 1), 203 departmental workers.
13. Interstate Commerce loses 613 employes.
14. Government Printing Office drops 400 workers.
15. General Accounting Office loses 200 employes.
17. Yesterday, appointed; today, at work, tomorrow—?

Stalker, Wife Named in Suit On Stock Deal

Tri-State Power Company Demands Accounting by Representative.

Representative Gale H. Stalker, of New York, and his wife, Mrs. Helen B. Stalker, were named defendants in a suit filed in the District Supreme Court to force them to render an accounting of his management of the Tri-State Gas & Electric Corporation, of which Mr. Stalker was president and a member of the board of directors until he resigned last March.

The court was asked to require Mr. Stalker and his wife to disclose various transactions that took place while he was head of the corporation. It also asks that he be restrained from disposing of any stock he might now hold pending a settlement of the suit which was filed by the Tri-State Co. through its president, Fred C. Campbell.

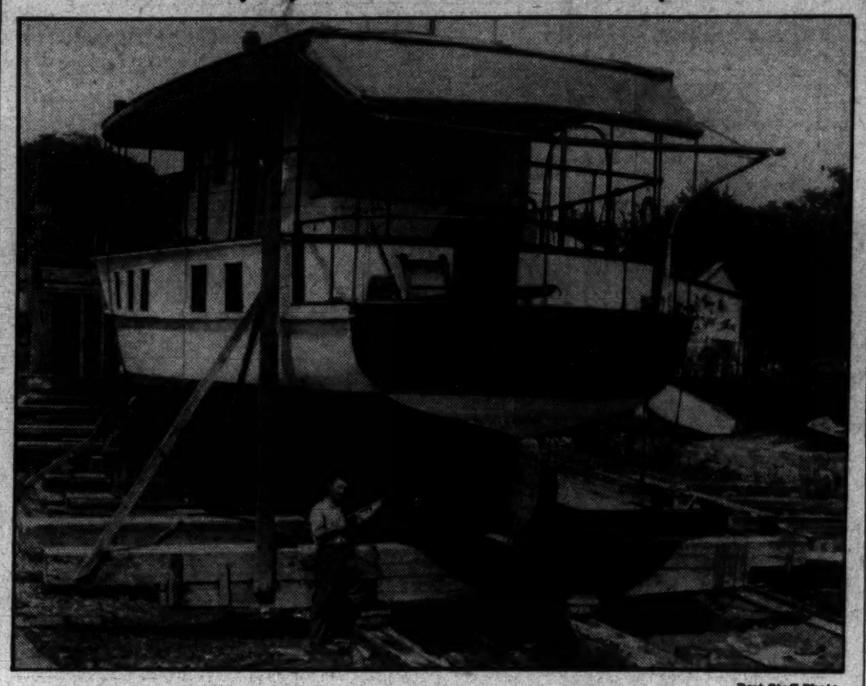

The suit alleged that Representative Stalker assigned some of the shares he held to his wife and to creditors. He is the record holder of 7,707 shares of capital stock, it was charged. The New Yorker was alleged to have presided at a board meeting when stock was illegally assigned. It was shown by the papers in the suit that the representative participated in the organization of the corporation in New York in 1931. He has been drawing a salary of $150 a week.

An issuance of a block of 4,800 shares of stock to an advisory committee, of which Representative Stalker was a member, was questioned. Last September, it was charged, the Attorney General of New York instituted an action against some officials of the corporation, including Stalker, but the action was discontinued when 100,000 shares of the company's stock was returned to the treasury.

The Tri-State originally had 50,000 shares of capital stock with a par value of $10. In June, 1931, the capital stock was increased to 100,000 shares at $10 par, and on August 15 of that year, a further increase to 1,000,000 shares was made, but with a par value of $1 per share. Last January the capital stock was reduced to 500,000 shares with a par value of $1.

Seaworthy Eye Saved Her From Davey Jones

Found with four feet of water in its hull, the $35,000 yacht, Tedalaide, owned by Mrs. Theodore Noyes, jr., was saved from sinking by harbor fireboat crew after an hour's hard pumping. The yacht had been in dry dock for several months.

Fireboat Saves Noyes Yacht as Hull Is Flooded

The $35,000 yacht Tedalaide, owned by Mrs. Theodore Noyes, jr., widow of the late associate editor of the Washington Star, was saved from sinking yesterday morning after members of the harbor fireboat crew had worked for more than an hour pumping water entering through an opened seam near the stern.

The boat had been out of commission and docked near Fourteenth and Water streets since the death of Mr. Noyes last fall. E. R. Shreve, of Hyattsville, owner of the Floodgate Motorboat Agency, noticed the boat riding low and upon entering found 4 feet of water in the hull. He notified the fireboat.

The yacht was towed to the drydock of the Marine Railway, Inc., and hauled out of the water.

This is the second boat saved by the fireboat this summer. A 16-foot speedboat belonging to the Department of Agriculture recently was hauled out by the harbor fire crew after a leak had developed.

Bread Price Boost Here Still in Doubt

Wheat Processing Tax to Go Into Effect Today, Increasing Flour.

Washington is wondering whether or not bread prices will go up here to keep pace with the increased prices of wheat and flour necessitated by the Federal processing tax, which becomes effective today.

Bread prices in Baltimore went up yesterday and in Philadelphia they rose a few days ago. In Washington it has not been settled whether or not there will be an increase. Officials of bakeries here are silent.

Bakers have been warned against any rise in prices by Senator King, of Utah, who threatens a Senate investigation. Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, also warns of the danger of prices exceeding purchasing power during the period of recovery. Any radical raise in bread prices, said Gen. Johnson, may cause the industry to be guilty of extortion and infraction of the Sherman antitrust laws.

$100 Lost in Cab Returned by Driver

When Magnus Norgaard goes aboard ship that will take him back to Copenhagen next month he will remember Stuart Mosley, Washington taxicab driver.

Norgaard, who is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Adam Boving, 221 Rock Creek Church road, before attending the World's Fair at Chicago, lost his wallet as he rode in Mosley's cab.

Yesterday Mosley, who lives at 1408 Newton street northeast, returned the wallet and enriched himself by $10.

Man Leaning on Glass Is Cut as It Gives Way

George Johnson, colored, 38, of 62 R street southwest, was severely cut about the arms and face yesterday when he fell through a large plate glass window on the ground floor of the Ford Building, 451 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Johnson was leaning against the window on the outside when it gave way.

He was taken to Emergency Hospital by the fire rescue squad, where his injuries were said not to be serious.

Assailant of Police Is Held in Only $5

James R. Golden, 47, 520 Third street northwest, and Emmett R. Miller, 38, 5505 Thirteenth street northwest, fellow members in the Lathers and Woodworkers Local, No. 9, were doing battle in an earnest fashion in the street at the union hall, Sixth and G streets northwest, last night when Policemen G. L. Saunders and F. M. White, plainclothesmen, attached to the First Precinct, chanced along. The policemen sought to quell the two-man riot, but William E. Selby, 29, 3120 G street southeast, a bystander, took exception and let fly at the policemen.

The three men were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. Golden and Miller had to put up $25 collateral each for their fisticuff, but Selby was released on $5 collateral for having taken a biff at the policemen.

Novena Exercises Listed Here Tonight

Solemn novena exercises in preparation for the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel will begin at 8 o'clock tonight in the monastery chapel of the Carmelite Fathers, 150 Rhode Island avenue northeast.

The Very Rev. Eliseus Costa, prior of the Discalced Carmelite Friars, will deliver a series of short sermons during the novena.

Five Police Cars Race To 'Riot,' But It's False

Answering a riot call to Seventh and M streets northwest, four scout cars, a headquarters car and many policemen arrived on the scene to find 200 interested spectators blocking the streets waiting for things to happen.

The call was sounded when an unidentified colored man, alleged to be a robber, was apprehended by two white men while running down Seventh street. A search by the men for the person robbed proved unsuccessful and the captive was released before arrival of the police.

D. C. Carpenter Charges Ouster On Work Here

New Complaint Is Filed Against Vocational School Builders.

A new complaint against the Catalano Construction Co., of Baltimore, which is building a colored vocational school in the Northeast, was filed with Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday.

Rocco Benevento, a carpenter, of 1029 Seventh street northwest, stated in an affidavit that he had been discharged when it was learned that he is a resident of the District. Officials of the contracting firm said they wanted only Baltimore workers, he charged.

The Federation of Citizens Association and other civic and trade organization have long campaigned for a statute requiring contractors on District jobs to employ Washington workers, but congressional opposition has been too strong to overcome.

The District Commissioners yesterday approved Mr. Bride's plan to hold a public hearing on the wage complaints of three carpenters and two laborers against the Catalano Co. early next week. Should the contractor be found guilty of violating the Bacon-Davis prevailing wage act, the Commissioners may declare the contract forfeited.

Harold W. Baker, director of construction, said that with a few minor exceptions the construction work done so far passed his inspection.

Razor to Fight Insects Costs Court Sentences

A razor that he carried in his car just to scrape insects off windshields yesterday cost Ed Williams, colored, a sentence of a $50 fine or 30 days in jail when he was haled before Judge Isaac R. Hit on a charge of possessing the weapon.

Williams informed Judge Hitt he carried the razor, which is one of the old-fashioned straight-edge things, so that he could clean windshields when they were coated with insects or tar. His tale proved unsuccessful in gaining leniency.

U. S. Employes Back Pleas for Virginia Buses

Assert Intra-District Service Is Needed; Trolley Lines Fight Plan.

Federal employes yesterday urged the Public Utilities Commission to authorize the restoration of a 5-cent intra-District service on bus lines of the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit and the Arlington & Fairfax Motor Transportation Co.

At a public hearing, which continued all day, representatives of employes stationed at Treasury Department annexes in the Southwest declared that the discontinuation of the service had seriously inconvenienced them. W. Fuller, representing 700 employes of the loans and currency annex, said that many now walk to and from work rather than use the street car service. Mrs. Mattie Rossman, of the Liberty Loan annex, said that she was seldom able to get a seat on a street car and that the bus service was much swifter.

In answer to a question put by People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech both J. H. Parmalee, head of the Arlington & Fairfax line, and R. L. May, owner of the Alexandria buses, stated they were willing to resume the intra-District service with a 5-cent fare if permitted to do so by the commission. The service was halted recently when the commission threatened the companies with prosecution.

Representatives of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. objected vigorously to the proposed resumption of the 5-cent service on the gound that it would constitute unfair competition. William F. Ham, president, was the railway's principal witness.

Heads of both bus lines recalled that the two inter-State railways which they have succeeded, the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington and the Arlington & Fairfax lines, did an intra-District business over a long period of years. They also pointed out that they are required to pay an 8-mills-per-mile District tax.

The Washington Railway & Electric was given ten days in which to file a brief. People's Counsel Keech will also file a brief in support of his demand that the 5-cent service be restored in the interest of the public.

Woman Seeks Help; Gas Jets Turned On

Breaking open the door to gain entrance after receiving a telephone call from the woman saying she was committing suicide, D. F. Dienett, manager of the apartment house at 2700 Q street northwest, last night found Mrs. Dorothy Collins, jr., unconscious on the floor of her kitchenette. Jets of the gas range were open. A note indicated she contemplated suicide.

Revived by the Fire Rescue Squad, the woman was taken to Emergency Hospital, where her condition was reported as being undetermined.

Lorton Gate Rope Fails to Stop Auto

The long watch for activity at Lorton Reformatory is not entirely without comedy.

When Superintendent M. M. Barnard first ordered that the main gate to the reformatory grounds be blocked, Gateman Jimmy O'Neil hung up a huge rope across the entrance.

Dan Minnix, a guard, drove his car through the rope Wednesday night when he failed to see the barrier. Thursday night a car came over the hill and turned into the road that leads to the main grounds. It crashed through the rope. Again it was Dan Minnix.

Yesterday the gateman hung a heavy chain across the entrance.

Commissioners Approve Plans On Road Work

Some Federal Fund Jobs Await Budget Decision on Gas Tax Use.

A tentative list of street improvement projects to be financed by the District's share of the highway portion of the public works fund was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners and was submitted at once to the Bureau of Public Roads.

The list is subject to change and is actually larger than can be financed under the Federal grant of $1,918,469. Inclusion of some of the projects will depend upon what action the Budget Bureau ultimately may take on the highway items proposed under the $1,500,000 gasoline tax fund appropriation.

Construction on a new P Street Bridge and the repaving of several streets fronting Federal buildings are included in the list. The widening and repaving of Fourteenth street southwest from Water street to Constitution avenue also is recommended, along with Constitution avenue from Fourteenth street to Pennsylvania avenue.

Other new paving jobs are: E street, Fifteenth street to West Executive avenue; New Hampshire avenue northeast, North Capitol to District line; Conduit road, Canal to Reservoir roads; Sixteenth street, Columbia road to Tiger Bridge; Good Hope road southeast, Nichols avenue to Naylor road; Commodore Barney Circle southeast.

Streets which were recommended for repairs by the laying of bituminous surface or the construction of curbs and gutters are:

Kenilworth avenue northeast, Benning road to District line; Benning road northeast, Minnesota avenue to District line; Foxall road, Reservoir road to Nebraska avenue; Sheriff road northeast, Minnesota avenue to District line; Connecticut avenue, Newark to Tilden streets, and Van Ness to Fessenden streets; Wisconsin avenue, Massachusetts avenue to River road.

Many Facing Loss Of Beer Licenses

1,400 Dealers in District Fail to Pay Taxes; Time Limit Near.

With only a day and a half remaining to file beer tax returns, less than a third of Washington's 2,000 licensees had reported to the tax assessor's office at the close of business yesterday. Six hundred had paid $5,638.39 in taxes.

No extensions will be granted, officials stated, and delinquent beer dealers will be in danger of having their permits revoked unless they file returns before Monday midnight.

The average number of barrels sold per dealer is slightly above the May figure, but under April's mark. The first month's average was 10.03 barrels, the May average 9.42 and the June average on the basis of the 600 returns is 9.7.

Heroic Men Save Boy From River

Dive Deep to Bring Unconscious Lad to Surface in Eastern Branch.

A colored boy was saved from drowning in Eastern Branch yesterday by the quick action and heroic efforts of two employes of the Smoot Sand & Gravel Corporation, at its Southeast yard at Half and Q streets southeast.

The boy, Julius Haynie, 16, of 1305 First street southeast, was swimming near the docks when he was seized with cramps. He called for help and sank. M. de Vaughn and E. Passano dove into the water, while another employe callled the Fire Rescue Squad. The boy's playmates swam away when their companion got into trouble, the men said.

Unable to find the boy near the surface, the men dove to greater depths and recovered the body about three minutes after he sank. Capt. W. C. Slye administered artificial respiration until the Rescue Squad arrived. The lad was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he is recovering.

Father Sued for $15,000 In "Family Car" Crash

Capt. Fred G. Borden, U. S. A., 3218 Wisconsin avenue northwest, yesterday was named defendant in a damage suit for $15,000 as the result of an auto accident in which his daughter, Louise Borden, 17 years old, figured.

Mrs. Edward L. Mifflin, Ridley Park, Va., instituted the suit. She claimed that her car had come to a stop on the Mount Vernon boulevard when the car driven by Miss Borden struck it. The suit is based on the "family car" doctrine that the head of the family is responsible for damages inflicted by any one in his family who happens to be driving the machine.

Robert Places Cornerstone at New Heat Plant

Lawrence W. Robert, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, delivered the principal address at the laying of the cornerstone of the new $3,500,000 Government heating plant at Thirteenth and C streets southwest, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Robert spread the mortar after putting the big stone in place. Neal A. Melick, United States construction engineer in charge of the building, presided and introduced the Assistant Secretary.

Engraved on the cornerstone were the names: Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States; William H. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury; Lawrence W. Robert, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; James A. Wetmore, acting Supervising Architect; United Engineers & Constructors, Inc., engineers on the job, and Paul Philippe Cret, consulting architect.

The new heating plant will furnish steam to 38 Federal buildings in downtown Washington, including the White House. It covers an entire block and is about 40 per cent completed. The tunnel system for heating the 38 buildings is about 70 per cent completed and is expected to be ready for use by January 1.

Title of Morgue Master Ended By New Holder

J. Bradford McCoy Thinks Chief Clerk of Coroner's Office Is Better.

With the retirement of William Schoneberger, morgue master for 41 years, the title also lapses. For J. Bradford McCoy, appointed to the position last Wednesday, has no use for the appellation.

"Chief clerk of the coroner's office would sound much better," Mr. McCoy said yesterday, "and, after all, what's in a name?"

The new "chief clerk," who for three years has been employed as highway checker at the District highway department, insists that his title in that position was also a misnomer.

"As a matter of fact, 'field party assistant' would have more nearly described my position," he said.

"Furthermore," he continued, "I have even had difficulty with such a simple thing as my own name. I have often been called John Bradford McCoy, but I want it understood that the correct designation is J. Bradford McCoy."

However, be it "morgue master" or "chief clerk," "highway checker" or "field party assistant," "John" or "J.," Mr. McCoy, who formerly operated an X-ray establishment in Cincinnati, has planned the installation of a new system of filing and intends to apply modern business methods in the old, church-like edifice of the dead down on the water front.

Doctors resorted to the transfusion in an effort to check her sinking vitality, following amputation of the girl's left leg on Wednesday. A previous blood transfusion was given Monday.

While Miss Israel fights for her life, Ernest M. Headrick, of Knoxville, Tenn., with whom she had allegedly been living, is being held on open charges by Fifth Precinct police.

Arrest of Six Held Solution To Bank Raids

4 Women and 2 Men Held in Holdups Here; Confession Is Reported.

With the arrest yesterday of four women and two men for questioning by headquarters detectives, police believe they are near the solution of a recent series of Washington bank robberies.

The alleged ring was taken into custody by Detective Sergts. Frank O. Brass and Floyd A. Truscott, following an extensive investigation of bank robberies, during which branches of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank were robbed of more than $30,000.

Detecives refused yesterday to reveal the names of the suspects, saying it would retard the progress of the investigation.

Meanwhile, Spencer Walden, said to be a member of the gang which took part in the $7,600 robbery of the Eighth and K streets southeast branch of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, still is being questioned.

Walden is alleged to have been identified with the robbery at a secret line-up. He is said to have confessed taking part in the $9,000 robbery of the Georgia avenue branch of the bank in June, 1932, and the $14,000 robbery of the branch at Ninth and East Capitol streets in January, 1932.

Civic Group Stresses Buy-in-Capital Plan

Statisticians have estimated that approximately $20,000,000 earned in Washington is spent elsewhere, Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, declared in outlinging a campaign directed toward keeping the Washington-earned dollar at home.

To analyze and investigate this surprising economic situation, Buy-In-Washington, Inc., was established, he said, and through this organization civic leaders propose to stimulate local trade by getting at and remedying the conditions responsible for this vast out-of-town expenditure. W. H. Brown is president and director of the organization.

Girl Leaves Home To Visit Father

Mother, Here, Asks Police to Aid in Search for Daughter of 14.

The combined emotions of homesickness and parent love are believed to have impelled 14-year-old Jessie Moore to leave her home yesterday at 1511 Franklin street northeast for Chillicothe, Mo., her former home and now the residence of her father.

Jessie, who has been living in Washington with her mother at the Franklin street address since Christmas, was heard talking to a friend and saying that she was going home. The mother, Mrs. Florence Moore, thought she was joking.

However, the child failed to appear for lunch and a lookout was sent by police. She is believed hitch-hiking to Missouri.

Educator Decries 'Bookish Concepts'

Dr. French Advises Parley to Concentrate More on People's Needs.

"In our educational set-up our approach to social concepts has been too bookish, too foreign to the issues of daily living," Dr. William Cullen French, professor of education at George Washington University, declared yesterday at the closing session of the Conference on Curriculum.

"We need to concern ourselves with the things that people are struggling over," he said, "the problems of the farmer, laborer, industrialist and banker."

The conference is the first of a series of three to be held at George Washington University for the consideration of special education problems. The next conference, on the National Survey of Secondary Education, will open on July 17, under the direction of Dr. William John Cooper, former United States Commissioner of Education.
